U. S. Lives Lost as Army Flies 700 Planes to China

ASSASSIN PLOT PART OF PLAN TO GRAB CZECHS

Decided to Starve Millions of Reds

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 26—Stories of Nazi plottings for war—from the rape of Austria and Czechoslovakia to Japan's pre-Pearl Harbor relations with Adolf Hitler, including plans for collaboration in a war against the United States—were laid before the international war crimes tribunal today.

The detailed accounts, constructed by the American prosecution staff from the written words of the Nazis, revealed that Hitler had planned to assassinate the German ambassador to Prague, if necessary, to justify his attack on Czechoslovakia. The accounts disclosed that Hitler had deliberately planned to starve millions of Russians to get food for the German army.

Reveal Plans for War

Other major revelations were:

The secret appointment of Hjalmar Schacht as plenipotentiary general for war economy in 1935, four years before the war actually began.

Hitler's secret announcement in November, 1937, that he envisaged the expulsion of 3,000,000 persons from Austria and Czechoslovakia after seizing the two countries at an opportune moment.

"Case green," Hitler's plan for conquering Czechoslovakia in four days, which was outlined in April, 1938.

Hitler's plan in May, 1939, to invade Holland and Belgium in the event of war with France and Britain.

Hitler's decision Aug. 22, 1939, to destroy Poland.

Would Live Off Russia

The ruthlessness of the nazi militarists appeared best expressed, Assistant Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said, in a memorandum attached to the Russian invasion plan, perfected five months before the attack.

The memorandum said Germany could continue the war only if all her armed forces were fed from Russia during the third year of the conflict—that is, after the fall of 1941. It added what Alderman called "these sinister words": "There is no doubt that millions of people would be starved to death if we took out of the country [Russia] the things needed by us."

Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, Briton who is presiding over the four nation tribunal, and other Britons participating in the trial, kept their dignities intact when a document, dated April 4, 1941, quoted Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka for the opinion that the United States would fight if Japan attacked Singapore, but not in defense of China. Hitler was quoted as replying that the United States hoped some day to advance with Great Britain against Japan.

Charge Nazis Incited Japs

Prosecutor Alderman, in presenting the document, described it as evidence that the Nazis had incited the Japanese to fight the United

Senate Acts on Bill Giving Up War Powers

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—Amid demands for congress to relinquish its constitutional war making powers, the senate today began consideration of legislation which makes final provision for United States participation in the new league of nations.

The measure defines the powers of the American representative to the new peace organization created last June in San Francisco. As it reaches the floor, it would empower the United States delegate appointed by the President to vote the nation into any war without consulting congress.

The Singing Cowboy

Only thus, the chamber was told, can the new organization be assured of the necessary power to preserve world peace. The debate was featured by a suggestion by Sen. Taylor [D., Idaho], known as the singing cowboy, that this is the time to establish "some kind of world government."

While stanchly supporting the pending bill, Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, cautioned his colleagues against chasing the "butterfly" of world organization. Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], a leading senate internationalist, protested at what he termed "sneering" at the prospects of world government, whereupon Connally replied:

"We can best serve international peace by remaining American. That's why I oppose now a world state which would submerge this country. America must remain American."

Strong Attacks Prepared

Many members of congress have previously protested any proposal that congress yield its war making powers to a representative of the President. Several senators have prepared strong attacks upon the measure and its consideration is expected to precipitate a full scale debate on United States participation in the schemes of internationalists underwritten by American taxpayers and their fighting forces.

The bill provides that the American representative shall be appointed by the President with the approval of the senate. He would have the rank of envoy extraordinary and ambassador plenipotentiary and would draw a salary of $20,000 a year. The President could fire him at will.

Could Be Superseded

This representative would be the American delegate to the league's security council or enforcement body. The President or secretary of state, however, could supersede him at any league meeting. While the American representative is empowered to vote in the security council for war--such votes being taken to maintain or restore world peace—congress would retain control over the number and types of forces to be furnished by the United States in response to the council's call.

As chairman of the foreign relations committee, Connally urged passage of the measure without change. He opened debate by calling attention to the fact that even as the chamber begins considering legislation designed to promote peace, the world is still beset with war in far quarters of the globe.

Summarizing current strife in the East Indies, China, Palestine, Iran, Argentina, and Spain, the Texan asserted that the new league is "the only bright spot in the sky." He said the action of the organization must not be "hampered" by restrictions on the authority of the President.

BRITON URGES EUROPEAN BLOC TO AVERT WARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—L. S. Amery, former secretary of state for India, today suggested formation of a European commonwealth to save the continent from another war. No actual surrender of national sovereignties would be necessary in such federation altho it could come about only by the free will of the nations concerned, he told a public rally.

With all Europe looking to Britain for security against another cataclysm, the former secretary asserted, "in giving such a lead we must face frankly the initial opposition we are bound to meet from the United States."

Pick Murder Jury to Try Doctor's Wife

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25 (AP)—Seven men and five women were selected today to try socially prominent Annie Irene Mansfeldt on charges of murdering Vada Martin, 36, a nurse, who she believed had stolen her husband's love.

The physician husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, 48, committed suicide by poison shortly after the death of the nurse, Mrs. Vada Martin, 36, last Oct. 4, a coroner's jury found.

As the 45 year old, once beautiful defendant, dressed in black, entered the courtroom her mother, Mrs. Susie Hunter of Fresno, and an aunt, Mrs. Jeanette Thorne, who is caring for the three young Mansfeldt children, went forward to embrace her. They were ordered back to their seats by the court bailiff.

Husband in Court

The husband of the slain nurse, Navy Chief Machinist Wilbur L. Martin of Baltimore, Md., sat in the front row of spectators. He was on duty in the Pacific when his wife was shot.

Mrs. Mansfeldt, who has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, sat with her forehead resting in her left hand during most of the questioning.

Defense Atty. James M. MacInnis asked prospective jurors if they would follow the law if it was shown Mrs. Mansfeldt was not "conscious" of the events which occurred at her fatal meeting with Mrs. Martin.

Hints at Struggle

The defense also hinted there had been a struggle while Mrs. Mansfeldt and the latter sat in an automobile discussing Dr. Mansfeldt just before the shooting.

The prosecution inquired whether the jurors would give any consideration to the "unwritten law" and received negative replies. The court will begin hearing testimony tomorrow.

Gas Strike Called Off; London 'Black-Out' Ends

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—A strike of 1,000 gas workers which had given many London areas three blacked out nights ended tonight. The strikers returned to their jobs following a mass meeting at which it was announced that their demand for withdrawal of dismissal notices had been granted and that negotiations on a pay increase of 33½ per cent for night work would be speeded up.

4 KILLED, 20 HURT IN EXPLOSION AT FOOD WAREHOUSE

Newark, N. J., Nov. 26 [Special]—Four men died and 20 were injured when an ammonia refrigerating plant exploded today in the Atlantic and Pacific food stores' warehouse in Frelinghuysen, on the western rim of the Pennsylvania railroad frate yards.

The dead were: James Herrington, 27; George Dempsey, 36; Joseph Gagan, 52, and Howard Schwal, 38.

The blast occurred on the ground level, in either the banana or meat refrigerating rooms, and tore a 30 foot hole in the hollow tile wall.

URGES WORLD CAPITAL AT SITE OF OLD LEAGUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Nov. 26—As the united nations preparatory commission begins deliberations in London to name a permanent capital for the new world organization, the International Diplomatic academy comes forward with a suggestion that a federal district be established around the buildings of the old league of nations as the seat of the league's successor.

The academy, with its headquarters normally in Paris, but now temporarily located in Geneva, Switzerland, includes 27 chiefs of state, 47 foreign ministers, and 512 ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary, representing 73 countries.

The academy's plan for the UNO capital calls for the creation of a "city of nations" on the pattern of the Vatican City and grouped around the international buildings in Geneva. This plan, it is believed, would really create an absolutely independent international territory.

AT AGE OF 108 SHE'S A PISTOL PACKING MAMA!

New Orleans, La., Nov. 26 (AP)—A little woman who said she was 108 years old laid a pistol down on the desk of Police Sgt. Raymond Oorman here today and told him, "I just shot a man." She did not know whether her bullet hit the man, but said "He tried to run me down with his motorcycle."

Then in walked William M. Todd, 32, who told the officer the woman fired a shot at him while he was trying to get his motorcycle started. Todd said the woman pulled a pistol out of her pocket and walked up to him saying, "You've been trying to hoodoo me, and I'm going to kill you." No charges were filed. The woman's name was not disclosed.

London Gives State Street the Brush-Off

BY WARD WALKER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—The State Street council's gesture of good will to the London Chamber of Commerce—a 4 by 6 foot silk banner commemorating the first Chicago to London flight—came a cropper today in the slightly stuffy atmosphere of the chamber of commerce office.

Lewis King, vice president of the American Airlines, delegated to make delivery of the handsome banner, tried all last week to reach the organization's president. Today, on the eve of his departure for America, he assaulted the sanctum of civic boosters, London version, banner in hand, ready to pose for a photographer.

"No Publicity"

He found only the assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce there.

"The president is in Scotland," the assistant secretary explained.

"Where's the photographer?" King asked.

"I sent him home," the assistant secretary replied.

In the meantime THE TRIBUNE had called to make arrangements for the photographer. The secretory said, "No photographs, no publicity. Sorry."

"Didn't Ask for It"

When asked why the presentation was being kept secret, the secretary replied, "We did not ask to be presented with the banner."

He finally accepted the banner grudgingly.

There has been only slight mention in the London papers of the flight, and that dealt largely with the British air lines' sleepiness in letting the Americans get the jump.

11 OF 22 P-51S CRASH IN HOP THRU STORMS

Expect Nationalists to Get Aircraft

SHANGHAI, Nov. 26 [Delayed by Chinese Censor] (AP)—At a cost in American lives, virtually every flyable United States airplane in India and Burma is being flown over the hump to China, presumably for distribution to the Chinese government, the Associated Press learned today.

Some 700 fighters and transports are involved in one of the greatest mass flights of the China-Burma-India theater—in such miserable weather that already several of the aircraft have crashed with loss of life.

11 Crashes in One Hop

On one hop from Kunming to the Shanghai area, 22 P-51s encountered a terrific weather front and there were 11 crashes. That was last Thursday during the initial stage of the operation. Other mishaps may have occurred since.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commanding general of air forces in the China theater, declined to discuss details of the flight or the number of accidents "because they are under investigation at this time."

However, it was learned from sources in a position to know the full details that the flight was ordered by the war department and is being carried out by the 14th and 10th air forces. The 14th is flying fighters and the 10th is bringing transports.

To Three Airdromes

The only orders received by the China theater have been to bring the planes to three airdromes in the greater Shanghai area, which includes Nanking. No instructions yet have been received as to their ultimate disposition, but even top air officers here say with a wink that the aircraft undoubtedly will be given to Chinese nationalists of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Chinese press said a few weeks ago that America had decided to hand over 1,300 aircraft to the central government but the war department countered that no such number had been decided upon.

United States lend-lease officials here have indicated strongly that all flyable planes in China would be flown to the United States upon termination of lend-lease.

Stirs Angry Debate

Loss of American lives in such a post-war operation clearly is hard on the tempers of Yanks who are weary of walking the Chinese [civil war] tight rope and are debating angrily whether they ought to be risking their lives three months after the end of the war.

The attitude of officials of the air force is that of sincere regret that some Americans had to lose their lives on the operation, but it is vital that the United States protect allied gains in China.

At Washington, war department officials said there was no comment tonight.

Nine Airmen Lost

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 26—The National Broadcasting company, in a broadcast from Shanghai, China, today said at least nine American flyers lost their lives and at least 12 planes were lost out of a flight of 22 P-51s when they encountered bad weather on a routine flight to Shanghai. Cal Hirsch, broadcasting from Shanghai, said the crews of only two of the Mustangs had been rescued. Search was being made for the missing planes, which were forced off their course and crashed or landed at inland points last Thursday. Hirsch said American officials refused to reveal details. The planes were reported on a flight from a former United States air base in China.

400 Lb. Chunk of Stone Hits Trolley Car; 2 Hurt

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—A 400 pound chunk of stone and metal from a seventh floor cornice of a building today fell on a trolley car, slightly injuring two persons. Other passengers, altho uninjured, became hysterical.

U. S. Supreme Court Asked to Hear 'Tiger'

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 27 [Tuesday]—The defense counsel for Gen. Yamashita today sought a foothold in the United States Supreme court by air mail and radio telegraph with a petition requesting permission to file for a writ of habeas corpus and a prohibition similar to the plea now pending before the Supreme court of the Philippines.

The petition requesting permission to file was sent by air mail, and a radiogram, informing Charles E. Cropley, United States Supreme court clerk, that an air mail letter was on its way, also was sent.

Defense attorneys said the reason for such an unusual procedure was the fact that if the Philippines Supreme court delayed long enough and then announced that it was without jurisdiction, Yamashita could be found guilty, sentenced to death and the sentence carried out before a second appeal could travel to the United States high court.

Names Gen. MacArthur

The petition will name Gen. MacArthur, Secretary of War Patterson and Lt. Gen. W. D. Styer, commanding general in the Western Pacific, as the men having jurisdiction over the trial. A defense attorney who visited Styer's office to leave a "courtesy copy" of the petition reported a reception verging on alarm, since Styer so far has managed to avoid actual service of a Philippine Supreme court writ. When the courtesy nature of today's paper was explained, however, it was accepted.

The Philippine Supreme court is expected to hand down its decision some time this week, and even if it is adverse the defense still may receive permission to be heard at Washington.

Defense Scores Point

Defense counsel scored heavily today when the chief of the translation section of the allied high command testified he had never seen any orders among the countless documents seized thruout the Philippines which incriminated Yamashita.

Capt. Norman Sparnon, an Australian expert on the Japanese language, was questioned by Capt. Milton Sandberg of New York City.

Q.—How many such items were captured in the Philippines? A—Thousands.

Q.—Did you ever see among them an order signed by Yamashita ordering the destruction of the entire city of Manila? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever see an order of Yamashita ordering the killing of noncombatant civilians thruout the Philippines? A.—No.

Tells of Rice Shortage

Q.—Did you ever see an order signed by Yamashita ordering the killing of prisoners of war? A.—No.

Capt. Sparnon then identified translations of Japanese diaries and other papers showing that the Jap army faced a grave rice shortage at the end of last year and the beginning of 1945 and that steps had to be taken to prevent what rice there was from falling into the hands of the guerrillas.

Capt. Sparnon testified that he had never seen any copy of "orders from Tokyo" which, according to a documentary film on the fighting in Manila shown 10 days ago by the prosecution, had directed the destruction of Manila.

NOT CONSULTED BY U. S. ON JAPS, GREW TESTIFIES

Advice Ignored, Probers Told

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—A somber tale of official blindness in Washington was unfolded before the Pearl Harbor investigating committee today by Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and foremost American authority on the far east from 1932 until enemy bombs fell on the Pacific fleet Dec. 7, 1941, when he was interned.

Joseph C. Grew, testifying before committee. [Acme Telephoto]

Uncomplainingly, the bushy eyebrowed diplomat with the alert blue eyes stated the facts of his nine year stay in Tokyo. He was often ignored by Washington. His warning of a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor was scoffed at by naval intelligence 10 months before Jap planes rained destruction on the unsuspecting fleet.

The late President Roosevelt did not consult this expert on Japanese opinion when he decided to base the fleet at Pearl Harbor in May, 1940, as a "deterrent influence" on Japan. Nor was Grew even aware, he confessed, that the United States was decoding hundreds of Japanese messages in 1940 and 1941 which gave evidence of increasingly hostile intentions on the part of the Japs.

Kept in the Dark

He was kept in the dark regarding this information just as were Maj. Gen. Short and Rear Adm. Kimmel, the commanding officers at Hawaii.

Grew didn't know the fleet was undermanned, underprovisioned, and totally unready for war, as attested by Adm. J. O. Richardson, its commander in 1940, he conceded. In the absence of that knowledge he did think the presence of the fleet at Pearl Harbor had a restraining influence on Japan, but no one ever asked him for his opinion.

Grew also said the army board of inquiry misrepresented his testimony when it quoted him as saying that State Secretary Hull's counterproposal to the Japanese on Nov. 26, 1941, "touched the button that started the war." He had never thought the Hull proposal an "ultimatum," he testified, and what he told the army board was that the Japanese chose to regard it as an ultimatum and thus touched the button that brought on war.

Tells of F. D. R. Note

The witness testified that President Roosevelt's last minute appeal on the night of Dec. 6 to Emperor Hirohito to withdraw troops from Indo-China and thus preserve peace in the Pacific was delayed in delivery to him for nearly 11 hours in the Tokyo postoffice. He was never allowed to deliver it personally, he said, and he was handed an unsigned reply four hours after the attack had started.

Questioned about Mr. Roosevelt's overruling of Fleet Comdr. Richardson and basing of the fleet at Pearl Harbor in 1940, Grew first said he could not recall "a specific reaction" in Japan to the move.

"The Japanese always took the position that relations between the two countries could never improve until the removal of the entire fleet from the Pacific to the Atlantic," he said.

Never Officially Advanced

"However, I do not recall that this preposterous suggestion was ever advanced officially."

Adm. Richardson had tried to tell the President, he testified, that the Japs knew the fleet was undermanned, undersupplied and unprepared for action and keeping the fleet bottled up in Pearl Harbor would not deter them from aggressive action. He was removed from his post four months later after being informed by Navy Secretary Knox he had "hurt the President's feelings."

Questioned by Sen. Brewster [R., Me.], Grew said he could not recall ever having been consulted before the fleet was ordered to remain at Pearl Harbor in May, 1940.

Made Many Reports

"Yet you were our main reliance for information on Japanese opinion" remarked Brewster. "Did you ever report on the significance or effect of keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor?"

"I made a great many reports," was Grew's reply. "It is perfectly possible that I did. So far as I know I was never asked."

Under further questioning by Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] Grew said he believed the fleet's presence in Pearl Harbor exercised a restraining influence on Japan. He recalled that he had discussed the fleet with the Japanese naval minister in June, 1940, and assured that official the fleet was in Hawaiian waters because Pearl Harbor was "an important naval port."

The witness admitted he did not know the fleet was unready for war, as testified by Adm. Richardson.

Had No Effect

"What restraining influence did it have on Dec. 7, 1941?" asked Gearhart.

"Definitely no effect," conceded Grew.

The ambassador on Jan. 27, more than 10 months before the Pearl Harbor attack, had wired State Secretary Hull that the Peruvian minister had heard from many sources, including a Japanese source, that the Japanese military planned, in the event of trouble with the United States," "to attempt a mass attack on Pearl Harbor using all of their military facilities." Altho the project "seemed fantastic," there was "a lot of talk around town" to the same effect, Grew remarked.

Rumors Discounted

Adm. Stark, chief of naval operations, on Feb. 1 forwarded the report to Adm. Kimmel with the notation that "the division of naval intelligence places no credence in these rumors," and that "no move against Pearl Harbor appears imminent or planned for the foreseeable future."

Questioned by Assistant Counsel Gessel, Grew related in detail his constant attempts to warn Washington of Japan's warlike intentions after he first went to Toyko in 1932. By 1941, his messages had become most explicit. He repeatedly stressed the fact, these communications placed in the record showed, that the attack upon the United States would come with "dramatic and dangerous suddenness."

"In 1941, the evidence was abundantly clear," he told the committee, "that they were likely to attack at any time."

No Access to Messages

"Did you have access to the intercepted messages which were being decoded by us?"

"I had no access to them. I didn't know they existed."

[Some 800 of these decoded messages have been placed in the record. They revealed that American intelligence was continually informed of Japanese movements and espionage right up to the eve of the Dec. 7 attack.]

Asked when he had concluded in his own mind that war with Japan was inevitable, Grew declared:

"I think my position was like that of a candidate for political office who knows he's going to be defeated but isn't going to admit it until it's all over."

"Was Japan going to strike, in your opinion, without a declaration of war?"

One U. S. Code Unbroken

"When a criminal commits a crime, the FBI and Scotland Yard examines the technique of the crime to spot the criminal. Japan had struck Russia without warning at Port Arthur in 1905. The same pattern was to be expected."

Asked if the Japanese were decoding our messages as we were theirs, Grew related a conversation with a Japanese officer who remarked that the United States had "one unbreakable code." This implied, Grew said, that the Japs were decoding all but one of our ciphers.

The prestige of the military in Japan was so low in the 1920s, Grew said, that officers didn't wear their uniforms off duty. The invasion of Manchuria was a successful attempt to restore army prestige, he said, and the "extremists" grew in power.

Extremists Take Over

As late as the summer of 1941, however, he told the committee, Prime Minister Konoe "was doing his best to bring about an improvement of relations between Japan and the United States," but when Prime Minister Tojo took over on Oct. 16, the extremists took control.

Grew told a dramatic story concerning Mr. Roosevelt's personal message to the Japanese emperor which was dispatched Dec. 6, the night before the attack. The President urged the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Indo-China to keep peace in the South Pacific.

"On the evening of Dec. 7 [Jap time, Dec. 6 United States time] I heard over the radio that the President had sent a message to the emperor," he told the committee. "I received the message at 10:30 p. m. It had been held up in the Japanese postoffice since noon, more than 10 hours. I saw the Japanese foreign minister, Togo, shortly after midnight and demanded a personal audience with the emperor altho Togo wanted me to give it to him.

Locked Up—That's Story

"At 7 a. m. next morning, the phone at my bedside rang and Mr. Kase, the minister's secretary, said he had been trying to reach me since 5 a. m. The phone had not rung before. I went to the palace at 7:30 a. m. in formal clothes, expecting to see the emperor. Togo slapped a document on the table and said it was the emperor's reply. It was not signed. It stated conversations between the two countries had been cut off. I didn't think it was serious because conversations had been cut off before and resumed. I didn't know that the fleet had been bombed four hours before.

"Back at the embassy, I heard the newsboy crying a special edition telling of the attack. An hour later, the police came and locked us up. That's the story."

Grew criticized the army board report on the Pearl Harbor attack for quoting him as saying the Nov. 26 proposal of Secretary Hull to the Japanese envoys had "touched the button that started the war."

Denies Hull Ultimatum

"The Hull proposal was not an ultimatum in either tone or substance," he told the committee. "What I told the army board was that the army and navy had their plans ready for the attack and it was about the time the Nov. 26 proposal was received that the button was touched that started the war. A wrong impression was given my testimony. I don't understand why the army board made such a strange construction of it."

The Japs never made public the Nov. 26 proposal in their own country, Grew said, until after Pearl Harbor and then the paper in which it was published was confiscated quickly.

"Prominent Japanese told me," he testified, "that the people would have opposed the intransigent attitude of Japan to the United States if they had known the nature of the proposal."

New Recruiters

Maj. William S. Clark, thrice wounded hero of the Attu, Tarawa, Saipan, and Mindanao campaigns, and Capt. David M. Walker, who was wounded four times in action in Europe, have been assigned to duty at the army recruiting station, 166 W. Van Buren st.

Maj. Clark, who lives at 400 Deming pl., was a member of the Alaskan Scouts and led an underwater demolition team which helped clear the way for the assault on Tarawa. In an interview yesterday he said the worst war experience he had to endure was the weather on Attu.

Capt. Walker, whose home is at 30 W. Chicago av., served with the 36th infantry division, and was wounded at Salerno, Cassino, near Rome, and in France. He said his toughest time was the crossing of the Rapido river in Italy, which was a feint to help the American army's landing at Anzio. Capt. Walker said his regiment's normal strength of 3,500 men was down to 500 effective after the Rapido river action.

HULL DENIES WARNING

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—Former State Secretary Hull told the congressional Pearl Harbor committee today he had no recollection of having been told the United States fleet was unsafe at the Pearl Harbor base in which it was blasted by Japanese carrier planes Dec. 7, 1941.

Hull's statement, made in reply to a question of Gerhard Gesell, assistant counsel of the joint investigating committee, was in denial of testimony given by Adm. J. O. Richardson, fleet commander in 1940, that he had warned the fleet's security was in danger at the Hawaiian base and that it should be moved to the west coast.

"My memory could be at fault," Hull testified, "but I don't recall that any one flatly stated the fleet couldn't protect itself at Pearl Harbor."

On Stand 55 Minutes

An agreement between the committee and Hull's family limits his time in the witness chair to 45 minutes a day because of his failing health, but the former cabinet member spent 55 minutes under the glaring newsreel floodlights this morning answering questions in the pithy language of his native Tennessee hills. The audience in the crowded committee room applauded as he left the stand.

Hull told the committee that in November, 1941, he knew the Japanese were "hell bent" on carrying out their aggressive military policy but that he was grabbing at every straw to gain time for the United States "and our future allies" to prepare for war.

Questioned by Rep. Cooper [D., Tenn.], Hull denied his counter-proposals given to the Japanese envoys Nov. 26, 1941, constituted an ultimatum. His note was a reply to the Japanese ultimatum of a week previous.

Anxious to Negotiate

"We were most anxious to continue negotiations," Hull said. "We offered a normal plan for international relations. Every one, the state department, the President, and others were agreed upon that. It asked the Japanese to say they were thru with aggression.

'They then had their fleet on the way—as we later found out—and had ordered their envoys to break off the conversations. We were satisfied that they were prepared to attack at any time. They manufactured the falsehood that our note was an ultimatum to cover their own ultimatum."

Previous reports on the Pearl Harbor disaster, including the army and navy board of inquiry reports, have agreed that Hull's Nov. 26 note touched off the attack. Altho the Japanese fleet already was under way, Tokyo was prepared to call off the attack if the negotiations took a favorable—to Japan—turn, navy witnesses testified early in the present inquiry.

Calls Japan Desperado

Asked by Gesell what the state department's attitude was in regard to keeping the fleet at Pearl Harbor, Hull said he felt it would be "more or less useful" to keep the fleet there during the critical period of international relations in 1940 and 1941.

"We were dealing with one of the worst international desperadoes in the person of Japan," Hull declared. "Japan was dangerous, treacherous, undependable in every way. We felt it should be foremost in our policy in dealing with Japan to have our navy standing by. . . .

"Some one suggested we were trying to bluff the Japanese. The truth is we were in our own waters, on our own side of the Pacific, pursuing a peaceful, inoffensive course. We were pleading with Japan for peaceful relations."

ICY WATERS HIDE BODIES OF BUS PLUNGE VICTIMS

Chelan, Wash., Nov. 26 [Special]—Little mittens, children's hats, lunch baskets, and school books bobbed forlornly on the icy waters of Lake Chelan tonight, tragic evidence of this community's greatest loss.

Below these once treasured possessions, in 60 feet of water, are the bodies of 14 children and the driver of their school bus.

The body of Henry Davis, 16, the 15th pupil to die, was recovered late tonight.

Only six persons survived the sudden tragedy that ensued when the bus, en route to school with its cargo of boys and girls, struck a rock on the lake bordering highway during a blinding snowstorm. Out of control, it careened down an embankment and plunged into the water.

Frantic Struggles Ended

Screams of frightened children mingled with the crash of windows broken in the vehicle's wild dive off the road. Then it struck the water. It floated for a moment or two. Slowly it began to sink, it dipped and was gone, ending most of the frantic struggles of the trapped children trying to reach the broken windows.

"For years we tried to get a good road in here so it would be safe for the kids," said Roger Hale, who lost two small sons. "We don't need it now. The kids are gone."

Six families lost two children each in the accident.

Among the survivors was Mrs. Ted Brown, 37, who had caught a ride on the school bus to keep a dentist's appointment here. The others were children.

Breaks Thru Window

"It was terrible, but I don't remember much of what happened after the bus left the road," related Mrs. Brown, who suffered from shock. "We hit the water, then the next thing I knew I was lying on the beach."

Others told how Mrs. Brown broke a window and helped some of the survivors thru. One of those she helped out of the bus was Bernard Gilmore, 9, but he drowned before he could get to shore.

Bob Watson, 7, suffering from shock and exposure, said he was able to save himself because he "learned to swim good."

"After the bus hit the rock it started sliding toward the lake," he related. "Several windows were broken when the bus went down the bank. The kids were screaming.

"When the bus went into the lake it floated for a little bit. I got thru a broken window, then I swam ashore."

On the beach he was joined by two other survivors, Donnie Mack, 13, and Ethel Keck, 10. Donnie had the presence of mind to go to a near-by forest service telephone and send to this town of 1,700, nine miles east of the scene, the first word of the tragedy.

Then the three, shivering in their wet clothes, walked a mile toward Chelan until they were met by cars speeding to the rescue, and were taken home.

After the first rush of people to the scene, the road was barred and only the parents were permitted near the spot where boatmen worked thruout the day.

Lake Dragged for Hours

Men in small boats dragged the lake for hours before they located the bus and finally succeeded in hooking a line to it. Workmen awaited the arrival of divers from Seattle and Grand Coulee dam before attempting to raise it.

At the time of the accident, shortly after 8 a. m., the bus was returning to Chelan with its load of children, all from the farm community in the 25 Mile Creek district, 10 to 20 miles above Chelan.

The bus driver, Jack Randle, 26, who was married and the father of a small child, was described as an expert driver. A recently discharged war veteran, he had spent 20 months on Attu driving army trucks under conditions often much worse than the last snow he encountered today.

U. S. TRIAL OPENS FOR 17 WAITERS IN $90,000 FRAUD

Seventeen Negro dining car waiters alleged to have defrauded the Erie railroad of $90,000 went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy on charges of conspiracy to steal from trains in interstate commerce. Robert E. Hairston, 35, of Cleveland, O., who was an 18th defendant, pleaded guilty and was the government's first witness. Hairston, who was a head waiter, said the waiters conspired to keep money paid to them for oral orders. Asst. United States Atty. George G. Kelly and Atty. Henry L. Balaban, representing the defendants, estimated the trial would continue thru the week.

$90,287,000 ASKED IN CITY BUDGET; DEEP CUTS LOOM

City Controler Robert B. Upham was faced with a huge headache yesterday as he finished compiling departmental estimates for operating expenses in the 1946 city budget, which reached a new high of $90,287,000. This represents an increase of $29,341,000 over the estimates department heads submitted a year ago and must be pared down to at least $65,787,000, which Upham estimates is the ceiling on the city's revenue for the 1946 corporate purposes fund.

Chief item responsible for the increase is a 17 million dollar appropriation for new sewer construction requested by Thomas D. Garry, city superintendent of sewers. This item, it was learned, faces a veto and any sewer construction that will be done within the next few years will be paid for by a bond issue.

In summing up his estimates of revenue for the corporate fund [city operating expenses] Upham said that $36,900,000 would come from taxes, $24,987,000 thru licenses, inspection fees, and miscellaneous sources, and $3,900,000 from funds appropriated but not used during the last year.

Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of a council subcommitte on pay raises, yesterday began hearings for employe groups who are demanding increases totaling nearly 8 million dollars.

ARVEY TO GET LEGION OF MERIT AWARD TODAY

Lt. Col. Jacob M. [Jake] Arvey, Chicago park district commissioner and a veteran of the Pacific, will be awarded the Legion of Merit today for his work as judge advocate general and civil affairs officer of the 33d division, Illinois national guard.

The medal will be presented to Col. Arvey at a luncheon in the Standard club by Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, who took the 33d division into the United States army in 1941. Gen. Lawton will act as representative of Maj. Gen. Percy Clarkson, who led the Illinois unit in the Philippine campaign. The award was made on the recommendation of Gen. MacArthur.

Col. Arvey resigned from the city council and as Democratic committeeman of the 24th ward in January, 1941, to go into training with the Illinois troops as a major.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SPENDING BILL CUT 576 MILLION BY HOUSE GROUP

Report Charges Bureaus Ignore Economy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—With a warning that a "growing spending psychology" in the federal government must be "dissipated," the house appropriations committee today slashed 576 million dollars, or 34 per cent, from fund requests totaling 1 billion 707 millions for 35 departments and bureaus.

In approving supplemental funds of 1 billion 131½ million dollars for the current fiscal year, the committee reported "with regret" that agency heads seeking more funds showed little "conception of the need to contract government spending."

It said many requests for more money were reduced or rejected because the real need is for "better and firmer coördination by top administrators."

UNRRA Funds Approved

While this proposed domestic spending was being curtailed, two other congressional committees voted additional money from the American treasury for relief abroad.

In the house, the foreign affairs committee approved a bill authorizing a second contribution of 1 billion 350 million dollars for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

The action was taken after the committee's Democratic majority defeated attempts by Republican members to write safeguarding admendments into the bill. One rejected safeguard would have permitted American press representatives to make uncensored reports on UNRRA activities abroad. Another would have required that goods distributed by UNRRA be marked to show the "national source" of such supplies.

Release of Money Voted

The senate appropriations committee, meanwhile, voted to release to UNRRA 550 million dollars already authorized but not yet disbursed to the agency out of the first commitment of 1 billion 350 millions.

The senate group deleted a house approved "free press" rider on the bill and also struck out a proposal requiring UNRRA, in buying farm products, to purchase them in the United States at parity prices or higher. The latter proviso had been approved by a senate subcommittee considering the bill.

In cutting more than half a billion dollars from fund requests of the various federal agencies, the house appropriations group said some of the larger deleted items should be given further study in the interest of probable economies.

Items eliminated without prejudice, for later consideration, include 24½ millions asked for temporary veterans' housing, 158 millions for veterans' hospitals, and 128½ millions for rivers and harbors, and flood control projects.

Saving Largely Nullified

The group also denied a request of 191 million dollars for expenses of surplus property disposal, but the apparent saving was largely nullified by an authorization to permit expenses up to 170 millions to be charged against proceeds from sales.

Rep. Taber [R., N. Y.] said he and other G. O. P. members will fight any attempt on the house floor to reinstate the proposed reductions.

It is expected some members may seek to restore flood control and similar items affecting their districts, but many of these reportedly were denounced in today's closed committee session as "pork barrel" and "WPA" projects.

Chief items in the bill as reported include 928 million dollars for national service life insurance, 77 millions for reclamation projects, 25 millions for federal aid highways, and 12½ millions allotted to states for planning public works.

Throng Witnesses Decoration of Gen. Marshall

TRUMAN HONORS MARSHALL; SAYS HE'S 'GREATEST'

General Gets Cluster on His DSM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—(AP)—President Truman pinned another decoration on George C. Marshall today and 20,000 cheered this tribute to the retired chief of staff.

Mr. Truman called it "the most important such ceremony in which I have had the privilege to participate." It was held in the inner courtyard of the Pentagon, war department headquarters.

Marshall has been chief of staff since Sept. 1, 1939. Gen. Eisenhower has been named to succeed him.

Credit for Victory

The award was the oak leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal. The citation credited Marshall with giving his country victory—also:

1. "The vision that brought into being the greatest military force in history."

2. "Greater influence than any other man on the strategy of victory" because he could make the allies understand this country's true potentiality in personnel and materiel.

3. Being the first to recognize that victory would depend on our capacity to ring the earth with supply lines, to arm willing allies and overcome the enemy with superior fire power.

4. Being the first "to see the technological cunning and consequent greater danger of the nazi enemy."

Head of 'The Great'

5. Being the "master proponent of a ground assault across the English channel into the plains of western Europe directed by a single supreme allied commander."

6. Preventing the Japanese from becoming entrenched in their stolen empire "and enabling our timely advances across the Pacific" by insisting on unremitting pressure against them.

7. Obtaining from congress the big sums that made possible the atomic bomb, "well knowing that failure would be his sole responsibility."

And in conclusion—

"He takes his place at the head of the great commanders of history." Marshall appeared almost shy as he turned to read his appreciation speech. Mrs. Marshall, a slight figure in a gray coat trimmed in black fur, watched proudly.

URGES YOUTH DRAFT TO HELP ENFORCE PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—Navy Secretary Forrestal, backing peace time conscription of the nation's youths, told congress today that if the United States "goes back to bed again" by weakening its defenses, "we scarcely deserve to survive as a nation."

The secretary told the house military affairs committee, considering the conscription plan, that the greatest impetus to a third world war would be the knowledge by other nations that we have "reverted to the comfortable complacency" that invited aggression by Hitler and the Japanese.

Forrestal said that one year's continuous military training of boys 18-20, as proposed by President Truman, is the most effective known means of keeping this country strong enough to defend itself and enforce peace hopes.

HINT HALIFAX'S POST MAY GO TO SIR BEN SMITH

LONDON, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—British Ambassador Halifax wishes to be relieved of his post at Washington, D. C., political observers here believe, and it is understood he has been assured that efforts will be made to replace him soon.

Political quarters believe Halifax, appointed to the Washington embassy by the coalition government in 1941, will be replaced by a public figure rather than a professional diplomat.

Altho the matter is believed not to have progressed beyond discussion, Sir Ben Smith, food minister and former minister resident for supply in Washington, has been spotted as a possible successor. If the appointment reverted to traditional diplomatic quarters, it is believed the most likely choice would be Archibald Clark Kerr, now ambassador to Russia.

$8,000 MISSING; WOMAN CASHIER TO FACE COURT

Clorfene in Felony court yesterday to Dec. 18 to permit an audit at the North Michigan av. store where she allegedly misappropriated $8,000 while employed as a cashier. Mrs. Sommerfield was arrested Nov. 16 by police, who said she was living with Clyde Crain, 26, a Negro, at 3612 Indiana av. Crain was charged with adultery and with being an accessory before the fact of embezzlement.

U. S. ASKS REDS AND BRITISH TO GET OUT OF IRAN

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—Concern in diplomatic circles over revolt torn Iran deepened tonight as a reply was awaited to this government's proposal for ending the tension laden international crisis.

The United States suggested to London and Moscow that American, British, and Russian troops be withdrawn from Iran by Jan. 1. The proposal followed this country's request for information on Red army operations in the remote province of Azerbaijan.

The American notes were dispatched after it was disclosed Iran had sent two new notes of protest against soviet activities in the disturbed area. Hussein Ala, Iranian ambassador to the United States, disclosed the sending of the third and fourth Iranian notes as he called at the state department for information on American diplomatic moves affecting Iran.

"National Congress" Set Up

The crisis was precipitated when a self styled "national congress" in the soviet occupied region called for autonomy, but insisted there was no intention of subdividing Iran or altering that strategically situated nation's boundaries.

It has long been believed that soviet Russia was seeking to extend her sphere of influence in Iran in order to secure warm water ports on the Persian gulf and possibly on the Gulf of Oman. Iran is rich in oil, which has been described as the life blood of war.

The United States is moving with studied caution in the effort to settle Iran's political problems because it is felt the crisis is one which might be brought before the allied nations organization to give that peace body a critical test before it is on its feet.

The American proposal for withdrawing troops was made public by the state department. The notes dispatched to Moscow and London recalled that the maintenance of the independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity of Iran was pledged by Mr. Roosevelt, Stalin, and Churchill in the Tehran agreement of Dec. 1, 1943.

Full Freedom Required

"The fulfillment of these assurances requires that the government of Iran should have full freedom, without interference from the soviet, British, or American military or civil authorities, to move its armed forces thru Iran in such a manner as it may consider necessary in order to preserve its authority and to maintain internal security," the note said.

In following the policy of caution this country suggested that soviet commanders may have been acting without sanction of the soviet government. If such is the case, the note continued, the United States is assuming that the soviets are issuing instructions to the commanders in keeping with the Tehran declaration.

It was noted that the United States has reduced its military strength in Iran from 28,000 to less than 6,000 service troops.

PROPELLER-DRIVEN PLANE HITS 500 M.P.H. ON A LEVEL FLIGHT

Dayton, O., Nov. 26 (AP)—A propeller driven plane has attained a speed of more than 500 miles per hour in level flight—the fastest any conventionally driven plane ever has flown—the air technical service command announced today.

The ATSC headquarters at nearby Wright field said the record flight was made Aug. 4, 1944, by a Republic Aviation corporation plane known as XP-47J.

Republic test pilot Mike Ritchie hurtled the "J" over a Farmingdale, Long Island, test course before army observers who clocked its speed at "over 500 miles per hour," the ATSC said.

WARD OPERATES PLANTS DESPITE UNION PICKETS

CIO Leader Arrested in Melee Here

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Whether the strike started yesterday at Montgomery Ward & Co. plants was seriously interfering with the firm's business was a matter of dispute last night between the company and the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes' union [CIO] which called the strike.

The company said that 92 per cent of its 75,000 employes thruout the country were at work. The union asserted the strike was 75 to 80 per cent effective.

A few minutes after the union's picket line was formed at 6 a. m. yesterday in front of the Ward mail order house at 618 W. Chicago av., the only violence of the day occurred. Irving Abramson, national director of organizing for the CIO union at Ward plants, was arrested. He was accused of assaulting a Negro worker who tried to pass thru the picket line. Abramson came to Chicago from New York to take charge of the strike here.

Police Accuse Two Unionists

Policemen John Baker and Edward McBride of the police labor detail said they saw Abramson and Robert E. Morgan, 24, of 1921 N. St. Louis av., a Ward employe on strike, hit John Waters, 49, of 214 N. Paulina st., a porter, with union banners as he was trying to enter the plant thru the picket line. Both unionists were taken to the Chicago av. police station, where they were booked for assault and released on bond. They are scheduled to appear in South State st. court Thursday.

Abramson later denied that he had started the altercation. He said Waters was asked to stay away from work, "but he struck out at us, so we defended ourselves."

The union's strike demonstration at Ward plants will last thru Saturday. The strikers are scheduled to report back to work next Monday, but union officials warned that "strikes will be continued at Ward properties until the company agrees to sign a contract with us."

Two Walkouts Deferred

Altho Ward plants in Detroit, Mich., and Jamaica, N. Y., were scheduled to be affected yesterday by the strike, Samuel Wolchok, president of the CIO union, said the employes did not go out there for "strategy reasons." He said walkouts in these plants might take place today or later in the week. Other plants of the company where pickets appeared yesterday were in Albany, N. Y., Denver, Colo., and Kansas City, Mo.

A company statement reported picketing at four of the company's nine mail order houses; six of 631 retail stores; two of its 75 farm stores, and one of the company's 216 order offices.

Company Says 92 Per Cent at Work

"All branches remain open for business despite the picket lines," said the company. "More than 92 per cent of Ward's 75,000 employes are at work. In Chicago, 95 per cent of the administrative employes are at work; 91 per cent at the retail store; 57 per cent in the mail order house, and 40 per cent in Schwinn warehouse at Bloomingdale rd. and Lawndale av."

Leonard Levy, international vice president of the CIO union, challenged the company's figures, asserting that the walkout was a "crippling strike, which will become more effective each day." He said fewer than 20 per cent of Ward's Chicago employes were at work yesterday.

Police Protection Promised

Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, who, with Capt. Kyran Phelan of the east Chicago av. police district, headed 40 policemen about the struck plants yesterday, promised protection for all employes who want to enter the plants today.

Half Million Again on Strike

Chart showing how total of strikers in the United States again passed the 500,000 mark yesterday as a result of the 225,000 made idle by CIO Union Auto Workers' walkout against General Motors.

GEAR INDUSTRY 80% PARALYZED BY FIVE STRIKES

Chicago's industrial gear production was estimated 80 per cent paralyzed yesterday when the fifth gear manufacturing plant since Nov. 19 was shut by a strike of local 1114, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union [CIO].

The plant closed when the union called 200 workers out after charging the company refused to comply with a war labor board directive was that of the Gear Specialties company, 2635 Medill av. Louis Torre, business manager of the CIO union, said the company refused to pay a 5 cent hourly increase ordered by the WLB retroactive to October, 1943.

1,500 Employes Involved

Previously the union had shut down the Illinois Gear and Machine corporation, 2108 Natchez av.; D. O. James Manufacturing company, 1140 Monroe st.; three plants of Foote Bros. Gear and Machine corporation, whose main plant is at 5225 S. Western av., and the Merkle-Korff Gear company, 213 N. Morgan st.

All manufacture industrial gears and speed reducers. More than 1,500 employes are involved in the five strikes, Torre said.

The federal conciliation service has scheduled meetings to try to settle the union's strikes. Industry spokesmen said yesterday that, if they are not settled soon, "almost every mechanical item that needs gears will be kept off the civilian market."

Leader Demands Uniform Scale

Torre said the strikes would not be called off until WLB directives had been obeyed and the companies had granted a $2 a day wage increase, union shop, and a uniform scale for the gear industry.

Another strike was started at the Pyott Foundry and Machine company plant, 319 N. Morgan st., by local 233, International Molders and Foundry Workers' union [AFL]. This made 170 employes idle. The company makes cast iron pulleys. The strike was called in a dispute over interpretation of a WLB directive, Sgt. Kenneth Gorman of the police labor said.

Meat Packing Strike Vote

Robert Rissman, chief field examiner of the national labor relations board, announced that the board was prepared to conduct a strike vote among 25,000 meat packing employes who are members of the United Packinghouse Workers' union [CIO] in Chicago. More than 200,000 workers in 200 plants thruout the country are expected to take part in the balloting, which will be held Friday.

Many other plants in the Chicago area are still tied up by strikes that kept more than 7,000 employes from working.

1st Parley Fails to End Johns-Manville Strike

A six day old strike of 1,309 employes of the Johns-Manville corporation at Waukegan remained in effect yesterday after a deadlock at the first meeting between company officials and representatives of local 20 of the International Chemical Workers' union, which called the strike to enforce demands for a 12 cent an hour pay raise.

VETS REFUSE BID TO JOIN UNION, GAS PUMPS DRY

Fuel Deliveries Halt at Service Station

Forrest Glaves, manager of a gasoline and general automobile repair station at 901 Green Bay rd., Wilmette, which he said represents a $165,000 investment, explained yesterday why the seven gasoline pumps at the station have been shut down for a week.

"Several weeks ago, I was asked by a business agent of local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers union [AFL] to join the union," Glaves explained. "I refused to join. So did my nine employes, seven of whom are ex-service men of the recent war.

Stop Deliveries of Gasoline

"The business agent then warned me that the station would not get any more gasoline until the men joined the union. I thought he was kidding, but beginning Nov. 16, we got no gasoline.

"Altho the pumps were dry of gasoline, somebody still wasn't satisfied because one night during the last week, the light globes on the tops of the seven pumps were stoned and broken. I still don't want to join the union and the men won't join. What to do?"

Glaves added that he later learned that the gasoline drivers are members of the same union his employes were asked to join.

A spokesman for local 705 yesterday admitted that the station had been deprived of gasoline by the union's drivers.

Tried to Organize Employes

"Glaves is not telling the whole truth," the union official said. "Our business agent was trying to organize the two attendants who pump gasoline. Glaves said he wanted nothing to do with the union and refused to let the agent talk to the men.

"This station has always been organized in the past, but Glaves has been firing union help and hiring nonunion help. Now he is trying to make it appear as if we are in the wrong, because we are insisting that the men who pump gasoline be members of our union. They will become members before Glaves gets gasoline delivered to the station."

WON'T DISCUSS PRESENT UNION DEMANDS—G. M.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 26 [Special]—General Motors corporation tonight notified the CIO United Automobile Workers that unless the union is prepared to modify its "unreasonable" demands, nothing can be gained by further discussions.

H. W. Anderson

The statement was in reply to a proposal by the union for public negotiations on wage issues. In a telegram last night, Walter P. Reuther, union vice president, suggested resumption of wage negotiations which had recessed before the strike against General Motors started last Wednesday.

"You broke off collective bargaining negotiations by calling a strike on Nov. 20," said the company statement signed by H. W. Anderson, vice president. "With a strike in progress you now request further negotiations.

Cites Rejected Offer

"We engaged in collective bargaining with your union at many meetings covering a period of weeks. It was clear to us from the very beginning that you were determined to have a strike."

Anderson reminded the union that it had rejected the company's offer of appropriate wage increases, made in a final effort to avoid the strike. This apparently referred to G. M.'s 10 per cent "cost-of-living" raise proposal.

"It should be clear to you and all others," Anderson's statement continued, "that we will not negotiate with your union regarding our selling prices and profits.

"Unless you are now prepared to modify your unreasonable wage demands, abandon your attempts to negotiate on the basis of our past profits, assumed future profits, and our selling prices, and are now prepared to discuss wage adjustments on their merits, we do not think that anything can be gained by further discussion of the wage issue with your union at this time.

Calls it Lawlessness

"When your union uses force and threats of force to interfere with free entrance and exit at our plants and offices, you have gone beyond your legal rights. You are creating a situation of lawlessness.

"General Motors will meet with you at any time to discuss the illegal picketing by members of your union which is preventing our management and clerical employes from entering our offices and plants. A fair settlement of the strike itself cannot be negotiated while such a situation exists."

The UAW, in a statement signed by Reuther, tonight accused G. M. of "further violations of the national labor relations act" and expressed ignorance of any "illegal picketing."

The union declared it was "still prepared to negotiate a settlement of this issue any time and at any place."

The company estimated today that 50,000 of G. M.'s 73,000 salaried employes were being prevented from entering the offices. These additions raised to 225,000 the number of workers made idle by the strike.

Meantime, the Ford Motor company announced that most of its production operations at the River Rouge plant near here and in several of its hydro plants will be halted beginning tomorrow and Wednesday because of a shortage of parts for automobile and truck production.

The curtailment of production, a statement said, will affect about 40,000 employes in the Detroit area. All the departments, the company said, will reopen next Monday.

WATCH WORKERS UNION TO PICKET U. S. STATE DEPARTMENT

Walter W. Cenerazzo of Boston, Mass., national president of the American Watch Workers union, said in Chicago early today that the union Tuesday will begin to picket the state department in Washington, D. C., because of the New Deal administration's failure to curtail Swiss watch imports.

The watch workers on Sept. 15 adopted a resolution calling upon President Truman to limit watch imports to 2 million a year. During October, however, Swiss exports to the United States totaled about 2,100,000 watches. When he presented this information to Undersecretary Acheson of the state department, Cenerazzo said he was assured that efforts would be made to protect American watch makers from Swiss competition.

SHY PUBLIC TOLD IT'S SAFE FROM GERM LADEN GIs

Experts Scoff at Talk of Tropical Epidemics

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Longview, Tex., Nov. 26—The need for public understanding and coöperation regarding diseases brought to this country by Pacific based GIs was emphasized today by army doctors at Harmon General hospital, one of the army's two specialized centers for tropical diseases.

Questions most frequently asked about tropical diseases by the uninformed public are:

1. Are they contagious or hereditary?

2. Will infected GIs cause epidemics in this country?

3. Will they be permanently incapacitated in any way?

The army's answer is no—to all three questions. In coöperation with the surgeon general's office in Washington, D. C., tropical disease experts at Harmon have been engaged in the last three years in extensive research on Pacific acquired diseases such as malaria, filariasis, schistosomiasis, scrub typhus, kala-azar, dysentery, and "jungle rot."

Malaria Worst Problem

Most important of these, because of the number of soldiers infected, is malaria, which at the beginning of the war and particularly on Guadalcanal caused more casualties than Jap bullets.

With preventive dosages of atabrine for exposed soldiers and DDT for mosquistos, the disease was soon under control. However, many GIs on returning to the United States and stopping their atabrine had malarial relapses.

"Our problem," explained Maj. Harry H. Gordon, medical corps chief of the tropical disease section at Harmon, "was to determine whether parasites were present in the blood stream between relapses, thus marking the patient as a possible source of infection."

After careful studies and blood smears of hundreds of patients it was determined that the mosquito borne parasites are rarely present in the blood stream between attacks.

Easy to Recognize

Malarial symptoms are easily recognized. With prompt diagnosis and treatment, Maj. Gordon said, the parasites disappear. Altho the relapse rate is 70 per cent, the chance of malaria not being completely cured after a period of two years is less than one per cent. Present research on new drugs may shorten the period of infection.

Army doctors say that altho atabrine turns the skin temporarily yellow the drug produces no harmful effects on the patient, who is fully capable of carrying on his job in the army or in civilian life.

Filariasis, another mosquito borne disease contracted by troops in the Samoan Islands, is often confused in the minds of GI families with elephantiasis.

"Our problem with filariasis patients is a psychological one," said Col. Worth B. Daniels, chief of the medical service at Harmon. "Our GIs saw native islanders with grotesque swellings and heard bizarre stories which produced unfounded fears. The natives have been repeatedly infected over a period of many years. Our troops were not."

Treatment Is Described

Military doctors say there have been no cases of elephantiasis among American troops. Filariasis, which manifests itself in only slight swellings of areas of skin and lymph glands, is treated with cold compresses, rest and good food, and like malaria, eventually burns itself out, leaving no ill effects.

A filariasis epidemic in this country is impossible, they explain, because the infection of GIs was extremely light, they were removed promptly from the endemic area, and parasites are not found in the blood stream of patients hospitalized here.

Hundreds of soldiers on Leyte picked up what they called "swimmer's itch" but was diagnosed as schistosomiasis, from a parasite carried by a rare kind of fresh water snail not found in this country. The disease affects the liver and bowel, but 70 per cent of the patients are cured in three months by use of a drug known as antimony, according to the doctors.

The other 30 per cent, who have been hospitalized almost a year—ever since Leyte—have organized the "Sacred Order of the Schisto Kids" to voice certain complaints, namely that they are not rated as battle casualties, not eligible for Purple Hearts and they fear they cannot take out civilian insurance policies. However, most GIs carry the army's national life insurance which can be converted after discharge without medical examination.

"They'll give a certificate of disability discharge for asthma but not for schisto," one said. "I know. I got one."

The Kids Are Unhappy

The "schisto kids" are unhappy about their recurring symptoms and their prospects for the future, but army doctors feel that no permanent disability will result and that, therefore, a disability discharge is not warranted.

After their discharge, schisto patients are required to report for a medical checkup every three months for a year.

Some of Chicagoland's schisto boys include Sgt. John Zappia, 734 Bittersweet pl.; Tech. 5th Grade Glenn Puncochar, 2114 S. 58th ct.; Staff Sgt. Walter Grigorieff, 920 W. 35th pl.; Tech. 5th Grade Walter W. Kaplan, 2308 18th pl., and Pvt. 1st Class Charles Kuczor, South Bend, Ind.

Another rare tropical disease brought back by service men is kala-azar, transmitted by a sand fly and sometimes misdiagnosed as leukemia. It is treated with antimony, and all victims have recovered.

Shunned Like Lepers

Scrubtyphus, carried by a chiggerlike mite, took a small toll of GI fatalities, but those who survived to be returned to America for hospitalization completely recovered.

Jungle rot, the Yanks' slang term for a variety of skin diseases acquired in the tropics presents a great psychological problem because of the public's attitude toward the patient's appearance.

"Some boys are shunned like lepers," Maj. Gordon said. "Many refuse to take furloughs."

No matter how terrible a boy's face or hands may look, he said, these skin diseases are not contagious. Some patients, he said, will retain scars, but all can be cured.

GRAVE DIGGERS SETTLE STRIKE, RETURN TO WORK

A strike of 16 cemetery workers which started Nov. 10 at St. Casimir's Lithuanian Roman Catholic cemetery, 11100 S. Pulaski rd., was settled yesterday when the men returned to work. They immediately set to work burying 20 bodies, which had been stored in vaults at the cemetery during the strike.

Miles E. Barry, secretary-treasurer of local 106, of the Building Service Employes' International union [AFL], said the strike was terminated because the men obtained their demands. He said the union had obtained recognition as the men's bargaining agent, for which they struck.

Other contract demands, such as wages, hours, and other working conditions, will be set up in contract form during the next few weeks, Barry said.

RIGHTISTS WIN NARROW MARGIN IN AUSTRIA VOTE

Renner to Be Replaced; Reds Poor Third

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 26—(AP)—Leopold Figl, 43-year-old chairman of the Rightist Volkspartei [people's party], appeared slated tonight to become chancellor of Austria as a result of Sunday's national assembly elections.

Figl said his party won the election by 51 per cent in defeating the Socialist party of Chancellor Karl Renner which ran second and the communists, who trailed a poor third. The Volkspartei, like the Socialist, is strongly Catholic.

Wants Troops Withdrawn

Figl said tonight that "hunger and cold drive people to extremes and we want to avoid that; for this reason we must ask help of the allies." He also appealed for withdrawal of occupation troops from this "free and independent nation."

It was expected that Figl would form a coalition cabinet with all three parties represented. His Volkspartei is made up of elements opposed to state socialization.

He is expected to head the national assembly to be convened not later than Dec. 12.

Win 86 to 88 Seats

Returns from 89 provinces gave the Volkspartei 1,500,467 votes, the Socialists 1,353,047, and the Communists 168,856. Under the Austrian system of proportional representation, this indicated the Volkspartei would get between 86 and 88 of the national assembly's 165 seats and the Socialists would win between 74 and 77, depending on whether the Communists win three or five seats.

With four districts undecided and 12 unreported, the Volkspartei already had won 76 seats, the Socialists 70, and the Communists three. Most of the unreported districts were expected to be carried by the Volkspartei.

Back to 1930 Lineup

LONDON, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—One of the most striking features of Austria's general elections—in which the Catholic Volkspartei won a slim majority over the Socialists and the Communists barely gained recognition—was that after 15 years of political upheaval, the country's basic government forces were back where they stood in 1930.

In 1930, general elections gave the Socialists 72 seats against 93 for three middle class parties. Today it appears the Volkspartei has inherited the majority of the middleclass parties seats while the Socialists have added a few seats to their previous strength.

But in the intervening period the country went thru considerable trend-shifting including four years homegrown dictatorship after 1934, seven years annexation and nazi rule and six years of war, ending in four-power occupation.

LEFTISTS BALK AT SUPPORTING AGED ORLANDO

ROME, Nov. 26 (AP)—Left wing political groups withdrew their support from Vittorio Emanuel Orlando tonight after it had been virtually assured that the 85 year old Italian World War I leader would be Italy's next premier.

Earlier, five of the six parties making up the national committee of liberation were reported to have agreed to enter a government headed by Orlando, but tonight it was announced that the Communist and Socialist parties had joined with the Action party against Orlando.

The switch of the left wingers reportedly was on the grounds any government headed by Orlando would swing to the right.

However, leaders of all six parties are to meet again tomorrow in an effort to solve the governmental crisis resulting from the resignation of Premier Ferrucio Parri after rightist groups had withdrawn their support of his government.

VEER TOWARD EUROPEAN SITE FOR UNO CAPITAL

See Britain Woo Reds to Back Vienna

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—The British scored a minor victory today in the session of the united nations preparatory commission when they succeeded in electing Dr. Eduardo Zuleta of Colombia as permanent chairman.

Lobbying for the location of permanent headquarters of the new world organization continued to hold the center of the stage, however. A spokesman for the British delegation said the preparatory commission might reconsider a recommendation by its executive committee to locate the seat in North America. There is a strong movement, he said, for the seat to be in Europe. Other delegates said the movement was inspired by the British, who were campaigning for a European site.

Mayor Kelly of Chicago, who later lunched with London's Lord Mayor Charles Davis, and Chicago's Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, watched today's session from the press gallery. Besides Chicago, delegations from the Black Hills, S. D., Boston, Philadelphia, and Denver are buttonholing representatives.

Offer Vienna as Site

Meanwhile, British lobbyists are trying to woo the Russians, who had voted for the United States, by offering Vienna as a compromise. Other possibilities mentioned today were Brussels, Luxemburg, Nice, and Copenhagen.

On the issue of the preparatory commission chairman, the overwhelming sentiment of the delegates of 50 countries sitting around the table favored Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian minister of foreign affairs. However, the British architects of a new world order wanted to save him for the office of president general of the assembly of the united nations, which meets here in January.

The global politicians, sitting in a backroom, struck a compromise, taking into account geographical considerations and the feelings of soviet Russia.

Setup Is Incomplete

Zuleta, who is Colombian ambassador to Peru, was named president and Spaak proposed for vice chairman. Then Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to London, moved that a second vice chairman be chosen. The delegates agreed without a murmur and Dmitri Manuilsky, people's commissar for foreign affairs of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, was elected.

The preparatory commission's machinery still has not been set up for business. Most of the work will be done by committees, with one member from each nation represented here. The committee of eight which will tackle the problem of permanent headquarters has not been formed.

The commission decided at its plenary session to hammer out agendas for the first sessions of the united nations general assembly, security council, and economic and social council, including the question of relations with various specialized agencies and a trusteeship organ. The Russians are fighting the proposal to establish a temporary trusteeship organ to handle several war orphaned colonies.

In addition the commission will adopt recommendations regarding an international court of justice and other legal matters, united nations secretariat and financial organization, and transfer of certain functions, activities and assets, if any, of the moribund league of nations.

COALITION RULE ENDS AS MINISTER QUITS SOUTH AFRICAN POST

PRETORIA, South Africa, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—Col. Charles F. Stallard, Dominion party leader, resigned today from the post of minister of mines, thereby ending the coalition government presided over by Marshal Jan Smuts, prime minister.

Col. Stallard resigned in accordance with a decision by his party last week to end the coalition. During the war, South Africa had a three party coalition composed of the United party, the Dominion party, and the Labor party.

Labor withdrew in October. The government is now composed entirely of United party members, but Smuts still has a majority in parliament.

YANKS OF TWO DIVISIONS LEAVE CZECHS TODAY

PRAGUE, Nov. 26 (AP)—Two American divisions and some troops of the 22d corps will evacuate Czechoslovakia tomorrow. The troops, in western Bohemia when the war ended, remained in occupation until the reconstructed Czechoslovakia army could take over. More than 100 Americans found brides in the republic. The United States troops helped restore transportation, helped with the harvest, delivered coal and preserved order while an estimated 100,000 Czechoslovak settlers from other regions moved into the district.

TORIES LAUNCH DRIVE TO GUARD RIGHTS OF MAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—The Conservative party tonight served a declaration of war on the Labor government, and announced it intends to fight to safeguard individual liberty and democracy in Britain.

As a sequel to complaints that the Conservatives lack punch and vigor in their opposition in the house of commons, the party leaders issued a new statement of aims, putting "freedom of tongue and pen and faith for rich or poor, maintenance of our democratic parliamentary system and equal justice for everybody" as priority No. 1.

Claiming the party is "irrevocably opposed to any form of tyranny or abuse of power by any person, section, or organization," the statement warned that freedom and democracy can be "threatened from within by reckless reformers and inexperienced enthusiasts for alien theories."

"We do not want to see everyone become mere units in a state system," the Conservatives asserted.

UNION OFFICER SENTENCED IN THEFT OF $6,632

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 26 [Special]—Thomas Fox, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Taxicab Drivers' union Local 156, today was sentenced by Judge Joseph L. Kun of Common pleas court to 23 months and 29 days in Philadelphia county prison for fraudulent conversion of $6,632 in union funds.

Fox, 42, pleaded guilty and told Judge Kun he took the money between March, 1943, and September of this year. He said he lost it all betting at race tracks.

Franklin E. Barr, assistant district attorney, told Judge Kun Fox was paid $100 a week for his services by the union and that he hired taxicab drivers to audit the union's books instead of qualified accountants.

INDIAN INDEPENDENCE FROM BRITAIN TO RISE AGAIN AS VOTE ISSUE

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—India soon will elect her new political rulers. Between the middle of December and March 1, British India, that part under British rule, will elect 1,585 members to the central legislative assembly, India's parliament, and the legislatures in all 11 provinces.

The Indian National Congress party has decided to contest the elections on the issue of immediate transfer of power from the British government in the light of the "quit India" resolution which its leaders adopted in August, 1942.

The Moslem league has two issues: That the league is the sole representative of Moslems and that Moslems must have a separate nation for themselves, called Pakistan, composed of five provinces in which Moslems say they constitute the majority.

The Hahasabh, the third party, represents orthodox Hindus, stands for the preservation of the unity of India, and opposes any special concessions to Moslems save legitimate rights as a minority. The Congress party disputes the necessity of a separate national state for Moslems.

GEN. McNARNEY AT FRANKFURT TO SUCCEED IKE

FRANKFURT Germany, Nov. 26 (AP)—Gen Joseph T. McNarney arrived today from Washington, D. C., to assume command as chief of United States occupation forces, succeeding Gen. Eisenhower. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Miller White, who may become his chief of staff. It is understood that Eisenhower will not return, as originally expected, to say farewell to his troops.

Evanston to Auction Its City Hall on Jan. 14

Evanston's city council last night set Jan. 14 as the date of an auction to sell the suburb's city hall at Davis st. and Sherman av., to the highest bidder. Bids will be opened at 9 a. m.

TELLS TORTURE BY NATIONALIST ARMY OF INDIANS

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—A Moslem second lieutenant, Mohammed Hyat, testified today at the trial of the three Indian national army officers charged with murder and waging war against the British king, that the members of the Japanese sponsored Indian nationalist army tried to beat him into joining their forces.

When Singapore surrendered, the Moslems refused to join the INA and were taken to a concentration camp, he said. They were beaten repeatedly with five foot sticks, made to carry bags of earth at the double, and not allowed to sleep at night.

They were fed on rice mixed with stones, and when he complained to the camp commandant he was told that these conditions would continue until he joined INA.

On one occasion, he said, he saw two Sikhs beaten for four hours and next day saw them lying in the hospital with their faces to the ground and with fetters on their legs.

Protest Meeting Held

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 26 (AP)—Indian students, protesting the activities of the police during last week's anti-British demonstrations in Calcutta, held a mass meeting today within a mile of the court room where the trial of Indian national army personnel is being held.

The trial touched off the disorders in Calcutta and other places in India in which at least 37 persons, including one American soldier, were killed. The national army was organized in Burma during the war to fight against the allies.

Calcutta was returning to normal. The strike of 20,000 municipal employes there ended last night, relieving a serious threat to the city's water supply.

PADILLA TO RUN IN PRESIDENTIAL RACE IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26 [Reuters] Ezequiel Padilla, former Mexican foreign minister, today became the second major candidate for the Mexican presidency. He accepted the nomination of the Democratic party to oppose Miguel Aleman, who is regarded as the official government candidate, in next July's elections. Aleman, former governor of Vera Cruz, managed the campaign of President Avila Camacho in 1940. Padilla promised the elimination of communist tendencies, cleansing of workers' syndicates, free education, improved social security measures, a democratic senate and chamber of deputies, and full guarantees of Mexicans' rights.

BRITISH TROOPS SLAY 9 JEWS; SEARCH ENDED

Forces Withdrawn from Troubled Area

JERUSALEM, Nov. 26 (AP)—British troops withdrew tonight from the troubled area north of Tel Aviv after day long disturbances which unofficial reports said left nine Jews dead and about 75 injured.

Tank supported British troops armed with mortars and machine guns had entered six Jewish villages searching for persons responsible for attacks on coast guard stations.

An official bulletin said troops fired on Jewish settlers who attacked police trying to remove 137 suspects from the villages of Givath Haim and Hogla and declared an "unknown" number had been killed and wounded.

Work Stoppage Today

The cordon was lifted tonight from around all villages in the affected area and tension subsided. The Jewish national council said there would be a 30 minute work stoppage tomorrow when today's dead are buried.

Haifa Jews staged a one hour strike today protesting police and military search of settlements, but no incidents were reported.

Dispatches said thousands of Jews, shouting "All Jews to the rescue," were streaming tonight from the Petah Tiqvah area toward nearby Shefayim, where British troops and police battled today against barricaded settlers for two hours.

More Troops Rushed

Additional British troops, including the 3d paratroop brigade of the 6th air borne division, had been rushed to the area near Tel Aviv when tension mounted to a pitch where women and children attempted to break thru the British cordon.

Villages entered by police and troops included Rishbon, Enhahoresh Kfar Goglah, Givath Haim, Kfar Haroeth and Shefayim — all north of Tel Aviv and near the coast.

Reports said there had been considerable property damage, and that about 250 persons had been held for questioning. The authorities carried out house to house searches, seeking illegal immigrants and stores of weapons.

The bitterest fighting apparently took place this morning at Shefayim, where British authorities found large crowds manning the barricades. The crowds refused to disperse and police and troops forced their way in, using staves and tear gas.

Polish Jews Defy Britain

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

ROME, Nov. 26—Fifteen thousand Polish Jews who have managed since the end of the war to get into Italy which they regarded as a logical stopover en route to Palestine, today served notice on Britain that the white paper [limiting immigration] notwithstanding, they intend to proceed "by all ways and means" to the land they claim was promised them.

These homeless Jews declared that they must enter the Holy Land, not only because they are convinced it represents their last hope for survival, but because they owe such action to the 5,000,000 Jews exterminated by the Nazis.

Defiance of Britain was voiced at the opening of a three day conference of Jewish displaced persons in Italy. Almost all of the 15,000 represented at the conference thru elected delegates were confined in concentration camps and now, unable to return to Poland because of what they claim is virulent anti-Semitism there, are being sheltered in displaced persons camps thruout Italy.

Reds Favor Parley

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, Nov. 26—Russia has proposed to the United States, Britain, France and China that the Arab-Jewish problem of Palestine be submitted to a conference of the five nations, a diplomatic source in close touch with middle eastern affairs stated tonight.

This source said the Russians envisaged consideration of the problem in the light of the entire middle eastern situation. The proposal was interpreted as another step toward Russian penetration into the middle east and Mediterranean areas.

RABBIS ASSAIL U.S. AID IN WAR ON COLONIALS

Plead for Oppressed People of World

New York, Nov. 26 [Special]—The United States, "only recently hailed thruout Asia and the Pacific as the champion of oppressed peoples," is today lending its influence to the "resubjugation" of hundreds of millions of colonials, the central conference of American rabbis, declared in a report today.

The report closed a special two day meeting held at the Jewish institute of religion under the auspices of the commission on justice and peace the rabbinical conference, attended by 100 rabbis and laymen from all parts of the country and representing the largest Rabbinical association in the world.

Pleads for the Oppressed

It lashed out against all racial discrimination practices in what the chairman, Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman, described as "not a plea against anti-semitism but a plea for all the oppressed people of the world."

Referring in a special subsection of the report to the "colored races of the Pacific," the conference found that the dependent areas in the Pacific "still are administered primarily in the interests of alien merchants and investors."

"The aspirations of Burmese and Anamites, of Indonesians and Malayans no less than those of Filipinos and Koreans, call for the encouragement of freedom loving people everywhere," the report declared.

Urge India Victory

The struggle of 400,000,000 people in India for political independence is something that must succeed, since freedom is an essential first step "toward that unity without which the inequalities in the nation's social system cannot be finally abolished," the group stated.

"The heart of Israel goes out to all who aspire to freedom. We are convinced that the age of imperialism—political, economic, and cultural—is ended. The Indians, Burmese, Koreans Filipinos, among other peoples, should be aided in the solution of problems incident to their immediate entry into the community of self-governing nations."

NEW INDICTMENT LAYS TREASON TO EZRA POUND

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Clark today announced that Ezra Pound had been indicted for treason on charges of broadcasting from fascist Italy during the war. The announcement said the indictment charged 19 overt acts of treason.

Clark said the indictment cited seven dates between Sept. 11, 1942, and May 15, 1943, on which Pound allegedly made recordings in Rome radio studios for subsequent propaganda broadcasts over the Rome radio.

Seven Italians who claim to have seen Pound make anti-allied broadcasts from Rome and Milan flew here voluntarily two weeks ago, the announcement disclosed, to testify before the District of Columbia federal grand jury which returned the indictment. Pound originally was indicted for treason on July 26, 1943. This indictment was based on FBI investigations and on recordings of his alleged broadcast. The new indictment was drawn up, a justice department official told reporters, because it was feared that the original charges might be ruled out on a technicality. He said that since this indictment had been based on recordings, it was feared Pound might claim the voice was not his.

FAIL TO DISCOVER HOW PIANO AID MET HIS DEATH

A coroner's inquest found yesterday that George J. Beier, 60, of 633 S. Wesley av., Oak Park, died of a skull fracture, brain hemorrhage and probable chest hemorrhage complicated by terminal bronchial pneumonia. The verdict added that how and in what manner Mr. Beier received the skull fracture was not known.

An Oak Park police squad, while cruising, found Beier lying in a parkway at Wesley av. and Madison st., Oak Park, at 3 a. m., Nov. 18. He was taken to Oak Park hospital where he died last Saturday.

A son, George Jr., said Beier had been superintendent of the P. A. Starck Piano company for 20 years. The widow, Laura, and two daughters, Dorothy and Georgiana, also survive. Services will be held in Ascension church, Oak Park, at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

SWEDES AROUSED OVER DEPORTATION OF BALTIC REFUGEES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 26—The departure of German and Baltic military refugees from Sweden has been delayed. The Russian naval attache in Stockholm declared the Russian steamer Fuban needs a few days for repairs to receive the refugees whose deportation to the soviet zone of occupation in Germany has been demanded by Russia.

The Swedish government held an extraordinary meeting this morning to re-discuss the Baltic refugee question. Appeals and petitions to the government and king continue to pour in. Violent discussions and accusations are taking place between the opposite political parties.

Meanwhile, Gen. Helge Jung, commander in chief of the Swedish army, declared that force might be required if deportation of 2,700 German and Baltic deserters were carried out.

SCOUT REPORTS OF CLAMOR TO QUIT PALESTINE

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26—Reports from Palestine published in London that a large number of Jews are applying for United States visas were characterized by the Jewish agency here today as anti-Zionist propaganda.

While admitting no figures were available, a spokesman for the agency said attempts are being made to show that while Jews are clamoring for a national home in Palestine, many already there are attempting to leave. The inference was these stories are being circulated by the British.

Shipping Easier

At the same time the agency admitted more Jews than usual may be seeking to go to America. It was explained the shipping position is somewhat easier than during the war and a number holding United States passports as well as others who have been waiting a long time, may be seeking passage.

The agency claimed, however, that such a movement as going on has nothing to do with the political situation.

Other informed sources in London thought the outbreak of disorders in Palestine and the general unsettled situation may be deciding a number to leave. Altho only 100 native born Palestine Jews may enter the United States yearly under the quota, an unlimited number may go on a temporary six month visa on which renewals may be requested. These include visitors, business men, and students.

GI Wives Seek Visas

There are also a number of GI wives trying to get to the United States and a number of Jews from other countries, such as Poland, who may apply for a visa under quotas of their native lands.

The Daily Mail on Nov. 19 in a story from Palestine said it was unofficially estimated that an average of 130 Jews are applying for United States visas. Neither the British colonial office nor American authorities is able to provide figures here.

Promise Broken: Reds

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—A Moscow radio commentator tonight accused British military authorities of breaking a promise in using troops "to crush a local movement of liberation" in Indonesia. Peter Orlov, in an English language broadcast, said British authorities had declared their objective was to disarm and evacuate Japanese troops and not to interfere in internal affairs. But "they are now fighting battles and Netherlands authorities are banking on restoring their pre-war domination," Orlov said. The colonial peoples acted "on the principles proclaimed at Tehran, Yalta, and San Francisco in rising to secure their national liberty and independence," he added.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 26 (AP)—British planes today entered the battle of Ambarawa, now in its third day, as British and Indonesian forces continued to fight in Soerabaja and Batavia, where 50 of a band of 100 Indonesians attacking a company of Indian troops were killed.

Three R. A. F. mosquito bombers, using machine guns and cannon, strafed Indonesian troop concentrations at Ambarawa and attacked transport columns, road blocks, and warehouses.

Seven British Dakota transport planes dropped food and other supplies to allied personnel in and near the central Java town. They were accompanied by two American made Thunderbolt fighters, but no ground fire was reported.

Believe City Abandoned

At Soerabaja, Indonesian forces were seen moving southward from the only remaining portion of the city they held. Earlier they had attacked a British Indian unit in force with armored cars, a tank, and a 47 mm. gun. It was believed they had largely abandoned Soerabaja.

Theodore de Winter, a Dutch army captain, said Adm. Conrad Helfrich, commander of Dutch forces in Java, had informed the British that Amboinese troops in the Dutch army would remain in Batavia. He quoted Helfrich as saying he was willing to move the Amboinese from troubled areas to other sectors of the capital.

The Dutch force in the Batavia sector consists of 2,000 native troops from the Islands of Amboina and Celebes, and a number of pro-Dutch Javanese.

"Our Most Loyal Troops"

The British announced last week that Amboinese soldiers and their families would be withdrawn from Batavia. A Dutch naval intelligence officer said he believed the British had acceded to the Dutch government.

"The Amboinese troops would refuse to leave," De Winter said. "If we tried to force them many would desert, form a guerrilla army, and start killing the Indonesians on their own. Most of them are Christians. They are our most loyal troops, and we are unwilling to lose them."

Renew Charge British Use Japs

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—A new accusation that the British in Java are using Japanese troops to attack the Indonesian Nationalists was made in a bulletin issued by the Indonesian information department, following today's meeting of 125 members of the Indonesian national convention.

The bulletin accuses Britain of adopting the same tactics in Indonesia for the benefit of the Dutch as the Japanese adopted in Manchuria in 1931, when they used the death of Japanese as a pretext to invade.

Three resolutions were passed by the convention of which the most important called on the "people of Ceylon and India, as well as all peoples who believe in justice, to give moral and material support to the people of Indonesia in their fight for independence."

RAPIST FATHER OF 2 CHILDREN GETS FOUR YEARS

Raymond Johnston, 40, of 6517 Parnell av., former playground attendant at Kershaw public school and father of two children, was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary yesterday by Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court, who found Johnston guilty of raping a 15 year old girl.

Judge Miner ignored the tearful pleas of Johnston's wife to grant probation. "An employe in a public institution has a high duty to protect the morals of the children entrusted to his charge," said the court.

MORE NAZI WAR SECRETS BARED IN CRIMES TRIAL

Assassin Plot Planned in Assault on Czechs

States and that the Pearl Harbor attackers hit the American fleet knowing that Hitler would join the conflict. Germany declared war upon the United States promptly thereafter.

Earlier in the session Defense Attorney Otto Stahmer, after receiving a note from Goering, protested against documents introduced as evidence and purporting to be copies of two speeches delivered to Hitler's commanding generals who were to lead the invasion of Poland. The tribunal ruled the defense may offer rebuttal evidence later.

Authenticity Questioned

The address, in which Hitler is quoted as taking Genghis Khan as his mentor in savage warfare, was submitted to the court by the prosecution on Friday but Atty. Alderman today said it would not be offered as evidence because its authenticity was not established.

Atty. Stahmer pointed out that there was only one meeting of the commanders attended by Hitler on the eve of the Polish invasion and therefore there could not have been three different speeches. He also said that none of the papers was signed and that they all contained factual errors.

The tribunal announced that it had granted several defense requests for witnesses and documents. Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuehrer, wants the court to produce a letter left behind for Hitler when the defendant flew to Scotland in May, 1941.

Ribbentrop Wants to Confer

Von Ribbentrop's request was granted to subpena Minister Friedrick Gauss of the German foreign office for the announced purpose of offering testimony that the diplomat did not plan war. Von Ribbentrop has also asked that he be permitted to confer with other former associates to refresh his memory which his lawyer said was suffering from taking sleeping powders.

Wilhelm Keitel, former chief of the German supreme command, was granted a request that the International Red Cross produce its war crimes file from Geneva, Switzerland.

Goering, meanwhile, denied reports that he would ask for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a witness in his behalf.

Alfred Rosenberg, super-race philosopher for the Nazi party, is going to get three witnesses who, he expects, will testify that he tried to ease the plight of slave labor.

Frank Would Blame SS

Hans Frank, nazi governor general of Poland during the 8,000,000 murders there, is to get four witnesses who are to testify that it was the SS [elite guard] and the Gestapo and not Frank who should be blamed.

Hjalmar Schacht, 68, ex-president of the Reichsbank, described as a financial wizard who organized German economy for war, is calling for four witnesses to testify that he was opposed to the Nazi party.

Tomorrow the prosecution will begin filling out the skeleton of the case made during the first week of the trial to prove that the 20 nazi defendants conspired from 1933 to 1939 to wage aggressive war.

"You kept me waiting here so long I had to have three sodas. Now I'm broke."

DENY TORTURING ALLIED AIRMEN AT 'SWEAT BOX'

WUPPERTAL, Germany, Nov. 26 (AP)—Col. Erich Killinger, commandant of the infamous "sweat box camp" at Oberusel, and four officers of his staff today pleaded innocent to charges of torturing captured allied airmen.

Facing the British military court set up in the Ruhr's largest zoo, near cages containing several scrawny lions, are Killinger, Maj. Heinz Junge, chief interrogation officer; Maj. Otto Boehringer, in charge of the camp's organization, and two interrogating officers, Lts. Henrich Eberhardt and Bauer-Schlichtergroll.

Former members of the luftwaffe, the accused are specifically charged with ill treatment of allied airmen in an effort to make them reveal information.

5 Methods Listed

The prosecutor, Maj. G. I. Draper, of the judge advocate general's department, said evidence would be presented to prove that the accused used these five methods to try to gain information:

1. Heating asbestos-lined cells almost beyond human endurance.
2. Threatening delivery of prisoners to Gestapo for shooting as saboteurs.
3. Refusing necessary medical attention.
4. Prolonged solitary confinement.
5. Beatings.

Himmler Visit Told

DACHAU, Germany, Nov. 26 [Reuters]—A statement by Martin Weiss, Dachau camp commandant, confirming that former Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler visited the camp on one occasion when prisoners were tortured, was read by the prosecution at today's hearing against the 40 persons accused in the deaths of more than 30,000 people.

The statement, which implicated several of the accused, said that in Himmler's presence, two men, one in flying kit and the other naked, were immersed in ice covered water until they were unconscious.

All orders for execution of prisoners came from Berlin, the statement added, and many trains arrived at Dachau laden with sick and dying.

Describes Executions

A written statement by one of the accused, Obersturmfuehrer Friedrich Ruppert, who also served at Lublin and Warsaw concentration camps, described the shooting of 92 Russians last year.

They were divided into batches of 15, said the statement, stripped, and forced to kneel. They were then shot in the back, each executioner killing several.

Two Millionth Soldier Arrives from Europe

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26 (AP)—The 2,000,000th service man returned from the European theater arrived today on the transport Gen. Breckenridge. He was Corp. Charles W. Hudgins of Norfolk, Va., who served with the 591st combat engineers group.

CHARGE AUSSIE COMMANDER HID PLAN TO ESCAPE

Kept Staff in Dark, Says Prosecution

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 26 (AP)—A key point to be determined in the public inquiry into the escape of Lt. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett from Japanese occupied Singapore in February, 1942, is whether he ever was actually a prisoner of war, it was indicated today.

Lt. Gen. Bennett

Wilfred Dovey, assistant to Justice George Ligterwood, who is presiding at the hearing, made a considerable point of the time element involved in the Australian general's departure and said there would be a large amount of "evidence to the effect that at no time was Bennett a prisoner of war."

Claims He Was Prisoner

On the other hand, Bennett's attorney, Brian Clancy, asserted that once Lt. Gen. Arthur Percival, the allied commander in chief in Malaya, surrendered unconditionally, Bennett was a prisoner of war.

"By reason of the provisions of the army act," Clancy said, "it was Bennett's bounden duty to escape if he could."

Clancy maintained that the surrender was effective at 8:03 p. m. Feb. 15 and that from that time Bennett was at his former headquarters preparing his escape.

Dovey said he would attempt to prove that Bennett's escape plans were "deliberately concealed" from senior officers.

Talk Ended Abruptly

He said Bennett and certain other officers were discussing the escape plans when Col. J. H. Thyer, general staff officer of Bennett's 8th division, entered the room and "Bennett at once closed up a book of maps and ended the conversation."

"Altho Brig. C. A. Callaghan [commander of an Australian division of artillery] and Thyer were in almost daily touch with Bennett, evidence will show that at the time the escape plot was deliberately concealed from both," Dovey said.

"Evidence will be that of all unit commanders in Malaya, Gen. Bennett was the only one who did not remain with his men until they were taken away from them by the Japs."

Confirm Eisenhower and Nimitz Promotions

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—The senate confirmed without a dissenting voice today the nominations of Dwight D. Eisenhower, as army chief of staff, and Chester W. FRENCH PREYING ON BADEN AREA, PRESS REPORTS

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Disturbing reports continue to reach Paris about conditions in the French occupation zone in Germany and its center at Baden-Baden, which is called now "the city of a hundred thousand chevrons," referring to the swarm of carpetbaggers and burocrats in uniform who have invaded the French area.

French newspapers have been calling attention for weeks to the alarming situation developing in the occupation zone because the military government is overstaffed with incompetent civil personnel and their families.

The French are said to be overrunning the country and bringing bad practices with them, including immoderate looting. Large numbers of former Vichy civil servants got a foothold in the French zone along with 350,000 occupation troops.

Laxness Charged

The French press charges that the French military government is doing nothing to help the Germans thru a bad winter. It also is charged with being lax in rooting out nazis.

The Baden-Baden correspondent of the newspaper Paris Matin reports that the French zone is the haven of lazy civil servants and impenitent Vichy men. He says further it is unsafe to be abroad after nightfall, because of French robbers.

French military patrols, while questioning pedestrians after nightfall, regularly steal their victims' watches or pocket books, Paris Matin says. Motorists authorized to travel at night are relieved of their vehicles and armed bandits in unlighted cars prey on country districts, removing pigs and cattle, the paper adds.

Mayor a Victim

Recent victims of these activities included the mayor of Baden-Baden, says the Paris Matin reporter. A suspect, who had been a French police inspector, said on being arrested, "I did not come to Germany to starve," the correspondent adds.

The Paris press contends that 350,000 French troops and 30,000 French civilian administrators are far too many for a region whose prewar inhabitants numbered about 6,000,000. The area could be policed by about two well equipped mobile divisions, the newspapers insist.

French occupation troops who live off the land are underfed and, apart from a few crack formations, are ragged and poorly equipped, the papers say.

GAMBLING ACTIVITIES OF SLAIN EX-CONVICT EXAMINED BY POLICE

Thomas Hirschman

Police scanned the gambling activities and romances of Thomas P. Hirschman, 31, ex-convict and discharged war veteran, last night for clews to his slayers. Hirschman was shot to death Sunday night in Orleans st., north of Ohio st., in the borrowed automobile of George H. Billik, 41, also an ex-convict, who had been drinking with him in a tavern at 605 N. Clark st.

Billik was held by police, who also questioned Thomas Boulahanis, 36, of 3718 Grenshaw st., and were looking for two of Boulahanis' brothers, John and Nicholas. The Boulahanis brothers are reputed gamblers. Another brother, Peter, is serving 14 years in Joliet penitentiary for the slaying of Mike Dooman, north side racketeer, last New Year's day.

Police said John Boulahanis has the license for the tavern where Hirschman had been drinking with Billik, but that Hirschman might have been a part owner. Hirschman was reported to have had an interest in a handbook at Lake st. and Kedzie av. Police also were hunting two women friends of Hirschman.

EVANSTON YANK, A TRACK STAR, KILLED IN INDIA

Sgt. James H. Stewart

Tech. Sgt. James H. Stewart, 21, Negro, former Evanston Township High school track star, was killed last week in Calcutta, India, while driving an ambulance which overturned and burned, the war department yesterday informed his mother, Mrs. Carrie Stewart, 1310 Foster st., Evanston. Stewart's body and the ambulance were found near an intersection where rioting had occurred. The army said it had no further details of his death. Sgt. Stewart attended Lincoln university, Jefferson City, Mo., before his induction in 1942.

ROBS FOOD STORE OF $85

David Gerber, manager of the food store at 3801 State st., was held up in the store yesterday by a Negro who robbed him of $85, Gerber told police.

$13,000 TOUHY CASH TARGET IN COURT BATTLE

BY THOMAS MORROW

It is just possible that legally a man may not keep money that he's worked his fingers to the bone to steal.

This developed yesterday when attorneys gathered before Master Samuel B. Epstein to take a legal whack at $13,000. The money was taken from members of the Roger Touhy gang when they were arrested or shot to death in Chicago Dec. 28-'29, 1942, after their escape from Stateville.

Touhy is back in prison serving out his 99 year sentence for the kidnaping of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, plus 199 years imposed for the prison break.

Atty. C. H. G. Heinfelden, representing the North Town Currency exchange, supported the theory that the money had been taken in a money truck robbery in November, 1942, after the Touhys had skipped away from the penitentiary. He set out to show that a gun found near one of the gang members erased by the FBI had been taken in the holdup.

Supports Touhy Claim

Atty. Joseph Harrington, representing the Touhys, favored the idea that the FBI had gotten the money from his clients.

After a series of verbal exchanges Harrington moved that Assistant U. S. Atty. M. C. Handelman be excluded from the court on the ground the government had given up the case shortly after the capture.

"I have a right to advise the FBI agents," Handelman held.

"I'll exclude no one except witnesses," said Master Epstein. "This is an open court."

"Then I'll subpena him as a witness and ask that he be excluded," Harrington asserted.

"Try to do it," muttered Handelman, and completed the session clinging to his seat.

Visitor Ends Session

Earlier when Harrington asked an agent where he had gone after "assassinating" two gangsters—St. Clair McInerney and James O'Connor—Handelman voiced an objection which was sustained and said Harrington was trying to "slur some one."

Harrington urged Epstein to strike the remark on the ground that he [Harrington] had been insulted, but the master decided he had no right to strike an attorney's remarks.

Harrington heard a loud objection sustained when, in asking about money taken from Touhy, he asked an FBI agent, "Is that the usual practice of the FBI in stealing money from people?"

Then Harrington's nephew, who had just been released from the navy, came in. He was introduced around and the matter went over until 11 a. m. tomorrow morning.

HIROHITO OPENS DIET WITH ORDER TO REFORM LAWS

Asks for Harmonious Deliberations

TOKYO, Nov. 27 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito personally opened the diet's second extraordinary session under a conqueror's close scrutiny today by reading a rescript instructing the members to "conduct harmonious deliberations in conformance with our wish."

The rescript read as follows:

"We hereby convene the imperial diet and tell all ye members of the house of peers and the house of representatives:

"We have commanded the ministers of state to submit to the imperial diet urgent legislative measures concerning the revision of the house of representatives election law and other matters.

Demands Harmony

"We are instructed to conduct harmonious deliberations of the same in conformance with our wish and thereby fulfill your duty of assistance and coöperation."

Reform measures were prominent on the diet's agenda as American officials and Japanese liberals pondered the advisability of postponing elections to avoid hasty balloting by a politically untutored people.

Under existing electoral provisions, this diet would set the final date for new elections. That date would be sometime in April, under the present law calling for convocation of a new diet within five months after dissolution of its predecessor.

People Not Prepared

American circles suggest the Japanese people are unprepared now for intelligent selection of candidates. Such a situation, it is feared, would permit old line politicians, working with influential burocrats, to establish themselves more firmly in control.

Premier Shidehara was expected to emphasize "close relationship between the emperor and the people" as an argument for unity on important domestic measures. Shidehara's address Wednesday is expected to deal at some length with new directives from Gen. MacArthur abolishing war pensions and ordering a heavy tax on war profits.

HIT-RUN DRIVER FINED $100, LOSES LICENSE 90 DAYS

Judge Irwin B. Ciorfene in Felony court yesterday fined Frank Pawelczyk, 31, of 5419 W. 30th st., Cicero, $100 and costs and suspended his driver's license for 90 days on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Pawelczyk drove the car that struck and killed Joseph Pettinger, 73, of 5404 Dakin st., Oct. 13 at Long av. and Irving Park rd.

Judge Ciorfene dismissed two charges of manslaughter against William H. Gray, of 7750 May st., whose car fatally injured Mrs. William Emond, 30, and Mrs. Martha Goldsmith, 30, both of 1630 N. Merrimac av., on a safety island at Central and North avs. Oct. 18. Witnesses estimated the speed of Gray's car at from 50 to 75 miles an hour. He said he was driving not more than 35 miles an hour, and momentarily lost control of his auto.

Marine Pvt. Bernard Dietz, 23, of Des Plaines, pleaded guilty to reckless driving before County Judge Perry L. Persons in Waukegan yesterday. He was sentenced to confinement at the Illinois state farm at Vandalia until Feb. 3. Dietz has been a prisoner for 60 days after an automobile collision at Grayslake, Lake county, in which Archie L. Breese, 47, of McHenry, McHenry, county, was fatally injured.

TESTIFIES BOY BRUISED FROM HEAD TO KNEES

Fort Dodge, Ia., Nov. 26 [Special]—Coroner E. H. Biersborn testified today that between 60 and 80 bruises were found on the body of an inmate of the Eldora State Training School for Boys whose death after a beating brought former Guard Carl Klatt to trial on a charge of second degree murder.

The coroner, called as the state's first witness against Klatt, testified that the victim, Ronald Miller, 17, had bruises extending from the top of his head to his knees.

In addition to the bruises, the boy's body had numerous cuts and skin abrasions, Biersborn said.

Klatt, who was ousted as a result of an investigation of rioting and mass escapes that followed Miller's death, is charged with beating the youth severly in a disciplinary cottage the night before he died.

CHIANG ASSERTS HE WILL RESTORE ORDER IN CHINA

Long Range Program to Quell Reds

CHUNGKING, Nov. 26 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek promised today to go all out to whip the Chinese Communists into orderly line as part of a new long range program to unify any reconstruct China under his nationalist regime.

Announcing creation of a supreme council to cope with China's manifold economic woes, Chiang did not mention the Communists by name, but made his position concerning them clear with these words:

"Some people in China have placed their partisan and personal interests above national interests and have gone so far as to interfere violently with the government's efforts to establish order in liberated areas. The government is acting to correct this condition. We shall spare no effort to bring internal order and security to the nation."

Troops Moving Ahead

Support for his statement came in a Nationalist party dispatch announcing that government troops striking along the Peiping-Mukden railroad, advanced about 40 miles from Chinhsien today to reach Kowpangtze and come within 90 miles of Mukden, press dispatches reported.

At the same time, an unconfirmed Chinese press report said the Russians had agreed to turn over their garrison duties in Manchuria to Chinese Nationalists. It asserted the Russian withdrawal from Manchuria would be postponed until January. The withdrawal had been scheduled for Dec. 3.

Chiang's lengthy announcement of his economic program conceded that "the nation is passing thru a period of alarms and uncertainty, the inevitable aftermath of war," but promised, "as the work of the supreme ecnomic council begins to yield results, the people will become aware that they are at last on their way to a higher standard of living.

"Given internal peace, which I shall strive with all my power to preserve, the economic achievements of the council can open the way to the greatest age in China's long history," he said.

Soong Named Chairman

Premier T. V. Soong was named chairman of the new council and Vice Premier Wong Wen-hao, vice chairman, but Chiang said he himself would "assume personal direction of China's economic reconstruction and development."

Chiang directed the new council to make nation wide transportation improvement its first work.

Mission Successful: Locke

San Francisco, Cal., Nov 26 (AP)—Edwin A. Locke, President Truman's personal envoy to China, will report on his return to Washington, D. C., that his three fold mission has been accomplished successfully, the Central News agency, of China said today in a broadcast.

The agency said Locke told Chinese reporters he had surveyed China's economic conditions, discussed with Chinese officials possible United States-Chinese coöperation in economic fields, and concluded affairs of the American mission formerly attached to the China war production board.

TRAPPED TENANT DIES IN FIRE IN ROOMING HOUSE

James Brown, a carnival worker, was burned to death last night in a fire on the third floor of a rooming house at 58 W. Ohio st., from which another tenant, Carl Tate, 59, was rescued by 2d battalion firemen under Acting Chief Herbert Schaus. Other tenants of the building evacuated their rooms without difficulty, while Brown, in whose bedroom the fire originated, and Tate were trapped by smoke and flame. After Tate was assisted down a ladder, firemen discovered the carnival man's body on the floor of a bathroom. Damage was estimated at $500.

CHARGES NAVY SPONSORS JAP VICE RESORTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—Rep. Cole [R., N. Y.] today demanded an investigation of a report the navy was sponsoring a large house of prostitution for enlisted men in the Yokosuka area of Japan.

Cole requested the investigation in a letter to Chairman Vinson [D., Ga.] of the house naval committee. His report was based on a letter which a navy chaplain, Lawrence C. Lacour, wrote from Tokyo and which was published in several newspapers.

The situation was discussed on the house floor last week when several members demanded the navy department take action. At that time Rep. O'Hara [R., Minn.] inserted in the Congressional Record a letter from Lacour as published Nov. 14 in a Minneapolis newspaper. It read in part:

"As a policy of venereal disease control, the navy is permitting unrestricted access by all men on liberty in the Yokosuka area, to houses of prostitution where the venereal incidence is considered 100 per cent. The control is the prophylaxis administered by naval corpsmen on duty in the houses.

Prophylaxis Available

"At a meeting of the fleet medical officers, on Sept. 26, it was proposed that one large 'house' be opened, that it be operated with the understanding that all the women were diseased, and that a voluntary system of prophylaxis be available by placing a navy-operated treatment station within the house.

"Altho some medical officers and two chaplains in attendance protested, it was stated by the senior medical officer that this was to be the policy.

Protest Ignored

"Subsequently the chaplains of the fleet met, and submitted to the flag a memorandum that represented the unanimous opinion of the group. The action of the chaplains was ignored, and Sunday, Oct. 7, the Yosuura house was opened to enlisted men, with geisha houses permitted to accept the patronage of chiefs and officers.

"Altho the number of men on liberty next day was considerably under normal because of rain, I observed, in company with four chaplains and the officer of the day of the military police, a line of enlisted men four abreast almost a block long, waiting their turn at the Yosuura house.

113 Girls on Duty

"MPs kept the lines orderly, and permitted only as many as could be served to enter at a time. As men were admitted into the lobby, they would select a prostitute [113 on duty that day, according to one of the Japanese attendants], pay the ten yen to the Japanese operator, and then go with the girl to her room. We inspected several of these rooms and found them reasonably clean.

"When the men returned they were registered and administered prophylaxis by navy corpsmen. Altho approximately 20 men could be treated at a time, there was a line waiting."

PUPPET MINISTER PLACED ON TRIAL AS PHILIPPINE TRAITOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 26—Teofilo Sison, member of the Jose P. Laurel puppet cabinet, went on trial on a charge of treason in the people's court here today.

Lorenzo Tanada, chief prosecutor, put Emiliano Punzal, chief of the records division at Malacanan palace before and during the occupation, on the stand as the first witness. He identified more than 20 the Japs.

Arsenio Lacson, a former guerrilla intelligence agent, quoted Sison as saying, "I celebrate the fall of American imperialism and the end of Anglo-Saxon exploitation in this country."

$100 OCEAN HOP STILL BELONGS TO ROSY FUTURE

Lowest One-Way Fare Over Atlantic Is $275

BY FRANK STURDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—Altho trans-Atlantic plane fares are on the way down, the $100 ocean crossing in the stratosphere is a prospect for an unpredictable and rosy future.

At present, the question of trans-Atlantic fares is white hot. Pan-American Airways has lowered its New York to London fare to $275 and the round trip to $495, catching its competitors, American Overseas Airlines and Trans-World Airways, unprepared to announce whether they will fly their routes at the same rate: Approximately 7½ cents a mile.

The pre-war fare in Pan-American flying boats was $375. During the war this was increased to $775, then reduced to $572, the charge still in force on American Overseas, which lately has started service from New York and Chicago to Londan. Pan-American started its first lower fare flight today, when a plane with 24 passengers took off from New York airport for Hurn, England.

Lacks Landing Rights

TWA has yet to make its first flight, which is expected in December. The line has not announced its fare to Paris, its most important but still not accessible stop, because of the lack of landing rights agreement with France.

Both the other lines have had more than 30 days to mull over Pan-American's new rate, which was announced during the Montreal session of the International Air Transport association. At that time, representatives of the United States and foreign lines in competition over the Atlantic were trying to agree on a uniform rate schedule. Pan-American's announcement had the effect of a cloudburst on a picnic. Every one went home, without laughing.

British Overseas Airways corporation, which operated from Baltimore, Md., to London during the war at a fare of $572, also has failed to announce whether it will meet Pan-American's fare.

Stems from Long Fight

The rate jockeying in the trans-Atlantic race for passengers stems from Pan-American's long fight to keep domestic air lines from entering international flying. Pan-American finally lost last July, when the civil aeronautics board awarded routes to Europe to American Overseas and to TWA.

Presenting its case for allocation of an Atlantic route in hearings before the CAB late in 1944, American proposed a schedule of rates somewhat lower than Pan-American's, the New York to London price being $271.55. While the rates proposed then are not binding on the company, they are important indications of the levels American may set. On the basis of the $271.55 fare to London from New York, fares from Chicago to other points on the line would be as follows: Amsterdam, $286; Copenhagen, $301; Oslo, $315; Stockholm, $327; Berlin, $310; Warsaw, $332; Moscow, $380. The proposed additional charge for sleeper accommodations to any of these points was $25.

Traffic Is Factor

How cheap fares eventually may become depends on traffic volume and the size of aircraft. Planes that will fly the Atlantic this winter are not comparable to the types Pan-American considered when, in the course of the last three years while fighting for exclusive foreign operation, it announced plans for rates that meant a $100 fare, a price within the buying power of vast numbers of people.

Probably not until late next year will the lines be able to place Douglas DC 6s in operation. Until then, the DC 4, now in use and with a long war record of successful operation thruout the world, and the Lockheed Constellation, will carry the load. The Constellation, newer of the two, has a pressure cabin and flies at approximately 280 miles an hour, against the DC 4's 220. The DC 6, also with a pressure cabin, is expected to have a speed of 316 miles an hour at 23,000 feet.

Such large planes as the 155,000 pound Douglas DC 7, with a wing span of 173 feet and fuselage of 124 feet, considerably larger than a Super Fortress; the Lockheed Constitution, a secret navy project, and the enormous Consolidated model 37, weighing 320,000 pounds and designed to carry 204 passengers, are still far in the future.

The biggest plane available at present is the Boeing Stratocruiser, a commercial passenger version of the Super Fortress. Carrying from 65 to more than 80 passengers—depending on whether arranged for day or sleeper passengers—the Stratocruiser is flying in an army cargo version as the C 97. Several air lines are reported to be negotiating with Boeing for passenger type contracts.

Heat Your Home with Coal

After a full night's rest, nothing is nicer than stepping into a warm bathroom for that early morning shave and shower—with lots of hot water for both.

Yes, coal provides these conveniences for your comfort and heats your home the clock 'round all winter long with steady, even-flowing heat from floor to ceiling; and you don't have to economize on heat when you burn coal—it's economical.

Coal heating makes a healthful, happy home.

New Coal Heating Devices

Millions of dollars have been put into the perfection of new heating equipment to make coal heating even more convenient and economical. Manufacturers are already tooling up for mass production. Watch for the modernized equipment. It will be on the market soon.

Swerves Machine

A trailer truck loaded with cases of beer and empty bottles was turned on its side yesterday at Grand av. and River rd., in River Grove, when the driver, Louis Avino, of 1411 Taylor st., swerved suddenly to avoid a collision. Avino said the accident was caused by a motorist who drove thru a red light. Spectators found that some of the beer bottles were not broken.

BRITISH ORDER FOR WAR PLANES IS DOUBLE U.S.

Employing Six Times as Many in Plants

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—The British aircraft industry now employs more than six times as many persons as the United States plane industry and its present orders for military planes are double those projected in the American army-navy procurement programs running into mid-1948.

Information on the United Kingdom program was received today from a report of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors. Data on the American military aircraft program is from various industry sources.

The S. B. A. C. reported 900,000 workers in the British aircraft industry in this country during October and an estimate of 122,000 such jobs during December.

2 Million Wartime Peak

The basic American airplane industry had a peak wartime employment of more than 1,000,000. Aircraft and aircraft engine manufacturing by automobile companies and subcontractors brought the wartime aircraft peak to more than 2,000,000 employes.

The S. B. A. C. said British industry had orders for more than 10,000 military planes and that "manufacture of these military types is still going on apace."

This is the first indication here of the scope of British production plans. United Kingdom representatives here previously had said they could not give figures, but commented that the current production rate was a larger percentage of the wartime schedule than was true in the United States.

Navy Buying 1,988

In this country the navy's aircraft purchasing program calls for 1,988 planes by July, 1947, while the army air forces has projected a procurement schedule calling for 3,120 new planes by July, 1948. Together they bought 96,369 airplanes in 1944, but some of those went to lend-lease countries.

During the war, the United States produced 274,941 airplanes, or slightly more than three times as many as England.

$5,000 Bond Set on Charge of Assault to Kill Wife

Judge Irwin B. Clorfene in Felony court yesterday ordered Edward V. Phillips, 45, of 507 N. Wells st., held to the grand jury in bond of $5,000 on a charge of assault to kill his wife, Mary, 47, by striking her on the head with a hammer Oct. 1. Phillips repudiated a confession he signed for police, and said he did not strike his wife. She is in County hospital.

CHICAGO PLANE IS ON SECOND HOP TO LONDON

The American Airlines flagship Chicago took off at 10:09 a. m. yesterday from Chicago airport on its second Chicago to London flight with only three of the 15 passenger seats occupied. The plane left Gander, Newfoundland, at 7:13 p. m., and is scheduled to reach London at 7 a. m. today [Chicago time].

The passengers were John Casey, Chicago airport manager; Walter Wright, superintendent of the city bureau of parks, aviation, and recreation, and Mrs. Netta MacKenzie, 311 N. Central av., a British citizen who said she was returning to Great Britain to live.

After the plane returns here Wednesday it will be flown to the air line's maintenance center in New York for overhaul. In a few weeks this flight, necessitated because the company's main maintenance shops are in New York, will become an extra section of a regularly scheduled flight.

TWO GUNMEN TAKE $360

Two Negro gunmen held up Louis Miller, clerk, and four customers in the hardware store at 310 E. 58th st. yesterday, and got $60 from the cash register and $300 from an unlocked safe, the store owner, Ben Gold, who was out at the time, reported to police yesterday.

FISHBEIN BLASTS TRUMAN HEALTH PLAN AS 'WORST'

Assails Attempt to Socialize Medicine

New York, Nov. 26 [Special]—The national health program proposed to congress last week by President Truman and embodied in the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill was condemned today by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Medical Association Journal, as representing the worst features of "socialized medicine" and "state medicine."

Addressing the annual conference of the national physicians' committee for the extension of medical service at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Dr. Fishbein said this program was part of the "insidious strategy" being used to place American medicine under the control of the federal government thru a system of federal compulsory sickness insurance.

Step in Regimentation

"This is the first step toward the regimentation of utilities, of industries, of finance, and eventually of labor itself," he added. "This is the kind of regimentation that led to totalitarianism in Germany and the downfall of that nation. Its prime consideration is deduction from the pay of the worker and taxation of the employer so that the government does for the people most of the things that our people in the United States have been accustomed to do for themselves. The time may yet come when the American workers, as was the case with the German worker, will have more deductions from wages than 'take home' pay."

Dr. Fishbein said that the language of President Truman and Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], and of the bill itself, were "the same trite locutions that advocates of federal compulsory sickness insurance have used for these many years in trying to force these proposals on the American people." He denied that the President, Wagner, or the social security board had consulted representatives of the American Medical association or other leading medical and dental groups with regard to these proposals.

Favors Hospital Program

Dr. Fishbein said the medical association was in favor of federal aid for the construction of hospitals and health centers, the expansion of maternal and child health services, and for the extension of public health service thruout the country. He emphasized, however, that "no one will ever convince the physicians of the United States that the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill is not socialized medicine.

"By this measure the medical profession and the sick they treat will be directly under political control," he added. "By this measure the great system of private hospitals and community hospitals that have grown up in our country will depend for their continued operation on funds paid to them by the federal government."

TRUMAN'S MEDICAL CARE PLAN CALLED A 'UTOPIAN DREAM'

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 26 (AP)—Dr. Harold T. Low, Pueblo, Colo., today in an interview described President Truman's proposal for medical care as "an Utopian dream and if tried will be a failure like the prohibition law."

Dr. Low, president of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, was here for a sectional meeting of the American Urological association.

Dr. Andrew J. Sullivan, Chicago, past president of the Physicians and Surgeons association, told a luncheon meeting that a similar governmental medical plan in New Zealand has brought about a "complete collapse" of medical care there, and that "members of our association will not participate in such a plan."

Think Twice Before You Say
"Not Enough Experience"

Maybe the applicant who wears an honorable discharge button doesn't know the details of every business.

He didn't know the details of war, either. But he did quite some job on a distasteful assignment. And the Japs and Germans will testify that he had something which proved more potent than their "experience."

You—and we—can't hire every discharged veteran who comes to us. But we can all well afford to devote some time and thought to his individual problem instead of just saying, "Not enough experience."

He doesn't care for that "not enough experience" brush-off—and neither will any of us if we stop to think. Remember, the time he might have spent gaining experience has been devoted to protecting our right to be in business.

JANITOR GOES ON TRIAL FOR FURNACE DEATH

Case Depends on Proof of Corpus Delicti

BY FRANK CIPRIANI

Four jurors were tentatively accepted by the state yesterday at the end of the first day of the life or death trial of Joseph Nischt, husky young south side janitor, who is accused of burning alive an elderly housewife.

Joseph Nischt

The trial was opened before Judge Charles E. Byrne in the Criminal court, after Judge Julius Miner, before whom it had been regularly scheduled, automatically allowed Nischt's petition for a change of venue. The defendant had charged prejudice.

Victim Never Found

There was no fanfare, except for a few minutes' pre-trial posing by Nischt with his lawyer, James M. Burke, as photographers' flashbulbs flared. Promptly both defense and prosecution, the latter in the persons of Assistant State's Attorneys Clement Cody and Blair L. Varnes, settled into the humdrum of asking prospective jurors prying questions into their personal and family backgrounds.

Yet the Nischt trial may well become an outstanding case in Illinois criminal history, not only because of the alleged horror of the alleged crime—the double qualification is in point—but because his alleged victim, Mrs. Rose Michaelis, has never been found, dead or alive, since last Feb. 28 when she disappeared from her home at 6855 Clyde av.

Recants His Confession

Nischt, janitor at the Clyde av. address, confessed three days later that he bludgeoned Mrs. Michaelis into insensibility, then to thwart recognition, thrust her body into the hot furnace where, he said, it was consumed by the flames. He afterward recanted his story.

No trace of the woman's body was found in the furnace or ash, and authorities subsequently experimented with a cadaver in the same furnace to determine whether the furnace could so have destroyed a human body. The test showed that possible.

Thus the conventional corpus delicti is absent in this case. Without a corpus delicti no murder prosecution can stand. The phrase means, in general, proof of death in a criminal manner. It will be up to the state to prove Mrs. Michaelis' death, and this Varnes and Cody said they expect to do.

Contends Victim Is Alive

Defense Lawyer Burke's position as outlined yesterday, is simple. He will contend Mrs. Michaelis is merely missing—and still alive. Nischt's purported confession will be fought, he added.

In the brief period of the trial yesterday Varnes told prospective jurors that the state would try to show that Mrs. Michaelis died from "striking and beating and by mortal burning that consumed her body." He read a list of 78 state witnesses, but indicated only about 35 would testify.

State to Ask Death

Then his partner, Cody, started the examination of veniremen. Almost at the start, when quizzing Mrs. Mary A. Wichert, housewife, 3237 Carpenter st., he announced that the state would seek death for Nischt in the electric chair.

At the court's adjournment, Mrs. Wichert, Mrs. Stella Masters, 4826 Addison st.; Samuel Tobin, 944 E. 52d st., and Mrs. Caroline Gierzyski, 2507 Augusta blvd., had been tentatively approved by the state, and turned over to the defense for interrogation.

"There goes the head doctor at the dog hospital. He's operating today."

WEISBERG TRIAL IN BAR SLAYING SET FOR JAN. 14

Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, 49, gambler and former Rush st. speakeasy owner, pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of murder in the fatal shooting Oct. 23 of Joseph W. McKnight, 46, Evanston automobile salesman, in the Regent room tavern at 1 N. La Salle st.

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of Criminal court assigned the case to Judge Leonard C. Reid for trial Jan. 14. At the request of Atty. Harold Levy, who represented Weisberg, Judge Ward instructed the state to furnish the defense with a list of witnesses by Dec. 5. Levy said he may file a motion to quash the indictment.

PAROLEE SENT BACK TO PRISON AFTER FORGERY

Thomas Murray, 35, a robber paroled from Joliet penitentiary in April, was ordered returned there on a sentence of one to two years yesterday by Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court after conviction of forgery. Murray's mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Swier, 5638 S. Paulina st., said he cashed two dividend checks, for a total of about $35, which were addressed to her. Mrs. Swier said Murray did not tell her daughter, Margaret, that he was an ex-convict until after he married her. A parole officer said Murray violated his parole by getting married without permission.

DEFER INQUEST OF STEPFATHER SLAYING BY VET

An inquest into the slaying of Frank L. Foote, 47, by his step-son, Victor Gervais, 21, a war veteran, was ordered continued to Dec. 7 yesterday at the request of two brothers of the victim.

Foote, a gasoline station attendant, was killed Sunday in front of his home at 4639 Wentworth av. by a pistol which Gervais had brought back from Germany. Gervais told police he had fired in self-defense when he attempted to protect his mother who earlier in the evening had been beaten by her husband. Neither mother nor son was called upon to testify at yesterday's hearing.

The Footes have three small children. In addition to Victor, Mrs. Foote has another son and two daughters by her previous marriage.

Liquor Cases Per Capita Put at 1 to 54 by W.C.T.U.

Arrests for drunkenness, driving while intoxicated, and local liquor law violations in the United States now total one for every 54 persons annually, Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, treasurer of the National Women's Christian Temperance union, said yesterday.

GADGETMAKER USES LIGHT TO TRAP HIS WIFE

Eldon Beckwith, 30, of Des Plaines, is a chiropodist during the day, an electrical inspector at night, and a gadgeteer in his spare time, his attorney, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, told Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg yesterday. One of his gadgets, the attorney said, is a wife trap.

Eldon Beckwith

Beckwith and his wife, Leila, 26, of 914 Lee st., Des Plaines, appeared before Judge Schnackenberg in Circuit court, where each has a divorce bill pending against the other. Both charge adultery. Both also were seeking custody of their child, Penelope, 2, and Mrs. Beckwith sought temporary alimony. Yesterday's hearing was to determine whether she was entitled to support.

Gadget Put on Bed

Beckwith became suspicious, Ehrlich said, when he heard his wife was frequently coming home late at night, often in the company of men. Applying the electrical skill he acquired in his inspection job, Ehrlich said, Beckwith contrived an ingenious gadget which he attached to his wife's bed. The gadget would cause a light to flash outside the house under certain circumstances.

"On the night of Nov. 8," Ehrlich told the court, "Beckwith's stepfather, Elmer M. Beckwith, took up his vigil outside the house. He hadn't been there long before the light began flashing.

"He was assisted by Clifford Dewhirst, a colleague of his stepson, whom he dispatched to the roof of the house with instructions to lower himself to a balcony outside the bedroom window, and to peer inside.

Reports Two in Room

"Pretty soon Dewhirst reported that Mrs. Beckwith and a man were in the bedroom. The elder Beckwith then hurried upstairs and burst into the bedroom, where he found his stepson's wife and the man."

Both the stepfather and Dewhirst testified briefly, substantiating Ehrlich's statements. Judge Schnackenberg continued the hearing until Thursday.

Mrs. Beckwith's divorce bill was filed Nov. 16 and her husband's cross-complaint Nov. 19. The couple was married Aug. 13, 1938.

Motion for New Divorce Suit by Dr. Lyons Denied

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday denied a motion by Dr. Horace R. Lyons, ear, nose, and throat specialist, to set aside a jury verdict denying his suit for divorce from his wife, Alice, of the Stevens hotel, and upholding her suit for separate maintenance. A motion for a new trial also was denied, and the court set Dec. 10 for hearing on a motion by Mrs. Lyons' attorney, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, for a decree of permanent separate maintenance.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS AND PEARL HARBOR

Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles, the two men nominally charged with the conduct of American foreign relations in the period leading up to Japan's attack upon Pearl Harbor, made a great show of injured innocence in their appearances before the congressional committee. Their motives, they said, were lofty and above question.

Mr. Welles, the former undersecretary of state, displayed a somewhat better memory than his erstwhile superior, Mr. Hull, who was certain of nothing except that he had always been right. He was also gifted with more frankness, conceding that Mr. Hull and himself had never been more than No. 1 and No. 2 boys in the conduct of American diplomacy.

He testified that the shifting of the fleet to Pearl Harbor, where it was eventually surprised by the Japs and sunk at its moorings, was "an integral part of the over-all policy. You can't divorce the diplomatic field from the military field. It was a policy moving along parallel roads." Asked who made the over-all policy, Mr. Welles replied, "The President, of course." The answer could have been expected. Everything in the Pearl Harbor inquiry has a way of coming back to Mr. Roosevelt.

Perhaps the most astounding part of the Hull-Welles testimony was that, as both witnesses admitted, they were marching on the road to war for almost four months before Pearl Harbor, and yet were keeping the American people and even the senate foreign relations committee completely in the dark as to the effect of their actions.

Constitutionally, the senate, as the people's representatives, is supposed to have a voice in the conduct of international affairs. Treaties, for example, can only be made "by and with the advice and consent of the senate." Congress, again, has the sole power of making war. Yet the evidence during the appearance of Mr. Hull and Mr. Welles disclosed not only that the President was making secret agreements with Prime Minister Churchill which laid down a parallel policy against Japan, but that the whole course of the nation's over-all policy as dictated by Mr. Roosevelt and executed in detail by the state department inevitably tended toward war. Congress knew nothing of these proceedings. It was left with the perfunctory task of declaring war after the war had already come.

Mr. Churchill, indeed, was the only person who spared a passing thought for the President's obligations to congress and the people, and he offered nothing but lip service to constitutional requirements. At the Atlantic conference in August, 1941, he and Mr. Roosevelt had drawn up a joint declaration of what were supposed to be the aims of belligerent Britain and a neutral United States. Because this wasn't cast in the form of a treaty, Mr. Roosevelt did not feel obliged to obtain senate approval.

At the same conference Mr. Churchill persuaded the President to enter a declaration of parallel policy threatening Japan with war by Britain and the United States in the event of further encroachments by the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific—an area where Britain and Holland had great interests and America none. Mr. Roosevelt thought the matter over when he got back to Washington and watered down the threat. He knew that he was exceeding his constitutional authority in personally promising Japan a war, and he was apparently afraid congress might set up a howl.

Mr. Churchill kept egging him on. "I realize your constitutional difficulties," the prime minister wrote, but then went on to urge once more that Mr. Roosevelt deliver his threat to the Japs. The message as finally delivered to the Japanese ambassador omitted a specific warning that the United States would resort to military action, stating instead that this country would be "compelled to take steps to safeguard its legitimate interests." Mr. Welles agreed that the two versions meant the same thing in diplomatic language. Both warned of war.

Certainly after the Atlantic conference the insiders, both in this country and in Britain, knew what was coming. Sen. Pepper, an administration insider, said in a speech at Boston on Nov. 24, two weeks before Pearl Harbor, that the United States had "fixed a line in the Pacific and would start shooting if the Japs crossed it, without regard to the technicality of a declaration of war." Mr. Churchill, on Jan. 27, 1942, informed the house of commons that his mind had been at ease because of the "probability, since the Atlantic conference, at which I discussed these matters with President Roosevelt, that the United States, even if not herself attacked, would come into the war in the far east." Thus the President's personal commitment to Churchill in August was accepted as binding. There was going to be a war—even if congress and the people didn't know about it.

Mr. Hull's justification for this kind of diplomacy was that the Japs were safe crackers and aggressors, while the British and the other allies we were taking under our wing were peace loving nations. The events of the recent past leave the Nobel peace prize winner looking very much like an old hypocrite. Hundreds of thousands of American lives were sacrificed in a war which has left the British, French, and Dutch free to shoot down helpless natives with American lend-lease weapons. The British have conveniently forgotten the moral distinctions which were supposed to separate them from the Japs in 1941 and now are glad to accept the assistance of the Jap garrison in Java against the Indonese.

Such conduct destroys the hypocritical talk about peace loving nations and aggressor nations, while the spectacle of the state department forcing the American army to a policy of brutality in the occupation of Germany completes the impression that that department is today as little the servant of the public and the national interest as it was in 1941 when it was Mr. Roosevelt's instrument in precipitating a war upon which he and Mr. Churchill were already fully agreed.

THE HYPHENATES

The persistence of some war born propaganda societies in surviving into the peace offers evidence that there are large numbers of Americans who have less interest in the welfare of the United States than in helping Old World countries achieve prosperity and a place in the sun at American expense. France Forever, as an example, is still in business. There may have been some justification for the existence of such an organization in order to provide an emotional outlet for Francophiles when France was an extinguished nation, but France is now free, thanks to the American army, and one wonders what further services she requires of us.

The pro-British and pro-Russian, or, rather, pro-Communist, organizations are similarly active, and there is good reason to believe that they think they have a permanent missionary job in this country. The followers of all such groups are nominally American citizens, but their passionate attachments are not for this country. Many of the more rabid partisans of Britain, France, and Russia are members of families which immigrated here decades if not centuries ago, and who would have been supposed to have forgotten their European ties long since.

We can understand if we cannot sympathize fervently with the hyphenated activities of persons who were in the recent stream of immigration to the United States, and whose families and friends may be suffering fron one or another of the forms of suppression and persecution which are European specialties. It is to be expected that they should bestir themselves in the hope of alleviating the misfortunes of those who are near and dear to them.

There is, however, no excuse for the proselyting by old established Americans in the cause of countries which their ancestors quit long ago. Recent immigration from Britain and France has been negligible, and the followers of hyphenated causes serving the interests of such countries are only in rare instances newcomers to this land. Americans who are for America are constrained to believe that such people are professing a superiority over their fellow Americans by seeking acceptance from their patrons abroad as near-Englishmen or quasi-Frenchmen. As to the little brothers of holy Russia, we suppose the motive is that they all hope to be commissars, comes the revolution.

MR. TAFT ON INFLATION

Sen. Taft continues to expose Mr. Truman as an inflationist and to prove it. On the one hand the administration insists on retaining the OPA, which, by holding prices of manufactured goods below a profitable level, can discourage the production of goods. On the other hand, Mr. Truman recommends large wage increases, which will still further discourage manufacture, and at the same time indorses the Wallace theory of prosperity thru government deficits.

What all this means, as Mr. Taft has made plain, is the piling of more and more purchasing power on top of an already immense accumulation of cash and savings that is menacing because goods are scarce. The first step in overcoming the inflationary threat must be to increase by all available means the production of goods. Once the markets are again well stocked, the upward pressure on prices will be relieved.

Mr. Taft summarizes all this by saying that good $2 bills cannot be made from $1 bills. "It would be easy," he says, "to reach Henry Wallace's figure of a national income of 200 billion dollars a year by inflating wages and prices. We could do it even better by stamping every dollar bill to make it a $2 bill." But that wouldn't add anything to anybody's well-being. It would only achieve what the present program is achieving: a pressure on prices so intense that even a highly competent administration of OPA couldn't hold the line.

Once again Mr. Taft has disclosed his understanding of ecohomic forces. In this particular he is by all odds the strongest man in Washington today. He knows what it is all about and he has the courage and tenacity to make the fight. He comes from a highly industrialized state, but he has not been intimidated by the CIO. He knows that what he is saying is in labor's interest as well as everybody's interest. More than any other Republican in congress, Mr. Taft is making a record of usefulness to his party and to the country which it serves.

Many persons suppose that it was Franklin D. Roosevelt who invented "the forgotten man," but the credit actually belongs to William Graham Sumner, who, as far back as 1883, penned the words: "Who is the forgotten man? He is the clean, quiet, virtuous, domestic citizen, who pays his debts and his taxes and is never heard of out of his little circle."—Washington Evening Star.

VINTAGE OF 1848

The Newberry library has acquired the papers—printed matter, letters, diaries, etc.—of Hermann Raster, an early editor of the Illinois Staats Zeitung, as the nest egg of a collection of research material dealing with the "Forty-Eighters," a class of refugees from political oppression in the German states whose legend is familiar. They were largely spokesmen for democracy of the intellectual type who emigrated to escape the secret police after the social unrest in Germany and other European countries in 1848. Carl Schurz is the best known figure in this gallery, but Raster's influence is rated by some historians as of equal importance.

* * *

Raster was editor of a German newspaper in New York from 1853 until 1867, when he came to Chicago. During his New York period he contributed weekly articles on political subjects to a paper in Berlin which were eloquent discussions of the issues that resulted in the Civil war. They proved to be effective propaganda for the sale of the war bonds of the Lincoln administration in Germany.

* * *

Raster edited the Illinois Staats Zeitung from 1867 until his death in 1891, and made it the most influential German-American newspaper in the United States. His editorials were often reprinted, in translation, by the native press, especially during political campaigns.

* * *

He lived on Jackson blvd., somewhere west of Halsted st., and his home is remembered by survivors of his period as a hospitable center of cultural life. He is buried in Graceland cemetery, on a family lot southwest of the lagoon. The Corinthian pillar of the Pullmans and the pyramid of the Schoenhofens are markers from which to start a search. His monument carries a small bronze bust of the editor and the epitaph, "Ueber Alles die Pflicht" ["Above everything, duty"].

BACK DOOR TO HEAVEN

When I am judged by the Almighty One,
Will He reproach me for my Sabbaths spent
In labyrinths of rain, and wind, and sun?
Because I walked the ways the seasons went?
For I loved life too much to let a church
Shut out the psalms of lark and oriole;
The miracle of April in a birch,
And all the things that helped me find my soul.
How could I watch the sunrise from a pew,
Or hear the feathered choirs led by His hand?
From my back door I had a perfect view
Of consummated loveliness He planned.
While others entered church to go to God,
I climbed the shining hills of goldenrod.

The Officer and the Gentleman

I hesitated just inside the door of a popular Chicago restaurant. The owner, with gross accent, was publicly berating a major of the United States army. The major, it seems, had committed the unpardonable sin of whistling for a waitress after having been neglected for 20 minutes.

The major, a spare man with service stripes and campaign ribbons indicating three years' active duty in Mediterranean and Pacific theaters, stood quietly at attention and listened to the inelegant barrage of broken English. He may have been setting an example for several enlisted men standing nearby. On the other hand, he may have been merely amused.

Three years ago this restaurant keeper's country was in jeopardy. Six months ago this major could have had anything in the place. Yes, the war is over.

I hesitated just inside the door of a [once] popular Chicago restaurant . . . but not for long!

Strange Case of the Backward Bicycle

Perhaps the Baker Street Irregulars can throw some light on this Holmesian puzzler:

"This [bicycle] track, as you perceive, was made by a rider who was going from the direction of the school."

"Or toward it?"

"No, no, my dear Watson. The more deeply sunk impression is, of course, the hind wheel, upon which the weight rests. You perceive several places where it has passed across and obliterated the more shallow mark of the front one. It was undoubtedly heading away from the school."

—From "The Adventure of the Priory School."

Now why couldn't the track of the hind wheel obliterate the other one going in any direction?

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

F. R. O. writes: "I have heard that a veteran with 90 days' service is entitled to college expenses for one year. Is this correct? If he were in the service for more than nine months, but less than 18, would he receive the same number of months of college training that he had spent in services?"

Every veteran who has served for 90 days or more is entitled to one year of education or training, plus the length of time spent in service. To determine the amount of education to which a veteran is entitled, add the number of months served to one year. The maximum amount of education allowable is four years for veterans who were under 25 at the time they entered service. Those over 25 must prove that their education was interrupted by their military service as the law now stands. A proposal is before congress to remove the 25 year age limitation.

A. P. W. writes: "I have been told that the state of Illinois paid a bonus to veterans of World War I. I have no recollection of ever having received a bonus from the state. Will you please inform me if I still am entitled to the Illinois bonus and where I can apply for it?"

The Illinois bonus for veterans of World War I. was passed by the legislature May 3, 1921, and approved by the voters in the November, 1922, election. Eligible veterans must have made application by Dec. 31, 1924. The act was removed from the statutes July 15, 1941. Those who did not make application before Dec. 31, 1924, cannot now apply.

DISTORTION AND THICKENING OF THE BONES

DISEASES often have strange manifestations and occasionally the patient singles out one symptom and gives it undue prominence. As an illustration: a man consults a doctor because his head is getting larger. The chances are that he suspected this state when his hats no longer fit and larger sizes were necessary. Until the physician inquires further, the information essential to complete the true picture will not be revealed.

Such a condition was described more than 65 years ago by James Paget as a peculiar bone disturbance of individuals chiefly in middle life. It is called by his name and is known also as "osteitis deformans." The skull and the bones in the forearms, lower legs, shoulders, hips, and spine are attacked most frequently. Definite changes occur which consist initially of softening. Almost simultaneously, the body attempts to overcome the defect by forming an overgrowth of new bony material.

Ordinarily, only one structure is affected at the start—usually the shin—but in time others become afflicted and ultimately a generalized involvement is noted. To date there has been no adequate explanation of the phenomenon, altho the parathyroid glands have been implicated by some, whereas others consider it an accompaniment of aging.

The course is generally slow and, as a result, few seek medical aid until the disorder is well established. During the softening phase, distortions are likely to be observed, especially in the weight-bearing structures. The shin bone, for example, becomes markedly bowed but—unlike the common variety—the curve protrudes forward instead of in a lateral direction. Since this is combined with considerable thickening, it can hardly be mistaken. Similar alterations may take place in the hips, giving them a broad and massive appearance. The spine becomes rigid and the victim hunches over so much that height may be decreased four or five inches. The enlarged head is carried forward so that the chin actually rests on the chest.

As a rule, this is not a painless ailment and discomfort may be so extreme that walking is difficult. Many victims cannot get about without the aid of a cane or crutches. Examination discloses tenderness over the dense area and soreness may be worse at night, particularly after a day on the feet. The muscles too may suffer, for cramping and wasting are common.

There is an associated general weakness, as well as fatigue, loss of hearing and heart symptoms. Fractures may follow trivial injuries and this is often the first clew that the disease exists. Under the X-ray, the skeletal pattern is typical and the procedure is valuable in establishing the diagnosis. Blood studies are also helpful, as the calcium and phosphorus content are usually elevated.

The infirmity seldom interferes with life expectancy and many individuals, altho progression continues, live 20 to 30 years after the onset. Now and then the process seems to stop spontaneously but, in the majority, it advances gradually.

Many measures have been advocated in treatment. Surgical removal of the excess bone has been performed in an effort to minimize deformity. This does not in any way influence the disease itself. Aluminum acetate and cobra venom have been employed to alleviate pain but simple analgesic drugs may prove effective.

DROOPING "BLINKER"

A. R. writes. What causes the eyelid to swell and droop?

REPLY

There are many possibilities and when only one side is involved, a local disturbance must be considered. This includes infection, paralysis, and edema of an allergic basis.

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

Mrs. T. P. writes: My 2 year old daughter seems to be troubled with adenoids. Can they be removed without disturbing the tonsils?

REPLY

Yes, but since infection in the tonsils frequently co-exists, the removal of both is usually indicated.

TOBACCO STAINS

Miss C. M. writes: Have you any suggestions on how to remove tobacco stains from the fingers?

REPLY

Mystery Unfolding

Some day if you have nothing else to do, you might take a bean seed and place it between two moist blotters. In time, depending on what type of bean it is, it will germinate. Place it in the ground and soon a root will grow down and a sprout will grow up. Why is this? No one has ever been able to explain. Gravity pulls the root downward, but what pulls the sprout up against the force of gravity? What makes the seed grow at all?

A woman who is getting so close to the answer that some schools of nomenclature already are calling her the Marie Curie of horticulture will be in town tomorrow to tell Chicago gardeners some of her findings. She is Dr. Alice Withrow, who, with her husband, Dr. R. B. Withrow [now in the navy teaching radar], is opening up vistas of scientific research that Dr. Milton Carleton, Chicago horticultural authority, declares "may tell us more about atomic energy and how to apply it usefully than all the other discoveries about nuclear physics."

What Mrs. Withrow seems to be on the path of is the secret of creating the life force as it functions in the growth of plants. She and her husband are using the reverse technique, however. They are trying to put a scientific finger on just what energy it is that affects plant life. No one knows, for example, why the leaves of plants are little chemical factories where carbon and oxygen are synthesized to form plant cells. This is chlorophyll. What is it? Charles M. Kettering has spent two million dollars trying to find out. He still doesn't know.

The Withrows are physicists. Since 1935 they have been trying to ascertain what effect light has on the work of plants and what effect light has on plant nutrition. They have treated plants with both ends of the spectrum; that is, with ultraviolet light and with no light, as well as with intervening gradations. They have made remarkable discoveries. They have made plants bloom without ever having been in the light of the sun. They have hastened the rooting and blooming of some plants, retarded it in others. By changing light, they have made plants absorb different types of nutrient elements. What Mrs. Withrow has done with chrysanthemums may give you a tangible idea of this: by keeping more light on the plants than they would normally receive in their normal fall growing season, she has retarded their blooming until January or February. By giving them darkness instead of light, she has forced them to bloom as early as July.

Man has always known, vaguely, that energy from the sun makes the earth's vegetation grow. More recently he has found that different rays in the sun's light affect plants and humans in different ways. Yet the most important physical process in the world still remains the conversion of the energy of the sun into starches and food. Only because chlorophyll, the green coloring substance of the plant, can take sunshine and transform it into useful energy does man survive. Why does chlorophyll do this? How does it? Mrs. Withrow has come closer to finding these answers than any one in the world [unless her findings have been duplicated or surpassed in Europe during the war].

If man learns the how or why of chlorophyll, he might produce it artificially. If he learns to produce it artificially, thereby catching energy from the sun, he could perform an atomic conversion which would be beneficial rather than harmful. He could lock up energy to be used for useful purposes. All coal is made [naturally] that way. All starch and grains are made that way. It is the way all grasses produce the energy on which cattle live. It is, in short, the life cycle.

These are a few reasons, stated imperfectly and haltingly perhaps, why Dr. Withrow's lecture tomorrow noon before the Chicago Horticultural society should be of absorbing interest. [Tickets may be obtained at the garden center of the Chicago public library.] In a world made gloomy by the prospect of untold energy unleashed by untold atomic bombs, the approach of locked-up energy should be the bright hope of man.

CORRECTING THE BISHOPS

Chicago, Nov. 19—The Catholic bishops condemn Russia for using our vocabulary and distorting the meaning of the words, but the bishops play into their hands by using key words of Russian propaganda.

Example: Using the word "democracy" to describe [1] our government and [2] empire governments.

It is said "writing maketh an exact man." When bishops and other educated people write or speak about our government they should be exact and refer to it as the Republic of the United States, not as a republic or a democracy. There may be other republics but they are not like the Republic of the United States. This Republic is founded on the eternal truth that all men are born free and that they have inalienable rights.

In no other government has an individual inalienable rights.

No other government is founded on this idea and surely no one will argue that the great "democracies" Britain, France, Holland, and Russia believe in this idea.

So let these bishops, and all of us, stop the alien propaganda of identifying with us, and tying our Republic up with, the interests and the fate of those ungodly empires, by indiscriminately referring to us and all these other nations as democracies.

If they are democracies, then we definitely are not a democracy.

Is it a bit of the irony of fate that a highly intellectual attainment should be the property of a country that has proved itself the asylum for gray matter rather than a charnel house for its liquidation, or is it rather a touch of the grace of Providence?

POLICE ON WAY TO GET $19,000, BOY, 2 CO-EDS

Ex-Congressman Wants Son, Money Back

Columbus, Ga., Nov. 26 [Special]—Two Detroit co-eds and a former congressman's son, taken from a Miami bound train early today after they had fled Detroit with $20,000 to $21,000 in currency which the son took from his father's strong box, waited in the police station tonight for the arrival of Detroit police en route by air to bring them home.

No charges will be preferred against them if they return to Detroit willingly, according to word from that city, where former Republican Rep. Clarence McLeod, Detroit attorney, was quoted as saying he is only interested in getting back his son and what is left of his money.

Met in Chicago

The son, Malcolm, 18, took the money Thursday from his father's home me. the girls by appointment Friday in Chicago, and started for Miami with them Saturday aboard the Illinois Central's Seminole limited. After "spending money like water" for the last four days, young McLeod had $19,112 in his pockets when taken into custody.

Detective Sgt. Jessie Wilson and a matron of the Detroit police department left Detroit by plane late today for Columbus, it was reported here. They had instructions to bring the three back by air tomorrow.

The girls are Betty Ann Mackey, 21, and Kathleen Conricode, 19, both students at Detroit's Wayne university. Betty Ann, who wears her ash blonde hair in a long glamor bob, is a daughter of Capt. James Mackey of the Detroit fire department and a former dramatic student at Columbia university, New York.

Father Traced Son

Their arrest in Columbus resulted from information obtained by the elder McLeod, who traced his son to Chicago and learned he had boarded the Miami train. Earlier the father, in reporting to police the theft of his money, had expressed a fear robbers might have kidnaped his son.

Young McLeod told police he had hoped to marry Betty Ann upon their arrival in Miami. He admitted taking the money from his father, saying he broke into a locked closet where he knew his father kept it. He decided to take the money and go away with the girls, he said, because every one was "down on him."

Fed Up with Strictness

Betty Ann and Kathleen said they talked with McLeod Thursday in Detroit and agreed to run away from home and meet him in Chicago the next day. They said they were "fed up" with the strictness of their parents, who required them to be at home by 11 p. m. each night. They hoped, they said, to find jobs in Chicago.

After helping himself to his father's money following a Thanksgiving day dinner, McLeod left his home and hired a taxicab to take him to Chicago, it was learned. The trip cost him $125 and on arrival in Chicago the boy secured a room for the cab driver and himself at the Palmer House.

"Spent Like Water"

Betty Ann and Kathleen had agreed to take a Thursday night train to Chicago but they were unable to get accommodations and actually left Detroit the following morning, arriving in Chicago at 1 p. m. Friday. They met McLeod at the Sherman hotel.

Receipts found in Betty Anne's purse disclosed that the three had separate rooms Friday night at the Stevens hotel, where McLeod paid a total bill of $66.

"He spent money like water," Betty Ann said.

Talks to Father

Betty Ann said McLeod had asked her to marry him, but that she had not agreed to.

McLeod carried on a long distance telephone conversation with his father during the day but was reticent as to what his father had said. The girls said they hoped they could return to Detroit and resume their Wayne university careers.

In Detroit, Capt. Mackey was quoted as saying, "I am going to get Betty Ann back here as soon as I can, and what I have to say to her I will say in private."

Robert E. Moore, 41, of 1152 Wabash av., who was arrested yesterday because his face was pimpled, admitted stealing nine checks totaling $900 from mail boxes, police said. He will be turned over to postal authorities. Detectives Edward Spellman and Edward Erickson, remembering that the man who recently killed two detectives on the north side was described as a pimply faced man, questioned Moore when they saw him at Paulina st. and Estes av. He said he was paroled from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., after serving part of a three year sentence for mail theft.

FLU EPIDEMIC LOSING GRIP ON WEST SUBURBS

A wave of respiratory ailments that has caused a large number of absences among school children in the western suburbs showed signs of abating yesterday after the Thanksgiving holiday.

In most cases, the absent pupils were afflicted with colds or light forms of influenza.

Eugene Youngert, superintendent of the Oak Park-River Forest Township High school, said 600 pupils there, or 18 per cent of the enrollment, were absent, but the situation in Proviso Township High school was said to have returned virtually to normal after having been most serious about two weeks ago.

Proviso High school said the number of pupils absent was not large, but that the teaching staff has been seriously affected, with a dozen members of the faculty having been absent during the last 10 days.

Youngert said he discussed the situation with other school heads from all parts of the state at a meeting Friday and found indications that the condition is state-wide, altho not alarming.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 27—Battle of Washita River

THE band of the 7th cavalry regiment struck up "Garry Owen" and the soldiers leaped forward over the snow covered ground. From four sides they closed in on the Indian village.

The surprised Indians, greatly outnumbered by Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer's 700 troops, could do little against the deadly Spencer repeaters which spat lead against them in the dawnlight.

Black Kettle, a Cheyenne chief of the Cheyenne village, died at the door of his lodge. So did other Indians who had run from their dwellings to see what the uproar portended.

Some of the braves fled. Others found shelter in hollows and fought with arrows and old firearms until they were killed. Custer's men then burned the village and shot the Indians' ponies, which they had left behind in their flight.

In all, 103 Indian braves were killed. Some 53 women and children were captured. Custer lost 21 killed and 14 wounded.

This encounter took place on Nov. 27, 1868, near the Washita river, in territory which is now part of Oklahoma. It was an episode of the bloody Indian wars which stained the period.

65-Pointers Due Home

PARIS, Nov. 26—(AP)—The United States army said today that troops in the European theater having 65 discharge points could expect to be home by Christmas. The announcement said delays forecast in October and early November because of a shipping shortage had been more than made up.

MacNIDER'S SON TO BE RELEASED WITH 38 POINTS

Father Is a Friend of Gen. Vandegrift

Pvt. Jack MacNider, 18, will be discharged from the marines at the Great Lakes naval training center this morning on 38 service points, 12 points less than the marines current discharge standard, because of friendship between his father, Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider, and the marine corps commandant, Lt. Gen. A. A. Vandegrift. The friendship has extended thru two wars.

"Jack and I were together in Tokyo last month and I thought it would be fine if he could come home with me and go back to school to continue his pre-medical training," said Gen. MacNider over the telephone from his home in Mason City, Ia., last night.

Landed on Iwo Jima

"Gen. Vandegrift is an old friend of mine. I got in touch with him and asked if he thought it could be arranged. Jack enlisted on his 17th birthday. He has had nearly two years' service, including the landing on Iwo Jima."

As a result of Gen. MacNider's request, an order for young MacNider's discharge for "convenience of the government" reached Col. L. C. Plain, commander of the marine separation center at Great Lakes. He said it would be effective at 10 a. m. today.

Col. Plain said that while 50 points is the marine corps' requirement at present, exceptions are made in cases of hardship or special merit. Men held at the station who have more than 50 points, and some with as many as 85 points, are retained because of the need for their special abilities, he said.

Wounded on New Guinea

Gen. MacNider served in World War I. in the 2d division, which was half army and half marines, and when the war ended was lieutenant colonel of the 9th infantry and wore the distinguished service cross and other decorations.

In the second war, in which he had nearly four years' service, he was wounded on New Guinea. Gen. MacArthur pinned the Legion of Merit on him for that campaign. He was with MacArthur when American forces recaptured the Philippines.

TRIAL DELAYED FOR 3 IN ATTACK ON POLICEMAN

Judge Michael Tremko in Stock Yards Police court yesterday continued to Jan. 10 the hearing of assault charges against Charles Gendrich, 21, of 9205 Normal av.; Peter Baekeloo, 32, of 10635 Edbrooke av., and Glenn Webb, 49, of 4738 Wentworth av., who attempted to pull Policeman Robert Martin from his automobile in front of a tavern at 512 W. 103d st. Nov. 21. The policeman fired in self-defense and wounded Gendrich and Baekeloo, who are in St. George's hospital. He said the three men had been drinking and attacked him without provocation.

Some 45 Point Air Force Specialists Get Releases

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—A limited number of men who have been declared surplus to the needs of the air transport command ferrying division at Great Falls, Mont., are being discharged there if they have 45 points and 42 months' service, army air force headquarters disclosed today. Officials said the men were specialists and that the discharges do not establish a rule.

CARRIER SETS NEW ATLANTIC SPEED RECORD

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 26 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Lake Champlain arrived here today establishing a world's record of 32.048 knots for crossing the Atlantic, the 5th naval district public information office announced today.

Bringing home 5,052 American troops from the European theater, the Lake Champlain completed the crossing from Gibraltar to Norfolk—3,360 miles—in four days eight hours and 51 minutes, the navy reported.

The previous record for the westward crossing, held by the British liner Queen Mary, was an average of 30.99 knots from Bishop Rock off Southampton to Ambrose Light off New York. This record was established in August, 1938. Later the Queen Mary returned from Ambrose Light to Bishop Rock at an average speed of 31.67 knots.

Two Held to Grand Jury on Auto Theft Charges

Leonard Graczyk, 17, of 4459 S. Honore st., and Alex Lesowski, 17, of 4737 S. Hermitage av., arrested last Wednesday after they abandoned a stolen automobile at 59th and Halsted sts., were held to the grand jury by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in Criminal court yesterday on charges of burglary and automobile larceny. Graczyk was charged with four burglaries and he larceny of three cars, and Lesowski with one burglary and two auto larcenies.

THREE RAILWAYS ARE FINED $500 ON SMOKE CHARGES

Judge Francis Borrelli in License court yesterday levied fines totaling $500 and costs against three railroads charged with violating the city smoke ordinance and creating a nuisance in the community around the railroad yards at Kinzie st. and Western av.

Representatives of the Milwaukee, North Western, and Pennsylvania roads admitted the violations. They were caused, the court was informed, by a combination of inexperienced help, inferior coal, and partly by carelessness on the part of experienced firemen.

Frank Chambers, deputy smoke inspector, told the court that the railroads were making an effort to coöperate in reducing the smoke nuisance, and agreed to vacation of the fines by Jan. 7 if there are no intervening violations.

Army Separation Centers Need 20,000 Civilians

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—Twenty thousand civilians are urgently needed to replace discharged eligible military personnel working in army separation centers, the war department announced today. The principal need is for clerical and stenographic help, laborers, automobile mechanics, cooks' and bakers' helpers. Key personnel are likewise needed in administrative and supply positions.

That's Phillips 66
THE HONEST OIL—FROM DEEP IN THE HEART OF OKLAHOMA!

Mister, when all that's between you and no car at all is a thin film of oil—you want an oil that will stand up and not lay down!

You want an oil that's tough and strong as a red-eyed, rip-snorting bull!

Well, Mother Nature was a long time making this oil deep in the heart of Oklahoma, but what she made was rugged! Rugged enough to take the grinding, pounding punishment those engine parts have to take.

Not many folks can improve on Mother Nature. That's why we pump this lubricant from the heart of the finest oil lands . . . give it some special refining—and that's all! It's a natural alright! All its God-given lubricating qualities are unimpaired!

Why not keep an oil in your engine you can be sure about. Next time you see that Orange-and-Black "66" sign drive in and tell the man, "Fill 'er full o' Phillips!"

NEW ARMY AIM: ONLY 40,000 GIs IN ITALY BY JAN. 1

60 Point Men Expected Home by Christmas

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, Italy, Nov. 26—Redeployment of American troops from Italy has been speeded up in the last month. It is now estimated there will be only 87,000 troops remaining in this country by Dec. 1 and 40,000 by Jan. 1. A month ago there were 140,000 in this theater.

Complaints voiced by GIs in October that many were involuntary expatriates over here received enough of a hearing in Washington, D. C., so that additional transport, including five converted aircraft carriers, was assigned to move them home from Naples and Livorno.

60 Pointers Called

All troops down to those with 60 points have been called to replacement depots and will be sailing this week or early next month in plenty of time to reach the United States by Christmas. Then the requirement score will be lowered to accommodate another group.

While the war department has increased shipping for this theater, in a gesture to get large numbers of soldiers home for Christmas, transport is expected to be cut down after the holiday season. Most of the 40,000 troops remaining in January probably will stay on as occupation troops.

88th on Garrison Job

Included in the occupation forces is the 88th division which is garrisoning around Trieste and Gorizia in Venezia Giulia province. The high pointers of the 88th have gone home and the division is composed partially of replacements whose points, as one veteran said, "can be counted on the fingers of two hands."

American and British forces each had about 450,000 troops in Italy on V-E day. The British have discharged only 23,000 men altho another 175,000 have received home leave. There are thus some 250,000 British—and dominion and colonial—troops still in Italy.

POLICE START PROBE OF GIRLS' SCHOOL FIGHT

Police investigators sent to Beale school, 6043 Sangamon st., to investigate a fight between two pupils which resulted in the serious injury of one girl, yesterday were denied permission to interview pupils concerning the fight.

Miss Catherine McGuire, principal, told Patrolman Arthur Olson and Policewoman Dorothy Tedell of the Englewood station that she felt the school "should interview its own pupils." Capt. Patrick Collins of the Englewood police said all the witnesses and their parents would be summoned to the juvenile home Friday afternoon to tell all they know about the series of battles which resulted in serious injury to Barbara Bisch, 10, daughter of Everett Bisch, 716 W. 60th pl.

The child was reported improved yesterday at Woodlawn hospital and X-ray pictures will be taken today to determine if she has a skull fracture. She was injured in a fight Nov. 19 with Maxine Sutton, 11, of 6201 Green st. The girls have been classmates four years.

BROMFIELD BIDS FARMERS AMEND THEIR METHODS

More than 50 per cent of the population of this country derives its income from agriculture, the real source of national economy and prosperity, Louis Bromfield, author and farmer, said yesterday in pleading for correction of the average American farm practice of "using five acres all the time to produce what one acre should."

He addressed the national and state champions of the 1945 De Kalb corn growing contest at a luncheon given by the De Kalb Agricultural association in the Stevens hotel. "Altho only 20 per cent of the population lives on farms, agriculture supports whole villages and cities, major industries such as meat packing and flour milling, and mail order houses," he said.

Winner of this year's corn growing championship is W. W. Middleton of Mount Airy farm, Mount Jackson, Va., a property of 2,127 acres owned by Harold S. Vanderbilt. Middleton's record was a yield of 142.61 bushels an acre.

Mrs. Otho S. Lee Jr. of Forest Hill, Md., was woman's champion with 116 bushels an acre. She began farming three years ago.

Premier Hints Australia Plans Post-War Draft

Gin of pre-war quality made with pre-war imported botanicals

1 Today Hiram Walker brings you gin made with the same imported herbs, roots and berries used in the making of Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.

2 And remember, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Juniper from Italy! Harvesters "spank" the prized juniper bush of the Apennines with sticks, to shake its ripe, unmatchable berries onto sheets laid carefully on the ground beneath. These and ALL the herbs, roots and berries used in making Hiram Walker's Gin—such as cassia from China, coriander from Czechoslovakia, and orange peel from Valencia—come from a supply imported before the war. These imported botanicals, plus 100% American grain spirits, give Hiram Walker's Gin its real, pre-war quality.

In accordance with formula all herbs used in Walker's Gin are imported.

SURVEY SHOWS VET BENEFITS HIGHER IN U. S.

Exceed Britain's and 4 Others Studied

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—By and large veterans of the army of the United States receive from their government more liberal benefits than are granted veterans of Australia, Britain, Canada, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa.

Evidence of this fact is found in a comparative chart submitted today to Sen. Johnson [D., Cal.], chairman of the subcommittee on veterans' affairs of the senate finance committee, by Bernard M. Baruch, financier, economist and adviser to government officials.

Sen. Johnson said the idea of making the survey was "about a 50-50 proposition." He and Baruch often discussed the matter, Johnson said, and one day the financier asked if comparable data would be helpful. He said it would and Baruch said he would undertake the study.

Mustering Out Pay Less

In only two instances are separation benefits greater than those granted to United States veterans exceeded substanstially, the survey shows. Maximum mustering out pay for United States veterans from privates to captains is $300. Canada and New Zealand grant up to more than twice this sum.

Canada also grants a slightly larger subsistence allowance to veterans attending school than does the United States under the service men's readjustment act, commonly known as the GI bill, but United States benefits are greater if the veteran gets his education under the vocational rehabilitation act.

Education benefits in Britain also in some cases exceed those in the United States. Britain's payments are based on a veteran's needs, obligations and financial resources.

In setting up his table of monetary benefits for comparison, Baruch translated all sums into United States dollars and cents, making no allowance for any differences in living costs and the purchasing power of money in the various countries.

More Liberal in Training

Readjustment allowances for unemployed veterans and pensions for the disabled are more liberal in the United States than elsewhere. This country's hospitalization program also is more generous and United States veterans also enjoy the most liberal standards of eligibility for education and vocational training.

In addition, a bill to liberalize the subsistence allowance for veterans taking college or other training courses has been passed by the senate and will be taken up by the house shortly. This bill also will liberalize the loan provisions of the readjustment act.

According to Baruch's findings, all gleaned from official sources and verified by the governments of the various countries, United States veterans' programs are more democratic than the others because benefits are the same whether the veteran served as a private or an officer. Britain, Canada and the other English-speaking commonwealths make distinctions between officers and enlisted men.

Dependents' Benefits

In countries other than the United States, benefits for dependents are varied. In this country, where more than half the veterans are single, benefits, generally, are the same.

Baruch found job reinstatement laws of other countries to be more explicit than the reëmployment section of the United States selective service act which the director, Lewis B. Hershey, has interpreted as giving World War II. veterans super-seniority.

Australia, for example, has a law which specifically says that war workers must be replaced with veterans if they want their jobs. South African employers may not hire persons who have not given war service, without written consent of an employment committee.

Preference in civil service employment is more liberal in the United States than elsewhere. Requirements for reinstatement in jobs in private industry without detriment to the veteran are virtually the same in all countries studied and retention for one year is required.

Pays Accident Cost

Britain and Australia require employers to hire quotas of disabled veterans. Canada overcomes objection to employment of disabled veterans by paying the cost of compensation for their industrial accidents. Only 31 states in this country maintain what is known as a second injury fund.

United States liberality is brought into sharp relief by the veterans' regulations of other countries which require administrative approval before a veteran may obtain many of the benefits available. United States benefits are rights automatically available to all eligible [discharge other than dishonorable] veterans.

Because the United States has 50 per cent more veterans than all the other countries combined—12 million against five million for Britain, one million each for Canada, Australia, and South Africa, and 200,000 for New Zealand—provisions of veterans' benefit laws have been made more general, whereas provisions of the other nations have been enacted with individual needs in mind.

Compares Case of Privates

Enlisted men in the grade of private provide the best example for comparison of benefits, Baruch found. A typical example exists in separation or mustering out pay for men with three years of service, two of which were overseas.

The maximum payment granted by the United States is $300 regardless of marital status. Payments in other countries are:

	Single	Married, 1 child
Canada	$611	$711
New Zealand	586	640
Britain	383	640
Australia	375	395
South Africa	336	336

Countries other than the United States also made specific grants for purchase of civilian clothing upon discharge. These payments are:

South Africa	$120
Canada	91
New Zealand	81
Britain	48
Australia	35

In the United States every veteran is eligible to at least one year of education after he has served for 90 days. Those who were under 25 at the time of entering service and whose education is presumed to have been interrupted are eligible to the year's education plus whatever time they served to a maximum of four years. An amendment before congress, if passed, will remove the 25 year age limit.

Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa require a veteran to obtain approval of a government body before he can receive education. Canada gives university education to veterans who can qualify for admittance, but administrative approval is required for other education or vocational training.

Subsistence Allowance

The present monthly subsistence allowance for single United States veterans who are taking a full time college course under the GI bill is $50. Men with dependents get $75, and it is not necessary to show need. Pending amendment would raise these sums to $65 and $90. United States veterans taking training under the vocational rehabilitation act must have compensable disability in which case their compensation is increased to $92 if single and $103.50 if married, with $5.75 a month for each child and $11.50 for each dependent parent.

In other countries educational allowances are:

	Single Monthly	Married, 1 child Monthly
Britain	$54.00	$104.00
Canada	54.60	63.75
Australia	45.00	74.00
New Zealand	*10.00	*17.00

*Weekly.

The United States is by far the most liberal in payment of disability compensation. Here the compensation is based solely upon loss of earning capacity. Additional sums are paid for loss of eyes, hearing, and extremities, or the use of extremities. These sums may not exceed $300 monthly.

Based on Ranks

Australia, Britain, and New Zealand base their disability pensions [compensation] on rank and dependents. Canada considers dependents, rank, and loss of earning capacity, but South Africa pays pensions only to veterans over 60, or those under 60 who are unable to do regular work. Here is a comparison of various payments granted for 100 per cent disability:

	Single	Marr., 1 child
United States	$115.00 mo.	$115.00 mo.
Canada	68.25 mo.	104.65 mo.
Australia	8 to 11 wk.	13.00 wk.
New Zealand	9.70 wk.	14.75 wk.
Britain	8.00 wk.	11.50 wk.

Veterans in the United States theoretically are able to get more liberalized credit for the purchase of homes, farms, and businesses than other citizens.

Canada makes cash grants to overseas veterans only and loans for land settlement and farming.

EXPERT ON CITY'S HISTORY DIES; RITES THURSDAY

Services for Miss Caroline McIlvaine, 75, former librarian at the Chicago Historical society, will be held from the chapel at 2024 E. 75th st. Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Miss McIlvaine died yesterday at her home, 6136 Greenwood av., after a year's illness. She retired from her post with the historical society in 1926 after 25 years' service.

A member of a pioneer Chicago family, Miss McIlvaine directed the installation of many interesting exhibits of the society, one which illustrated the Chicago of Civil war days. In 1923 Miss McIlvaine announced discovery of the point at which the first men visited the Chicago territory when La Salle, Marquette, Joliet, and their followers turned from the Des Plaines river to make their portage across Chicago at a point where a branch of the river empties into the river at Mud lake, near Riverside.

VANDERWALKER FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Fred N. Vanderwalker, 60, free lance writer and author of several books on interior decoration, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Flossmoor Community church. He died Sunday.

Plan Luncheon Thursday for French Envoy

BY JUDITH CASS

ADDED to the many functions planned for Henri Edouard Bonnet, French ambassador to the United States, who will arrive from Washington, D. C., Thursday, is a luncheon which has been planned by Robert Hall McCormick, former president of the Alliance Francaise of Chicago, and a group of distinguished Chicagoans. The luncheon will be given at 12:30 p. m. Thursday in the Chicago club.

Among those assisting Mr. McCormick are Carter H. Harrison, Orville J. Taylor, Frank McNair, Edward H. Bennett, Thomas R. Gowenlock, and Frank Hecht, all of whom are members of the Chicago group of France-America, which has been headed by Mr. McCormick since its former head, Charles S. Dewey, moved to Washington, D. C. The Alliance has been promoting friendly relations between the United States and France for half a century. Headquarters of the France-America group is in Paris.

Other Entertaining

Thursday night M. Bonnet and his attractive wife, who visited Chicago with Gen. Charles de Gaulle in August, will be guests at a large and gala dinner in the Casino club, planned by American Relief for France and France Forever. Adding interest to the evening will be songs by Jean Sablon, French entertainer now singing in the Blackstone, who will lead the "Marseillaise" as well as sing some of the chansons for which he is famous.

Another dinner guest Thursday will be Flight Officer David Prosser, who will speak briefly before the ambassador's talk. Young Mr. Prosser was rescued by the French underground after his plane was shot down, and he is author of "Journey Underground," now on the bookstands.

M. Bonnet will speak at a Chicago Council on Foreign Relations luncheon at 12:15 p. m. Friday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House, and that afternoon he will open an exhibition of paintings, "Paris, 1945," in the International Relations center, sponsored jointly by the center and France Forever. Jean J. Viala, French consul general, will be a guest at the luncheon Thursday, but his wife will miss Thursday's dinner, as she left last week for France.

Engagement News

From New York, where Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klaner have been living for the last few months, comes news of the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Klaner are making of the engagement of their daughter, Constance, to Lt. James Jefferson Cross Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cross of Laurel, Miss. Miss Klaner and her parents lived in Glencoe and Chicago until recently.

Miss Klaner was educated at the Roycemore school and Bradford Junior college and is a member of the Chicago Junior league. She had been doing volunteer Red Cross nurses' aid work at St. Luke's hospital. Lt. Cross was graduated from Princeton university in 1940, and has served as commander of a PT squadron in the South Pacific.

A New Year's day wedding is being planned by Miss Sally Barton Hayes and Walter Plaut, whose engagement is announced by her mother, Mrs. Stanley Knight Evans of Kimbark av. The daughter of the late Howard Wood Hayes, Miss Hayes is an alumnae of the Faulkner school and Smith college. She was a member of the WAC with which she served in England for more than two years. Her fiance, son of Mrs. Wendell Frederici of Norwalk, Conn., and Edward Plaut of New York, was graduated from the Lawrenceville school and Wesleyan university. He has been discharged from the army air forces, in which he served as a sergeant and saw duty in Europe.

On the Calendar

Added to the already crowded early winter calendar is a tea and fashion show the directors of the Mary Bartelme club will give at 3 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 11, in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co., to show fashions to wear to the club's benefit Christmas night performance of the Ballet Theater in the Civic Opera House. Members of the club's junior auxiliaries will model the gowns.

Mrs. Grier D. Patterson, Mrs. Stanford D. Williams, and Mrs. Charles H. Grubb are in charge of the fashion show. The ballet opening promises to be one of the most gala premieres of the season, with Alicia Markova and Andre Eglevsky scheduled to dance that night in "Swan Lake." "On Stage" will have its first Chicago performance on the same bill, which will conclude with Anton Dolin dancing in "Bluebeard."

The proceeds of the Bear-Cardinal professional football game at 1:30 p. m. next Sunday in Comiskey park will be donated to the Com-

Thru the Looking Glass

Often it's the "little" gift that makes the biggest hit at Christmas. Receiving something she really needs and will use gives a woman more pleasure than getting some stupendous present that has small place in her life. A little thought and clever shopping will uncover lots of items which are gifty as well as utilitarian.

Fitted makeup case for handbag

One suggestion we'd make is a make-up case to slip in a handbag. Few women ever seem to have enough of these and most of us are apt to let them get shabby around the edges before we think to buy a replacement. When one comes along as a present it's a welcome sight indeed.

You can find make-up cases in various prices, sizes, and shapes. The one pictured here makes an especially attractive gift. It's the right size to carry in the average purse and comes in combinations of colors to harmonize with accessories.

The fabric is a durable, synthetic silk material and the case is well made and nicely finished. As an added attraction there are rouge, lipstick, and a small vial of perfume, tucked inside.

O'Sullivan, and Mrs. Silas G. Woody.

Trumans Have Part in Lavish Met Opening

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Glistening in diamonds and laden with chinchilla and ermine, New York's social register flung off war time modesty tonight at a plush opening of the Metropolitan opera's 61st season. For fur, jewelry, hair styling, opera hats, and gold headed canes, it was the most lavish opening New York had seen in years.

Leading the social procession were Mrs. Harry S. Truman and her daughter, Mary Margaret, who occupied box number 35 of the famous diamond horseshoe. Veteran operagoers said it was the first time a first lady ever had attended an opening of the Metropolitan.

Mrs. Truman and Mary Margaret—conspicuous chiefly for the modest good taste of their evening gowns—arrived at the opera house at 6:45 p. m., and were guests of George A. Sloan, president of the Metropolitan, at a dinner in the opera club rooms.

Meanwhile, outside the gaudy old house, lines of persons gathered, hoping to buy standing room or catch a glimpse of society.

By 9 o'clock, the evening was established as a social success—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt arrived on schedule. She wore her traditional headband, a rust gold brocade dress, and a diamond and emerald necklace and a diamond and emerald brooch at her neckline.

Vera Zorina, Lily Pons, Andre Kostelanetz, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett and Mrs. Cornelius Dresselhuys, the sister of Tommy Manville, were among a host of other social figures who attended.

Mrs. Truman, who with her daughter went backstage during the first intermission to meet and congratulate the singers, wore a blue crepe dress with a sparkling white, green, and blue stomacher. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, and she wore a corsage of red and white orchids. Mary Margaret wore rustling, jade green taffeta, drawn back into a bustle-bow. She, too, wore pearls, and purple orchids.

Both the first lady and her daughter were among the few in the audience to wear cloth—not fur—coats. Both coats were blue embroidered with gold.

As for the opera—it was Richard Wagner's Lohengrin, played on opening night for the first time in 60 years. The house was packed—sold out—except for standees—since last Monday.

First in the queue of standees was Miss Helen Pearson, 24 year old comptometer operator, who said she had been waiting in line since 11:45 p. m. Sunday.

Stylists Work Hand in Glove with St. Nick

BY REA SEEGER

Beautifully made gloves in fascinatingly unusual colors have been delivered, unpacked, and displayed for the benefit of all Christmas gift shoppers. It's been years, literally, since such smooth handwork has been available, and even tho some of the price marks are anything but modest, there are many moderately priced gloves of the same flawless workmanship and colors.

Kidskin beauties in lovely neutral beige or champagne colors are made in classic, unadorned designs or with long cuffs and decorative motifs like cutwork, hand fagoting, fine thread, thin tucks, artful applique patterns, and so on. These definitely neutral shades are best for gifts because the beige tints and the sunnier, lighter champagne colors go with anything.

Lush colored gloves in softest doeskin or suede provide dramatic contrasts for both daytime and evening fashions. All the jewel tones—ruby, topaz, emerald, sapphire — together with dusty pastels of pink faded mauve, blue, and yellow assure a wide assortment for the gift buyers. Long gloves that reach well above the elbow for gala, dress parade occasions; the shorter lengths that wrinkle slickly and smartly around the sleeve cuffs of dress, suit, or coat, and the brief lengths that end in flared cuffs are plentiful in all the pastel and vivid colors.

Swank pigskins come in beige, natural, and a few dark colors, but these are the tailored gloves, designed for street and spectator sports clothes exclusively. All white gloves, in soft suede, thin, fine kidskin, and heavy duty doeskin, come in a grand assortment of styles, ranging from short and simple items to dramatically long evening gloves for state occasions.

Many of the gleaming white kidskin gloves are beautifully accented with motifs of fine handwork; others have flashing appliqued designs of sequins, in multicolored effects, exquisitely dainty motifs in beads, silver, seed pearls, gold, and copper, or colorful effects of floral tinted beats that make Dresdenlike designs in an all-over pattern along the cuffs.

Paris Stylist Makes the Most of Colors and Elegant Fabrics

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 26—Jean Patou's preview of midwinter fashions marked the official opening of France's new era of beauty and elegance because of their masterly execution, exquisite styling, luscious colors, and amazing home woven materials, including richly brocaded satin damasks, and designs in bas relief on a velvet background.

This haut couturier is the first Parisian completely to discard superfluous details and trimming. He is concentrating on and making the most of elegant fabrics. He has launched dressy suits soutached with fur embroidery, cocktail frocks of double weight, pure silk jersey, or duvetine crepe, and picture book formals in a romantic bas relief motif on a wool background.

Choker necklines, capelets, and deep berthas of self-material stress shoulder importance which beautifully sets off the slim silhouette.

OPA Acts to Enable Army Woolens' Use in Cheaper Clothing

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—The office of price administration acted tonight to enable manufacturers of men's and boys' cheap clothing to use woolens which would have gone into army uniforms but are now surplus—specifically, 18 ounce wool serge and 32 ounce overcoat cloth.

These fabrics are better than the material ordinarily used in cheap clothing and cost more. Accordingly the OPA ruled that manufacturers may exceed their price line limits for this purpose, starting Dec. 1. Their dollar margins, however, must not exceed their previous profit rates.

Another new OPA order will permit manufacturers of cheap bathrobes, house coats, and negligees to move into medium price lines so that they may use all-wool fabrics which are now available.

Charles A. McCulloch Quits Museum Board

The resignation of Charles A. McCulloch, member of the board of trustees of the Chicago Natural History museum, has been accepted by the board, it was announced yesterday by Col. Clifford C. Gregg, director. A trustee since 1936, Mr. McCulloch resigned because of ill health. His resignation leaves two vacancies on the museum's 21-man board, the other caused by the death in France of Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, in 1944.

Child Should Stand Naturally When Being Taught to Walk

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It took this letter from a reader to persuade me to devote an article to a subject concerning children which I have never discussed before:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Altho childless I read your column. I am taking the liberty of relating the following and should like your reaction to it. A beautiful baby girl was being given a 'lesson' in walking by two fond adults. I watched for a time to feast my eyes on the loveliness of that child, but my admiration soon gave place to pity.

In teaching a baby to walk, consider the child's comfort, Mrs. Bevans says in today's article. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

"Those two women, several times the height of the baby, were looking only to their own comfort.

"The child's arms were stretched to the limit, upward; her steps were forced, uncertain thrusts, with the small body swaying and writhing from side to side. Her natural aids to balancing her motions [her arms] were pinioned cruelly above her head. She was held so stiffly that she could not see upon what she walked.

"I left the scene wondering how many such adults, too concerned with their own comfort to stoop to a child's height, were responsible for the ungainly gait one sees too often—and which detracts so much from a woman's general appearance.

"If they are responsible, and I believe they are, how simple to eliminate such practices, never force the necessity of 'unbalanced' motion upon the helpless young, but to permit their full use of vision and walking poise by a little more exertion on the part of those who 'teach' the first steps."

I have noticed this practice innumerable times on the street, and have wondered why the adults do not realize the discomfort of walking with arms stretched high above the head. No wonder children pull their hands away so often when their parents want to take them.

A second thing I have noticed is the speed at which these very little children are expected to walk. When my son was tiny, I remember how tired I used to get from walking at his tempo. But you have to. If you haven't the time or patience, then put your baby in his stroller or go-cart for ease and speed.

A third is the way people with the best intentions pick up a baby by his upper arms, with their hands in an over grasp. It gives a better grip and leverage, I know, but it tends to slightly dislocate their soft and supple shoulders. Instead, a mother's two palms should grip the baby's body just under the armpits, one on each side.

Smitten Kitten Act Not Good, Girls Warned

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

So it's hit you at last, has it? You have stars in your eyes, can see the moon in the sky any evening in the week, and think every Perry Como recording has words meant just for you. You know this is the real thing and you know it never happened to any one else, for no one in the world could feel so wonderful! It's love and you don't care who knows it. Why, any one will admit that love is a lovely thing but it happens to nine out of 10 girls, and they get over it—so take it easy, sister!

on the SOLID side

If you've spotted some particular Joe as the man of your dreams, just keep it to yourself till you find out how HE feels about it. He may be everything you ever imagined in brain and brawn, a Van Johnson, j. g., almost too good for you, but just be sure he IS for you at all before you start telling the other guys and gals all about it.

Too many high school girls (and even girls of 21 and on up!) spoil their chances with boys by being too eager, too aggressive, and too obviously interested. Boys still like to be first with the ideas—first on the telephone, first to ask for a date, and first to wonder how his class ring would feel on your finger. So if you really think you've found the character you've been looking for—just let HIM find out about it first. Don't spoil everything by acting like a smitten kitten.

It's all right to make with the bright smiles and the friendly conversation but don't plague him with notes in history class, trip him with your swooning stares as he goes down the halls with the fellows, and don't let your friends know how much you think of him—or how often! Few boys like to learn that they are being discussed—and loved—behind their backs.

Subtlety is a good trick to learn young, for overeagerness can scare a boy away even before he gets to know you. So even if you believe in love at first sight, take a second look—he may not even know what you're talking about!

National Officer of Y. W. to Talk with Chicagoans

Mrs. Tirzah Waite Anderson of New York, secretary for personal and family relations for the national Young Women's Christian association, will consult with Chicago leaders today on problems of counseling and family relations. Experienced counseling services are needed, Mrs. Anderson said yesterday, by women who have been earning money during the war period and who have achieved a new degree of independence. "Women of today not only have a need for vocational guidance," she said, "but are facing a variety of other personal adjustments, such as marriage and housing. Women who continue to work will need advice and help on adequate child care also."

Barrymore Concerto Introduced by Business Men's Orchestra with 13 Year Old Soloist

Concert by the Chicago Business Men's orchestra, George Dasch, conductor; June Kovach, pianist. Presented in Orchestra hall Monday evening, Nov. 26, 1945. The program:

Toccata and Fugue.....Frescobaldi
[Transcribed by Hans Kindler]
Symphony No. 5, "From the New World".....Dvorak
Piano Concerto No. 1.....Barrymore
[First Performance]
March from "Tannhauser".....Wagner

The Barrymores were always actors because acting was the family trade, and musicians because they liked music. So it was not much of a surprise to any one when ailing Lionel Barrymore, now 66, turned seriously to composing. Luckily, he fell into the hands of two Hungarian Eugenes, Zador the composer and Ormandy the conductor, and what he worked out with the one was played by the other with the Philadelphia orchestra. All the new Piano Concerto needed was that combination, perhaps with Ethel Barrymore realizing her life dream of being a concert pianist by appearing as soloist. Certainly it would have been a press agent's paradise.

It wasn't like that, but it wasn't bad, either. It seems that last summer 13 year old June Kovach was practicing her piano lessons in a Hollywood lobby and Mr. Barrymore heard her. Sight unseen, on the dramatic word of last night's program notes, he declared no one else was to introduce his piano concerto. So last night in Orchestra hall June, with a white dress and a white posy in her hair, played that concerto with the Chicago Business Men's orchestra under the direction of George Dasch. It was the orchestra's silver anniversary, and if a man was wearing a white flower, it meant he had played with that orchestra 20 years or more. There were a lot of white flowers.

There was also a lot of concerto, and that is a serious statement, not at all disparagingly meant. Mr. Barrymore went the whole conventional three movement length in full romantic vein, with dashes of Grieg, whole handfuls of Tschaikowsky, a bravura touch of the Warsaw Concerto, and a reasonable amount of Barrymore, too. The result is melodious, flowing, and often quite charming, particularly in the slow movement, but the orchestration needs pruning and it would help to toss out all the tinkling trimming that cheapens the finale. Mr. Barrymore has nothing to say here that has not been better said before, but the man has a flair. Barrymores always do.

Little Miss Kovach played expertly except when the score demanded more of physical size than she had to offer. The orchestra kept her lively company, obviously enjoying the lush ebb and flow of the music. It previously had performed the Kindler arrangement of Frescobaldi's Toccata and Fugue and a performance of the "New World" Symphony that had devotion to its credit and, particularly at the opening of the finale, some crisply authoritative playing.

Notes

Elisabeth Bergner ends her Great Northern engagement in "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" Dec. 22, and the theater will be taken over Christmas night by Willie Howard and "The Passing Show." . . . June Havoc, who was too good for "The Ryan Girl," is reported replacing Virginia Gilmore in S. N. Behrman's "Dunnigan's Daughter," now being worked over in tryout. . . . J. Charles Gilbert, well known in local theater and music circles, has gone to New York where he will be associated with Michael Myerberg in the production of "Lute Song," starring Mary Martin. . . . John Alden Carpenter's symphonic suite based on Shakespeare's "Seven Ages," of "As You Like It" fame, will be played by Artur Rodzinski and the New York Philharmonic this week and broadcast next Sunday. . . . Harriet Watt, subscription secretary for the American Theater society, is expanding her Chicago activities to take in Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Seattle. . . . Milton Berle's musical, "Spring in Brazil," will follow "Carmen Jones" at the Erlanger Jan. 7.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 26—Warners have just bought film rights to Margaret Echard's novel, "Man Without Friends," and rumor hath it that Bob Hutton will get the lead. It's a yarn about a newspaper girl, who overhears on a bus the story of a man acquitted of murder, but still persecuted by his townsmen. So she goes there to straighten out the affair. . . . Roscoe Ates, who broke himself from stuttering naturally and made a fortune by going back to it professionally, has been signed by P. R. C. to a seven year contract. His first will be "Gentlemen with Guns" with Eddie Dean. Roscoe started the war as a major, was let out on age, and ended by playing "Sad Sack," lowliest and most beloved of fictional GIs for 14 months overseas. He told me of a stuttering lieutenant, who when applying for combat flying, was informed they couldn't take in men who stammered. Said the louie: "I d-d-don't want to t-t-talk to the d-d-darn thing — I want to f-f-fly it." He did and later became a famous fighting colonel. . . . Hunt Stromberg, in New York, is trying to hook the screen rights to play before he returns to Hollywood. With two of his contract players, Michael O'Shea and Ralph Bellamy, in hits there, I'm betting he'll go for "The Red Mill" which has O'Shea.

Here Comes That Bird Again!

Speaking of plays, despite forthcoming motherhood, Luise Rainer opens in "Gift for the Bride" in St. Louis. From then on it'll be a neck and neck race between the footlights and the stork. Hmmm, come to think of it, that bird's got a pretty long neck. . . . Dore Schary, who's producing "How to Make a Movie," is being besieged with offers from people willing to work in the film free. It'll be great publicity. Picture will be finished in time for the Academy Awards dinner. . . . After the GIs thought enough of her to request her appearance on three battle fronts, Mary Brian still is faced with the old Hollywood bugaboo. She can't get a job here. . . . The reason you won't be seeing much technicolor stuff for the next year is the tremendous shortage in materials because of the war. Republic, for instance, is delaying release of "I've Always Loved You" until next October so it can be finished in color. . . . Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, and Eddie Arnold have formed a club in which each can tell one story a day about the past. If he goes over the limit, he's fined. What an idea for the rest of the town! . . . Leon Belasco has been signed for a local stint at Club Donroy. . . . After traveling 23,000 miles Gracie Fields writes she caught up with her last picture in Rome and had to view it with Italian subtitles. . . . Jon Hall and Frances Langford have bought a plane for January delivery. They'll use it chiefly touring hospitals.

Danny's Double-Talk Goes Japanese

Danny Kaye, who caught the limelight by sing-songing the names of 54 Russian composers, has a new routine in which he gives out with the names of South Pacific places he visited, including 20 Japs towns. . . . After Barry Fitzgerald wrote his own dialog for scene in "Easy Come, Easy Go," he blew the lines and for once an actor couldn't cuss the writer. . . . Billy De Wolfe has gone east for a visit to his home town, Quincy, Mass. . . . Gloria Lloyd—Harold's daughter—is giving Bob Walker's heart the trips. . . . Virginia Mayo hits town this week after a session in the east. . . . Judy Canova's husband, Chet England, just out of the army, will accompany her when she goes east for her air show. . . . Jeffrey Steele is bolstering his acting salary as a real estate salesman. First customer was Bob Hope. . . . In preparation for forthcoming blessed event, Harry Von Zell has added a $5,000 nursery.

"With Bated Breath"

By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

SYNOPSIS. Avis Marriott accepts a job as companion-housekeeper to Maud and Erica Bolles, wealthy spinsters. Maud, a local autocrat, known for her charities, has grown penurious in her home. Erica, a semi-invalid, is dominated by Maud. Robin Grier, Maud's godson, who has been invalided out of the army; Mrs. Olive Marks, a widow and family connection, and an evacuee family live with them at Turrets, an isolated English manor with an abandoned underground passage. Dr. Bruce advises Avis not to accept the position. Her predecessor, Agatha Trimble, left under a cloud, suspected of theft. Avis' room is in the turret where Erica insists upon living. Oscar Moravian arrives, on Erica's invitation. In the night the soldier husband in the evacuee family falls downstairs to his death. There are smears of wax on the stairs. Did some one want to kill Erica? Agatha tells Avis she can put pressure on Maud and that she was framed for teaching Erica to assert herself. Maud has been trying to have Erica judged mentally incompetent. If either sister dies intestate the other inherits her fortune. Avis narrowly escapes death when a bullet penetrates her hat. After receiving Agatha's letter Maud, unbelievably, gets drunk. Robin finds Moravian going thru Maud's desk. While rescuing Mrs. Bandy's baby from the wine cellar Avis finds the private passage to the tunnel. Maud claims an attempt was made on her life and wants to know who used her keys and who took an automatic pistol from her desk. She believes the liquor she drank was drugged. Erica had visited the wine cellar. Avis believes it was Agatha's letter that gave Maud the shock, but, she tells Bruce, she was the one almost shot. Agatha is seen boarding a bus. Some one fed Robin's dog poisoned meat. Near the tunnel Avis finds a flower from Agatha's hat.

BROKEN ROMANCE

"Strange woman, Aggie," Lady Barkdale sighed. "I always liked her, you know. In fact, when this horrid theft burst upon us I could have sworn that Erica had been up to her old tricks. Well, we all make mistakes. Maud was right, I was wrong. Dear me, and are you actually allowed to keep a dog?"

Avis told her whose dog it was and why she was taking it for a run.

"Robin Grier," said Lady Barkdale, "is another instance of Maud's genuine goodness, her keeping him there at Turrets when she could well afford to ship him elsewhere. She's not fond of young people, you know." The blue eyes hazed with faintly—reticent speculation. "No parents, of course, otherwise he'd be merely one of the numerous impoverished youngsters she's unostentatiously given a leg up. Now Erica, if she had her way—"

"You spoke, Lady Barkdale, of Erica's tricks. What sort of tricks did you mean?"

"O, for the most part, mere juvenile pranks.

"I remember that Easter Sunday so many years ago when poor Maud was in the very act of being confirmed. She was, I recall, actually on her knees when down the aisle who should come sailing but that deplorable little Erica, decked, my dear, in a widow's veil bound on with flaming red poppies! A more serious affair altogether when, out of pure jealousy and spite, Erica undertook to shipwreck her sister's solitary romance."

Nothing, Lady Barkdale declared, could ever persuade her Erica's action on this occasion hadn't been a coldly calculated piece of deviltry. Had there ever been seizures of any kind? On the contrary, in those days Erica's "delicacy" had been a parental myth. From the first she had been humored.

"Arthur Wydruff it was—my cousin. A rear admiral now, but at the time I speak of he hadn't decided on the sea. He was a medical student, quite hipped on heredity, and, during one entire hunting season, tremendously taken with Maud. We all looked on the marriage as an understood thing. Till the morning out in the rose arbor when Erica flung her wretched self at his feet, twisting into knots and foaming—yes, foaming—at the mouth! Arthur still believes her an epileptic. He walked thru the Turrets gate, caught the first train to London, and never returned."

"O," Avis gasped, "how absolutely awful for Maud!"

"Hysterical attacks? Decidedly, haven't I watched her bringing them on? She does other things, too, to annoy her sister and to get her own selfish way. What did Maud do when her suitor left her? Said nothing, kept her chin high, and in a month or so made the Grand Tour. To Greece and Italy, you know, roaming about with a Baedeker, often, I suspect, quite alone. In June she went, by Christmas she was home—but so changed! Hardened, all her bloom gone.

"Soon papa and mama died. Maud took the helm. She shouldered the tiresome burden of her abnormal sister and has gone on bearing it ever since. Erica, I believe, is growing worse. Witness her issuing that underhand invitation to a detestable person like Oscar Moravian, who can only be out for a fat slab of her money. Can it be possible she's forgotten or never fully known what happened to her cousin, Millicent Bolles?"

Avis asked her what did happen.

"O, a hideous scandal! Inquest and all, out in Cairo, you know; simply a case of murder that for some reason couldn't be absolutely proved. Millie, always a simpleton, had been wealthy. She died penniless, and what her vile husband did with her property will never be known. His effrontery in coming to Turrets is quite staggering; tho even harder to understand is Maud's allowing him to remain. One can only suppose that, taken up as she is with so very many activities—dear me, is that Cam Bruce I hear talking to Herne?"

Cam! O, if she could catch him, give him some sign . . .

Lady Barksdale was shouting to the departing visitor. Bruce opened the door, stood framed, smiling in. He could not stop, he'd been passing and had run for a moment to see if the old butler's flu was responding to treatment. "But if Miss Marriott is about to go I can offer her a lift."

"Well," Bruce said, "what is it?" The gabled house lay behind.

"This." She flashed her torch on the crumpled purple pansy. "I found it on the very brink of that ghastly tunnel. There's a horrible smell . . ."

Five minutes later they were squashing across the boggy expanse. Naturally, Bruce muttered, these old holes reeked.

"Was this the opening? My word!"

"You needn't shine your torch," she told him. "I've looked, there's nothing you can see. And the other time I came out here there was no bad odor at all. There—by that thistle. That's where I saw the pansy. If you notice, it's in a straight line with the old stone shed, and that stands on dry ground just where the footpath comes over the bridge. Not another soul round here has worn a hat like that in years, I'd say. The dark splash on one of the petals looks to me like—like blood."

"Nonsense," he annihilated, and steeling himself to the sickly fumes leaned far over the hole, playing his torch beam into the tunnel as far as it would go. Avis' teeth were clicking together.

"You're coming home with me," Bruce said tersely. "I seem to recall," he muttered, "the far off end of the tunnel is walled off somewhere above that third hole. O, I explored every inch of it 20 years ago when I was a lad. As for the pansy, it may have fallen off along the bridge or even on the path behind. A high wind would have carried it a considerable distance."

"Yes, I know; but—have you had any word from Miss Trimble?"

"No, but why should I? It's quite on the cards she means to sever all connections. And if she has pulled another suicide, it can't have been here. No, this is a job for the sanitary department. We'll give them a ring directly we reach Bracken. Pop the dog in his kennel; if it's your off-time you can feed with me."

"Sorry to be such a fool," she apologized. "It's not just finding this pansy. There's more I've been dying to tell you."

As they neared the hospital she suddenly thought of the brandy. Had he found anything? she asked. He took a long minute to reply.

"That? O, it had luminal in it. Narcotic drug."

Luminal! The answer dizzied her. She had been so sure . . . "Anything Erica could have got hold of?" She tried to make it sound casual—and failed.

"Certainly, it was her own special medicine—an old prescription from Todd. She showed me the tablets. Miss Trimble had recently had them made up."

Innumerable cases arise at the bridge table in which one partner is anxious to reach the other's hand in a hurry and he is up against a guess as to how to do so in the early stages of the play. As the hand develops partners usually have the opportunity to use the ordinary signals, by means of high and low discards. But many times it is necessary for a defender to obtain this information before discards can be made. To answer this need the modern "suit preference convention" has been introduced.

South became declarer at a contract of five diamonds. North's raise to only three diamonds may appear to be unduly cautious, but, in fact, it is good strategy. South may wish to play the hand at three no trump and he should not be deprived of the opportunity by a raise to four diamonds. South was undecided whether to bid three no trump or five diamonds and chose the latter.

West opened the deuce of clubs, an obvious singleton. This was won in dummy and East followed with the three. The ace of trumps was driven out and West had to guess how to give his partner the lead. With no clew to guide him he elected to lead the jack of hearts and the declarer romped off with the rest of the tricks, the clubs being established for three spade discards. A spade lead would have defeated the contract. "There was no way I could tell you, partner," was East's comment. "I had no chance to signal."

But there was a way. The suit preference convention provides that when a defender makes an unnatural play that is obviously not a normal signal, it should be interpreted as indicating which of the remaining suits he desires led. An unnecessarily high card [which is obviously not a come-on signal] calls for the higher ranking suit and an unnecessarily low card for the lower ranking suit. On the first club play East should have dropped the jack of clubs. This is obviously not a signal to continue clubs. It must therefore be interpreted as a message to partner to lead the higher ranking of the two remaining suits, spades. When West is in with the ace of trumps he need not guess.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM

As South you hold:

♠ Q J 9 6 2 ♥ A K 4 ♦ A Q 10 9 5 ♣ —

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 clubs	2 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

Miss Doreen Davis

The marriage of Miss Doreen Davis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. LeRoy Davis of Evanston, to William J. Carmichael will take place Jan. 12. Miss Davis attended Beloit college. Her fiancé, son of Wilbur J. Carmichael of Evanston, was graduated from the University of Illinois.

Chicago Philharmonic to Present Musician's View of India's Life

Henry Weber, conductor, has scheduled Adolf Hoffmann's "Snapshots of India," an orchestral suite, for its first performance by a full symphony orchestra on the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra concert hour over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock tonight. Hoffmann, first cellist of the orchestra as well as composer of the Chicago Theater of the Air's theme song, wrote the work six years ago after visiting India.

This musical view of India is composed of seven descriptions of various cities and characteristics of the land. The pictures are titled "The Temple of Sacred Truth," "Towers of Silence," "Gibbering Simians," "The Well of Purification," "Jugglers of Calcutta," "Magic of the Snake Horn," and "The Triumphal March of Muhammed Akbar," an epilog depicting the traveler's last impressions of the land. The orchestra also will play Beethoven's "Leonore Overture No. 3."

W-G-N listeners are getting another picture of India thru the World Traveler program aired at 7:15 p. m. Saturdays. Dean Smith, who conducts the program, has been devoting himself to various aspects of India for several weeks.

Hospital Will Benefit from Salvation Army Women's Division Sale

Books, aprons, novelties, sweets, and miscellaneous gifts will be among the scores of items offered for sale this afternoon and tonight at the annual bazar sponsored by the Women's division of the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army's Booth Memorial hospital at 5040 N. Pulaski rd. will be headquarters for the fair, which is scheduled to open at 1:30 p. m. Proceeds will go toward furnishing a living room for young women in the hospital, where pre-natal and post-natal care is given unwed and needy mothers. The decorating and furnishing of the room will be under supervision of Mrs. Samuel J. Campbell, a new board member of the Women's division. Mrs. Frederick Tice is general bazar chairman, and among the many who have assisted with arrangements is Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Women's division.

Pears are one of our most popular winter fruits, for they're in season from September to June, a time when many fresh fruits are scarce. The four leading varieties, Bosc, D'anjou, Comice, and Nelis, come from the Pacific coast and are packed and shipped unripe. Unlike so many fruits, they develop a finer flavor and smoother texture when ripened off the tree.

When pears yield readily to slight fingertip pressure at stem end, they're in the best condition for eating. Color won't help in judging their ripeness, as some pears are green and yet tender and juicy. If they're hard and unyielding to pressure, allow them to stand at room temperature for several days until the flesh softens.

Firm, slightly under ripe pears are best for baking, stewing, or broiling, as heat completes the ripening process.

Baked Pears with Sausage
[Serves six]

6 large pears
Juice of 1 lemon
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ pound bulk sausage
¼ cup water

Peel and core pears. Leave whole. Sprinkle with lemon juice and place a teaspoon of brown sugar in center of each pear. Crumble sausage; brown in a heavy skillet. Drain off grease and pack cooked sausage into pears, filling generously. Arrange upright in deep baking dish. Pour water around pears. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes, or until tender.

Pear Cream Pie
[One 9 inch pie]

⅔ cup brown sugar
⅓ cup water
Juice of 1 lemon
6 large pears, peeled and sliced
⅓ cup flour
3 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9 inch pastry shell

Bring sugar and water to boil over direct heat. Sprinkle lemon juice over pear slices and cook in the boiling sirup until tender. Drain sirup from pears. Cream together flour and butter. Gradually add hot sirup stirring constantly. Return to sauce pan and cook until very thick and smooth, stirring continuously. Add salt and vanilla. Blend pears in lightly. Cool and pour into baked pastry shell. Top with sweetened whipped cream or meringue. If meringue is used, bake pie at 350 degrees about 15 minutes.

Pear Turn-Overs
[Makes six]

¼ cup bran cereal
1¼ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
¼ cup cold water
2½ cups chopped fresh pears
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ginger

Crush bran into fine crumbs, then mix with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough holds together. Roll out ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut into 5 inch squares. Mix together chopped pears, lemon juice, brown sugar, and ginger. Place a spoonful of pear mixture on each pastry square. Moisten edges of dough, fold over, and seal. Prick tops with fork. Bake at 400 degrees about 35 minutes. Serve with lemon sauce.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Pumpkin Raisin Pie
[9 inch pie]

1¾ cups prepared pumpkin
½ cup white or brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons molasses
1 cup milk
1 cup seedless raisins
1 unbaked 9 inch pie shell

Combine pumpkin, sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger, eggs, and molasses; gradually stir in milk and raisins and mix thoroly. Turn into pastry lined plate and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 10 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake 30 minutes longer, or until knife comes out clean when inserted in custard.

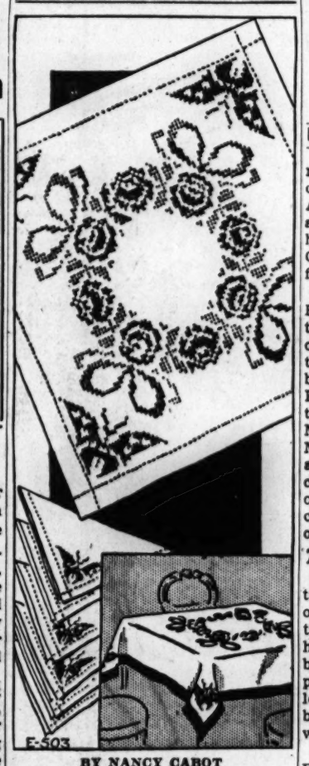
Luncheon Set



E-503

BY NANCY CABOT

A luncheon cloth and napkins embroidered in butterfly and rose motifs offer excellent opportunity for needleworkers to produce a charming and colorful set. Cross-stitch is the ideal medium for this combination of flowers and butterflies, since it is as light and graceful as the subject matter.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. E-503, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Joseph Marturano, Montclair, N. J.]

THE QUESTION

What is your opinion of man's theory that a woman's place is in the home?

WHERE ASKED

Palmer House arcade.

THE ANSWERS

Miriam Elfenbaum, student, 4939 Bernard st.—I'm inclined to disagree with them wholeheartedly. I think women have as much right to a career as men. If they both want to work, they could work fewer hours during the day and spend more time together. If a woman is interested in a particular field she should do that type of work.

Darlene Apple, student, 5040 N. Ridgeway av.—If a man is able to adequately support a wife and home, then the chances are his home would be more complete if his wife didn't work. But if the situation at home is not pleasant and there isn't enough income to satify either wife or husband they both should work.

Marilyn Marsh, dancer, 7241 South Shore dr.—Being a dancer, I believe a woman should have a career as well as having a home. Having a job gives a woman a certain amount of independence that I think she should have to keep her husband on his toes. I don't like to rely on any one else for a livelihood.

Lorraine Race, dancer, 4624 N. Kenton av.—I would like to be at home. But first I want to have my career. I think that getting out into the business world before settling down makes a girl appreciate a home more. If she can have a career that doesn't take her out of the home that is an ideal situation.

Connie Whitesell, student, Danville, Ill.—To a certain degree I think man's theory is right. There are a lot of men who would rather have their wives work. But if it's possible for them to get along I believe that the woman should remain in a home. Keeping a home properly is a full time occupation.

Nancy Cress, student, 8012 Drexel av.—If there are any children, the woman's place is positively in the home. A child will never know what it means to have the stable feeling of having a mother and a home if she works. I think this is vitally essential psychologically. I agree that a woman's place is in the home.

munity and War Fund's victory campaign, it has been announced. Adding to the excitement of the afternoon will be the between-halves appearance of Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, comedians of "Laffing Room Only."

Mrs. Otto Madlener and Mrs. Philip D. Block Jr., co-chairman of the women's special gifts division of the fund, will share a box on the 50 yard line with their husbands. Also with them will be Miss Barbara Selz, Miss Nancy Madlener, the Walter P. Paepckes, Mr. and Mrs. R. Winfield Ellis, the Clifton M. Utleys, the James R. Sterlings, and the William J. Kellys. The committee has reached 94 per cent of its $330,000 goal, and the entire campaign lacks less than a quarter of its overall goal of $13,040,700.

Today's Events

Mrs. Randolph Bohrer has invited the board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra and its 200 associates to tea at 3 p. m. today in her Cedar st. home to discuss plans for a spring benefit after the close of the symphony's season. Mrs. William Stanley will serve as chairman of the benefit, with Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll as co-chairman.

The woman's auxiliary of the Evanston Hospital association will hold a two day pre-Christmas sale today and tomorrow in the auxiliary shop in the hospital. Mrs. Julian Norris is chairman of the shop. The sale will continue from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

Members of the Woman's Athletic club and their guests will hear a lecture by Fitzroy Davis, Evanston author, on "Broadway's Best Bets" at 11:30 a. m. today.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson and their two children have reopened their Wilmette home following Mr. Nelson's release from the navy, in which he served as a lieutenant commander aboard the carrier Hancock.

Capt. Gordon Bent is on terminal leave following duty with the army in Germany. His brother, Maj. Charles W. Bent, is expected next month from Africa. Maj. William Roy Carney Jr. has returned from Europe and received his discharge. His brother, Capt. Otis Carney, will be released soon from the marine air force.

Capt. Joseph Redheffer has exchanged his army uniform, which bore ribbons representing the silver and bronze star awards and the Purple Heart, for civilian clothes, and is with his parents, the Raymond L. Redheffers, who have moved from E. Pearson st. to Lakeview av. His brother-in-law, William Rossmoore, who completed 68 missions as pilot of a Flying Fortress, is with his wife in New York and has entered Columbia university's law school. Raymond Redheffer Jr. is working toward his doctor's degree at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Early next month Maj. Thomas R. Coyne will discard his army uniform after more than three years of service, which included duty in China and India. Maj. Coyne is on leave in Kenilworth with Mrs. Coyne and their two children.

Capt. Ralph Stoetzel has been released from the army. He and his wife have found a garage apartment in Barrington where they will live until they are able to build on their property there. Mrs. Stoetzel's brother, Lloyd A. Schipfer Jr., has received his army discharge.

SOX START TO BUILD FOR '46; 45 ON ROSTER

Dykes Plans Early Pruning Campaign

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

It doesn't promise any more than usual for the hardy White Sox fans but, anyway, the club's roster as revealed yesterday along with the seven others in the American league, shows that Manager Jim Dykes as of the moment has a total of 45 players at his disposal.

The league as a whole has 348 athletes on the active list and as 202 chattels are still in the service of Uncle Sam the various rosters can be expected to swell considerably more by the time spring training rolls around.

Of the 348 now officially enrolled, 82 are fellows who did their bit in one way or another for Uncle Sam. Sixty-seven of these dischargees have returned since last mid-June. The expectation is that at least half the league's 202 still in service will be back on the diamond by the time the 1946 season opens.

Dykes Plans Pruning Activity

Boss Dykes intends to do some pruning within the next few weeks, or as soon as minor league landing places can be found for his excess but at present the roster is somewhat lopsided, what with 15 infielders, 17 pitchers, seven outfielders, and five catchers. One fellow, Harold Heineman, was signed as a free agent but what he can do on the ball field, if anything, apparently is a club secret.

John Rigney is back and that's one item that might contribute to a slight improvement around Comiskey park next season, it being patent that the Sox can use pitching of quality such as John was able to furnish before going to sea. And so is Chet Hajduk, teammate of Rigney in the navy. It is figured that Hajduk will take over first base, the presence of Hal Trosky notwithstanding.

Sox Enthuse Over Thomassie

The Sox think they picked up something in Peter Thomassie, whom they drafted from Memphis, and even if he isn't a Joe DiMaggio he might help out, the Dykes fly chasing situation not being especially comforting. Thomassie hit .365.

For the third straight year the Sox will try a third baseman purchased from Milwaukee. This time it is Eugene Nance, who hit .317 for the Brewers. One of the other Milwaukee third base graduates was Bill Nagel, recently returned to that club, and the other, Gray Clarke, who is back after a season in defense work. The Sox active roster follows:

INFIELDERS—Luke Appling, Floyd Baker, Alton Biggs, Gray Clarke, Tony Cuccinello, Kerby Farrell, Chester Hajduk, Murrell Jones, Rudolph Laskowski, Cass Michaels, Gene Nance, Joe Orengo, Dan Reynolds, Leroy Schalk, and Hal Trosky.

OUTFIELDERS—Guy Curtright, Ray Dahlstrom Oris Hockett, Wally Moses, William Mueller, Pete Thomassie, and Earl Knutson.

PITCHERS—Earl Caldwell, William Dietrich, Al Epperly, Chester Geidel, Orval Grove, Joe Haynes, John Humphries, John Johnson, Dovie Lide, Thornton Lee, Ed Lopat, Robert Mistele, Frank Papish, Leonard Perme, John Rigney, Dee Ross, and Clay Touchstone.

CATCHERS—Vince Castino, Tom Jordan, Art Michalski, Richard Skale, and Mike Tresh.

Bob Scheffing, who did some of the Cubs' catching in 1942, advised the club yesterday that he was back home from Honolulu after being discharged from the navy.

Keeshin Signs El Toro Stars for Pro Team

Denver, Colo., Nov. 26 (AP)—John L. Keeshin, Chicago sportsman and backer of Chicago's entry in the All-America Football conference, said today he had signed "a large percentage" of the El Toro, Cal., marine football squad to play with Chicago next year.

Keeshin said his squad would be coached by Lt. Col. Dick Hanley, El Toro coach, with Ernie Nevers, former Stanford star, as assistant coach.

Asked about reports that Elroy [Crazy Legs] Hirsch had rebelled at joining the Chicago team, Keeshin commented:

"When I say a player is signed, he's signed. And I say that Hirsch will be with us next year."

PIN STARS BACK SCORING METHOD

Use Petersen Point Plan in Tribune Meet

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The last four days of the All-Star bowling tournament opening a nine day stand Saturday morning in the Auditorium Service Men's center under the auspices of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, will be operated on the Petersen point system.

So you've heard of the Petersen point system, have you? At first, this pattern would seem to be confusing. Devised by Louis P. Petersen, the Chicago tenpin veteran, it has been the subject of a flock of controversies and innumerable attacks by various parties, but its most enthusiastic supporters are the men who count—the 144 who will go to the line in the big show at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

They Like It

The nation's leading bowlers, men like Buddy Bomar, Ned Day, Joe Wilman, Joe Sinke, Paul Krumske, and a host of others, subscribe wholeheartedly to this method of determining the winner of the national individual match game championship.

The first five days of the All-Star event will be conducted on a total pin setup. Out of the first four days, in which six 24-man squads will roll six games across the 12 Auditorium alleys, will come the 43 semi-finalists.

Ah, Here's the Dope

In brief, the Petersen system embraces four cardinal points. They follow:

1. The bowler is credited with one point for every 50 pins he knocks down.
2. He receives one point for every game he wins. [During the finals, each man will meet each of his 15 rivals in as many four game duels.]
3. In the event of a tie game, each bowler will be credited with a half a point, or the equivalent of 25 pins.
4. The bowler will receive credit for one point if he LOSES the majority of games in a match, but OUTTOTALS his opponent in pins for the match.

	Total
Bowler A....214 209 191 203—817
Bowler B....201 192 186 278—857

Bowler A has a total pinnage of 817. He receives one point for every 50 pins, or 16 17/50ths points. Having won three of the four-game series he gets an additional point for each game won, or three more points, making his aggregate for the four games 19 points 17/50ths.

Bowler B has a pin total of 857. He derives one point for every 50 pins, or 17 points 7/50ths. He also receives a point for the single game he won of the four, making his computation to this point 18 points 7/50ths.

He gets still another point for outtotaling his opponent in pins, altho he won the lesser number of games in the four-game series, making his total for the entire match 19 points 7/50ths. The fractions of a full point in each score are carried over and added to the pinnage in succeeding matches.

Knockouts Mark Opening of 15th C.Y.O. Boxing Tourney

BY FRANK MASTRO

Catholic Youth organization amateur boxers last night launched their struggle for titles in the 15th boxing tournament sponsored by the C.Y.O. in the center gymnasium. Novices met in four weight divisions. They punched away with determination and enthusiasm that kept the capacity crowd in an uproar for three hours.

Five of the first 12 bouts ended in knockouts. Whether they were featherweights or lightweights, welterweights or middleweights, all had the true amateur spirit.

More Bouts Tonight

The battle will continue tonight when 35 more bouts will be offered to clear the way for tomorrow's semi-finals. Survivors tomorrow will qualify for the finals in the Coliseum Dec. 18 when the 16 championships—eight each in the open and novice divisions—will be determined.

Among last night's winners were Joe Welzen, Santa Maria Del Popolo; Dick Neveux, De Paul academy; Lalo Sanchez, St. Rose of Lima, all welterweights, and Richard Guerrero, St. Francis Assissi, lightweight. All except Sanchez scored knockouts.

Lalo, who is a plater's helper at 1512 Fulton st., will return for second round competition this evening, along with the other survivors. He will be joined by his older brother, Al, who will be making his second attempt to capture a C. Y. O. open class flyweight title.

Welzen Draws Attention

Conroy appeared well on his way to victory when he landed a terrific blow to the head shortly after the battle started. To the amazement of the spectators Welzen remained standing and retaliated with a punch which sent his aggressive foe to the canvas. Referee Phil Collins didn't bother to start his count, awarding Welzen the decision on a technical knockout.

Sugar Bowl Picks Aggies and St. Mary's

New Orleans, La., Nov. 26 (AP)—The Sugar bowl skimmed the top off the remaining supply of football eligibles today by matching unbeaten Oklahoma A. and M. with once defeated St. Mary's of California in the New Year's day game here.

The Aggies, who routed Texas Christian in the Cotton bowl last January, romped this season over Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Denver, Utah, Texas Christian, Tulsa, Texas Tech, and Oklahoma. They have scored 252 points in eight games and boast the country's leading ground gainer in blond Bob Fenimore.

St. Mary's, upset, 13 to 7, by University of California at Los Angeles, has beaten California, Stockton Army Air base, Nevada, College of the Pacific, McClellan field, Southern California, and Fresno State. Sparked by Herman Wedemeyer, the Hawaiian, they have amassed a total of 269 points.

HOGAN WINS GOLF PLAY-OFF MATCH WITH McSPADEN

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 26 (AP)—Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., won the $10,000 Montgomery Invitational golf tournament by beating Harold McSpaden, Sanford, Me., with a four-under-par 68 in a playoff today.

Hogan took the $2,000 first prize money in Victory bonds with a birdie on the par five 18th hole. McSpaden negotiated the hole in five strokes to finish with a 69. He won second prize of $1,333 in bonds.

Each player had five birdies for the 18 hole round. Each went over par once. The victory was Hogan's fourth since he was discharged from the army in August and brought his total winnings for the year to $23,353 in bonds, in third place behind McSpaden and Byron Nelson.

TILDEN CHOSEN FENWICK'S FOE FOR CITY TITLE

Make Decision in 2 Hour Meet

BY DAVID CONDON

Tilden Tech's football team, for the fourth time in five years, will represent the public schools in the city prep title game Saturday in Soldiers' field. Tilden's opponent will be Fenwick, co-champion of the Catholic league.

The choice of Tilden, one of three teams which share the City league crown, was made yesterday after two hours debate by the league's football committee. During this time consideration was given each of the three champions, Austin, Schurz and Tilden, while the football coaches from each school were permitted to present their appeals.

Won't Reveal Method

The committee, headed by Coach Chuck Palmer of Fenger, refused to divulge what method was used in selecting Tilden, but it was indicated that the choice was not made by flipping a coin. In other instances the league committee has reached a decision by selecting an eleven which it believes will best represent the league.

Austin and Schurz, however, were not forgotten by the charity game sponsors, nor was St. Ignatius, Catholic league co-champion, which lost out on the flip to determine the parochial school entrant. These schools, as well as Fenwick, will be awarded complete new sets of uniforms as their share of the game's proceeds. In addition, squad members of each of the five teams will receive souvenir football awards.

Should Fenwick win, St. Ignatius will share the honors. If Tilden triumphs, Austin and Schurz likewise will divide the laurels.

In its three previous title game appearances, Tilden triumphed only once, defeating Weber, 13 to 7, last season after losing to Leo, 46 to 13, in 1941, and again being defeated by the Lions, 27 to 14, in 1942. A Tilden eleven won the All-City title in 1928, by defeating De Paul, 12 to 0.

Other Coaches Disappointed

Fred O'Keefe, Schurz coach, and Coach Bill Heiland of Austin each expressed disappointment that his school was not chosen, but accepted the committee's decision.

"My boys wanted to play in the city title game," said O'Keefe. "They all point for that. I think the post-season series has done more for prep football than any other thing. Naturally I'm disappointed for my boys."

"We had a fine team," Heiland said. "We lost out on the game by the flip of a coin last year, and lost another coin flip to Schurz after tying in the semi-finals. When the championship game was tied, we had hopes of gaining the final."

Altho Chuck Harvey is a member of the football committee, he was not permitted to vote. Other members of the committee, besides Harvey and Palmer, are Floyd Brown, Crane; John Boyle, Calumet, and Ed Dow, Senn.

Officials Are Selected

Following the selection, Harvey met with Fenwick Coach Tony Lawless to select officials for Saturday's game. Harvey and Lawless selected Bill Downes, Illinois Tech, as referee; John Boyle, De Paul, as umpire, and Elliott Hasan, Illinois, as head linesman.

The field judge will not be determined until today.

Yesterday's Breath

There is a current that runs thru a song,
Deeply, quietly, tender but strong;
And there is a whisper that wakens again
Things that we thought were so valueless then.

There is a wind as soft as a star
Sweeping and swirling with star-dust strewn

There is a magic staying the flight
And song is a miracle keeping the past

The Melody Lingers On

[Lines for Jerome Kern]

He gave the world so many happy tunes
To brighten hearts all down the trail of years,
"Look for the Silver Lining" was his theme,
With now and then a tender bid for tears.

How many lovers on the sunlit strands
Have found the theme song of their courtship days
His lilting "I Told Every Little Star."

And who can e'er forget the sad refrain
At time of parting and of fond goodbys,
That ever-haunting poignant tune of his
Remember it, "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes?"

"Ole Man River" and the "Show Boat" score,
Some of it approaching the sublime,
Will linger long in countless grateful hearts,
Soft echoes on the river-breast of time.

What general was it said long, long ago,
Tho many will, forsooth, declare him wrong,
He didn't care who won the nation's wars
If he could be the one to write its songs?

Adieu, soft strummer on the Harp of Life,
And tho your lute is stilled and you are gone,
But the melody will linger sweetly on! —Jazbo of Old Dubuque

PLAYERS HONOR OAK PARK END AND WAR HERO

Cody Elected 1945 Squad Captain

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 26 [Special]—Norman [Ned] Maloney, brilliant right end on Purdue university's football team, tonight was named the most valuable player for the season by his Boilermaker teammates. Maloney now becomes eligible for THE TRIBUNE's Silver Football trophy.

Ned Maloney

Maloney's selection was announced at the annual Kiwanis club banquet held in honor of the Boilermaker players and coaches.

Maloney, combat tested marine V-12 trainee from Oak Park, Ill., was an iron man thruout the season. His blocking and downfield moves in covering punts drew repeated praise from Head Coach Cecil Isbell. Maloney was a minor letter winner in 1942 before enlisting in the marines, and earned three battle stars on his South Pacific campaign ribbon before being reassigned for V-12 training. In the campaign on Bougainville, he spent 76 consecutive days and nights in combat action as machine gunner with a marine raider battalion.

Cody Named Captain

Ed Cody, hard running full back, was elected honorary captain for the season.

Cody, whose home is in New Britain, Conn., served as acting captain for the Boilermakers thruout the season and was the main cog in the effective Purdue running attack. During the 10 game season, he led the squad in scoring with 12 touchdowns for a total of 72 points.

He also was the leading ground gainer, carrying the ball from scrimmage 157 times for a net gain of 848 yards, an average of 5.40 yards a crack. Cody weighs 190 pounds, and is 5 feet 9 inches tall. He formerly served in the army air forces.

Twenty-seven major and 16 minor letters were awarded to members of the football squad. In addition to the varsity awards, special awards were made to 27 members of the B squad.

Jimmy Conzelman, noted football figure, was the principal speaker. Other speakers included Guy [Red] Mackey, athletic director, and Isbell. In announcing the varsity awards, Isbell paid tribute to the aggressiveness of a squad that surpassed pre-season predictions by finishing well up in conference competition.

OTHER TEAMS VOTE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Purdue's Boilermakers have named Ned Maloney, end, as their most valuable player and other Big Nine schools are in the process of selecting their outstanding stars of 1945. Those selected will compete for the Most Valuable player award established in 1924 by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Each of the nine players selected as most valuable to their respective teams will receive a miniature white gold football. When the list of honor players is completed the most valuable player in the conference will be selected by a committee comprising the nine football coaches, an equal number of veteran officials, K. L. Wilson, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference; Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE; and the writer.

Name Two Choices

Each of these 21 electors will name his first and second choices and these will be scored two and one points, respectively. The winner will be announced by mid-December. Les Horvath, quarter back of Ohio State's undefeated team, was the 1944 winner of the silver football.

Four linemen and five backs were elected most valuable players in 1944 by their teammates. Horvath then won in the balloting by coaches and officials. There are no restrictions on the selection of the most valuable players. The honor rests entirely on player opinion. Here is the list of nine most valuable players named last year:

Illinois—Claude Young, back.
Indiana—Jack Tavener, center.
Iowa—Robert Snyder, center.
Michigan—Don Lund, back.
Minnesota—John Lundquist, back.
Northwestern—Max Morris, end.
Ohio State—Les Horvath, back.
Purdue—Boris Dimancheff, back.
Wisconsin—Clarence Esser, tackle.

3 WILDCAT STARS LEAVE FOR ARMY SERVICE CALLS

Whan, Hagmann, Schuetz Ordered to Report

Civilian freshmen on Northwestern university's football team yesterday began marching toward army service. Don Whan, full back, Chuck Hagmann, tackle, and Paul Schuetz, guard, have been ordered to report to their home town draft boards for immediate induction.

Most of the other first year men who played prominent roles in Northwestern's surprising drive to fourth place in the Big Nine are expected to be drafted long before the 1946 season rolls around. Among those who face draft calls at the end of the current school term in December are Bob Piros, center, Ted Kemp, half back, and Jim Ryan, tackle.

Lose Navy Men, Too

In addition to the loss of nearly all civilian players, the Wildcats will also lose the services of most of the navy V-12 trainees who will complete their tour of duty before next fall. These include Capt. Max Morris and Stan Gorski, ends, Westi Hansen, tackle, and Dick Conners and Hap Murphey, half backs.

The team will be honored at the annual football dinner of the Northwestern University club of Chicago in the Continental hotel Dec. 8. One of the principal items on the program will be the election of the team's most valuable player who will be placed in nomination in The Tribune contest to select the most valuable player in the Big Nine.

Coach Waldorf Departs

Coach Lynn Waldorf left last night for Albany, N. Y., where he will be the principal speaker at the Albany Quarterback club tonight.

The engagement will be the first of many that will keep Waldorf busy until Dec. 20 when he leaves for Montgomery, Ala., where he will be co-coach of the North team in the annual North-South game Dec. 29.

Indiana, Ohio Dominate AP Big 9 Team

Indiana's championship team and third place Ohio State each won three berths to dominate the 1945 All-Big Nine football team selected for the Associated Press by the coaches.

Altho there were no unanimous choices, End Max Morris of Northwestern and Guard Warren Amling of Ohio State were close, receiving eight first team votes for 17 of 18 possible ballots. Selections:

FIRST TEAM

End—Ted Kluszewski, Indiana; tackle—Russell Thomas, Ohio State; guard—James Lecture, Northwestern; center—Harold Watts, Michigan; guard—Warren Amling, Ohio State; tackle—Clarence Esser, Wisconsin; end—Max Morris, Northwestern; quarter back—Pete Pihos, Indiana; half back—George Taliaferro, Indiana; half back—Edward Cody, Purdue; full back—Ollie Cline, Ohio State.

SECOND TEAM

IRISH ELEVEN GETS REST; FOUR PLAYERS HURT

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 26 [Special]—Notre Dame's football team returned today from New Orleans and, as a reward for beating Tulane Saturday, Coach Hugh Devore gave the entire squad a holiday. Four members of the team were hurt Saturday and two of them probably will miss the Great Lakes game, season final for the Irish.

Fred Early, right half back, definitely is out with an injured knee, and Right End Bill Leonard aggravated an early season leg injury and may not be able to see action. Elmer Angsman, right half back, and his substitute, Bill Gompers, also were hurt, Angsman suffering a shoulder injury and Gompers hurting his back.

MOUZON BOXES IKE WILLIAMS TO 10 ROUND DRAW

Philadelphia, Nov. 26 (AP)—Westley Mouzon of Philadelphia crashed into the championship limelight tonight by holding Trenton's Ike Williams, N. B. A. titleholder, to a draw in a 10 round event at the Indoor arena. Mouzon, weighing 138, had a 2½ pound advantage over the New Jersey boxer.

It was a nontitle bout, but the two lightweights gave the 9,799 fans who paid a gross of $28,303 a bruising battle for their money.

Serpico Bowls Two 300 Games in Trials

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 26 [Special]—Frank Serpico, one of the six Philadelphia area bowlers who will compete in the All-Star tournament in Chicago Saturday, finished practice for the meet by rolling two 300 games last night. Serpico had a 232 average for seven games. He had perfect scores in the third and sixth games.

Dempsey Gets Release from Coast Guard

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Comdr. Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, received his honorable discharge from the coast guard today after nearly four years of service.

ARMY PRACTICES FOR NAVY, WARDS OFF BOWL BIDS

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP)—While West Point athletic officials warded off bowl game feelers with all the dexterity of an experienced boxer, Army's football squad opened its final week of practice today for Saturday's battle with Navy at Philadelphia.

Col. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, graduate manager of athletics, disclosed that since Alabama was selected as the eastern team for the Rose bowl, Army has been approached by representatives of all the other New Year's day features but declared these overtures were being rejected even before they reached the invitation stage.

Military police patroled the fences today while the Cadets held a secret drill. The squad, which is in good physical condition, will leave for Philadelphia on Friday and work out there the same afternoon. The team will remain overnight at the Manufacturers' Country club, with headquarters in the Benjamin Franklin hotel.

NAVY STRESSES DEFENSE

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 26 [Special]—The United States Naval academy's football squad today began the final drive for the battle with West Point Cadets in Philadelphia's Municipal stadium Saturday.

A two hour practice session was held with attention concentrated on ways and means to check the power drives of Felix [Doc] Blanachard and end sweeps and off tackle thrusts of Glenn Davis, army's two great backs.

Skating Union Officers and Dates Named

The Amateur Skating union of the United States concluded its annual meeting in Chicago yesterday with the election of officers and the selection of dates and locations for the national and North American title meets.

Herb Schwarz of St. Paul, Minn., was elected president; Ben Bagdad, Detroit, Mich., 1st vice president; William Dawe, Brooklyn, N. Y., second vice president; Earl W. Solem, Chicago, third vice president, and Ben Ferber, St. Paul, secretary-treasurer. Herb Knudten, former president of the Illinois Skating association, was named referee, as were Lamar Ottsen of St. Louis and Al Hamilton of Cleveland.

Chicagoan Heads Starters

Richard McCarter of Chicago heads the starters, with Carl Englemen of Connecticut and Gilbert Von Willigan of Milwaukee. The list of chief judges includes Del Braughton of Michigan, Elmer Dietz of Missouri, Gene McGrath of Wisconsin, Ted Young of Missouri and Elmer Jacobson of western New York. James P. McWhirter of Illinois heads officials who will time the important races.

Award Title Meets

Pete Miller, former president of the Illinois Skating association and the Amateur Skating union, was named for the American Olympic committee along with Solem. Other members are Dick Sherman of western New York, Dawe, Bagdad, and Schwartz. Miller also was named as the representative of the National A. A. U. and United States Sports federation meetings next month.

The North American meets were awarded to Schenectady, N. Y., for Jan. 26 and 27. The national title meet will be held Feb. 2 and 3 at St. Paul.

ST. IGNATIUS IS INTERESTED IN EASTERN GAME

The Rev. Florian Zimecki, S. J., athletic director, and Coach Ralph Mailliard indicated yesterday the St. Ignatius eleven, co-champion of the Catholic league, would be interested in playing a post-season football game, provided arrangements were satisfactory.

Father Zimecki and Mailliard made this statement after being informed that Mount St. Michael's High school of New York had offered to meet any high school eleven east of the Mississippi.

Today Father Zimecki will negotiate with Brother Leo, Mount St. Michael athletic director, regarding prospects of the game. The New York team has indicated it would be interested in playing St. Ignatius.

AMLING IS NAMED CAPTAIN FOR 1946 AT OHIO STATE

Columbus, O., Nov. 26 [Special]—Warren Amling of Pana, Ill., tonight was elected captain of the 1946 Ohio State football team at the annual football banquet in the university gymnasium.

Amling, a junior, started this season at end but switched to guard, where he played on both the left and right sides of the line at various time. He is 20 years old, weighs 194 pounds, and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. He also participates in track and basketball.

Max Bentley Tops Hockey Point Scorers

BY EDWARD BURNS

Max Bentley

Max Bentley, by virtue of two goals and assist in Sunday night's 5 to 1 Blackhawk victory over the great Montreal Canadiens, is at the top of the National league list of individual scorers. The younger Bentley, with a total of 12 goals and five assists, passed Toe Blake of the Canadiens, pace setter in last week's tabulation. Blake, by the way, scored the Canadiens' only goal in the Sunday night game here, to lift his goal total to 11, plus five assists.

Third in the new individual list is the Hawks' Bill Mosienko, who has become quite a play-maker, tho he had not been expected to show a larger number of assists than goals. Playing on the same line with Max and Doug Bentley, rapid Bill has scored five goals and nine assists, more assists than any other player in the league.

Two more Hawks have point totals recorded in double digits, this group consisting of only 10 players in all. Alex Kaleta has made four goals and seven assists for 11 points and Clint Smith, who scored the first two goals in Sunday night's game, has 10 points—five goals and five assists. Still another Hawk is in the top dozen, same being Doug Bentley, who has made four goals and five assists.

The list compiled yesterday based on Sunday night's three games, is consistent with the form sheets, all the high scorers being established performers. The top 12 follow:

	G.	A.	Pts.
M. Bentley, Chicago	12	5	17
Blake, Montreal	11	5	16
Mosienko, Chicago	5	9	14
Stewart, Toronto	5	9	14
Cowley, Boston	13	0	13
A. Brown, Detroit	7	6	13
Richard, Montreal	6	3	11
Kaleta, Chicago	6	5	11

Apps, Toronto	5	5	10
D. Bentley, Chicago	5	4	9

Big 9 Offense Honors Won by Taliaferro

Official Western conference statistics revealed yesterday that George Taliaferro of Indiana was the all around offensive star of the Big Nine season.

The great Negro half back from Gary was the only Big Nine player to average more than 100 yards per game and was tied for second in the scoring race with 30 points. Taliaferro amassed 602 yards in the six conference games, 490 of them by rushing and the balance by passing or pass receiving. His rushing average was 5.05, second only to the 5.45 posted by Tom Cates of Minnesota. Cates, however, carried the ball only 51 times for his 278 yard net, while Taliaferro had the ball 97 times.

Ollie Cline of Ohio State, Bill Canfield of Purdue, and Don Kindt of Wisconsin scored 36 points each to tie for the lead in the individual scoring race. This was one of the lowest first place totals in conference history.

Quarter Back Ben Raimondi of Indiana won the Big Nine passing title with 62 completions for 470 yards. Raimondi's percentage of success on his attempts was .500. He won the title last Saturday against Purdue by completing six of 11 tosses, two for touchdowns, to go ahead of Purdue's Bob De Moss, who completed only one pass in the game.

Highest rushing average for the season, including performances in nonconference games, was attained by Jack Pierce of Illinois, who carried the ball 39 times for 300 yards and a 7.9 average. Best pass receiver was Bill Canfield of Purdue with 18 receptions for 245 yards. Max Morris of Northwestern was second with 13 completions for 232 yards.

Wisconsin's Rex John, a tackle, topped conference punters with an average of 40.8 yards on 27 kicks.

McMILLIN LAUDS WAR VETERANS FOR BIG 9 TITLE

Bo McMillin, coach of Indiana's Western conference football champions, yesterday attributed the squad's success to the competitive spirit and superb leadership of returning service men, including Full Back Pete Pihos and Tackle Russ Deal. McMillin spoke at the weekly Quarter Back luncheon in the Morrison hotel.

McMillin said Northwestern and Michigan were the best teams the Hoosiers faced during the 1945 campaign. He also rated Pihos as the greatest full back to play in the Western conference. Harry Stuhldreher, football coach at Wisconsin, and Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football league, were other speakers.

Holman Williams Loses to Moore in 11th Round

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 26 (AP)—Archie Moore of St. Louis scored a technical knockout over Holman Williams of Chicago in the 11th round of their scheduled 12 round fight in the Baltimore coliseum tonight. Moore floored Williams in the third round, and again in the 10th and the 11th before the referee stopped the fight.

PUBLIC SHOOTING GROUNDS HAILED AS BIG SUCCESS

BY BOB BECKER

The first Illinois public shooting grounds ever established for pheasant and rabbit hunters has been called a success by the hunters who were able to get on the area during the recent pheasant season.

The large tract of land acquired by Livingston Osborne, director of conservation, for this experiment in public hunting, is about three miles north of the town of Fox Lake and west on the high ground from the upper end of Grass lake.

A large majority of the hunters who filed early enough for permits to hunt pheasants on the state owned land said they not only had good sport there but are urging that the department of conservation acquire more acreage for public hunting, such purchases to be financed from license sales.

Good Scores Run Up

K. H. Long, the biologist who has been helping to run the public hunting grounds, reports that more birds would have been shot by visiting hunters if the boys could hit 'em and a larger number of retrieving dogs had been used to get the cripples.

Here are some of the scores of the parties who hunted on the area during the pheasant season: On Nov. 15, 38 hunters bagged 58 birds. On Nov. 18, there must have been a group of good shots on the grounds because 48 hunters bagged 75 cock pheasants. That was the largest number of birds killed during any day of the open season.

The best percentage of birds bagged per hunter was Nov. 23 when 32 hunters showed up and everybody got a limit of two birds. The state released 100 cock pheasants each day.

Long's records show that the most popular gun used by pheasant hunters was the 12 gauge with the 20 running a poor second.

Cover Broad Field

We were much interested in the occupations of the shooters who used the area. On Nov. 24, for example, the records showed that the shooters included a postoffice clerk, chemist, painter, paper cutter, machinist, carpenter, pipe fitter, candy manufacturer, engineer, dentist, doctor, and lawyer, among others.

One of the preserve hunters, who killed a woodcock [protected by the game code] on the area altho warned that only rabbits and cock pheasants could be shot, found that the value of one of these birds in a magistrate's court is $55, which figures at a lot of dollars per ounce, if you can keep it and eat it, which the court won't let you do.

PARSONS GAINS DECISION OVER DUBS IN RETURN

Bill Parsons of Danville won an eight round unanimous decision over Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., last night in the Marigold Gardens. Parsons mixed up punches to score, while Dubs was effective in the clinches. Parsons scored a two round knockout over Dubs in their initial bout two weeks ago.

A crowd of 1,689 paid a gross of $3,389 to see the show.

Robert Fowler of Chicago won by a technical knockout in the sixth round over Jimmy Hunt, also of Chicago. The latter suffered a cut eye in the fourth round and Dr. J. J. Drammus ordered the fight stopped at the start of the sixth.

Ray Carter of Chicago scored a technical knockout over Curtis Smith of St. Louis in the third round of a scheduled four round preliminary fight. In other bouts Hank Okura of Chicago won a close decision over Butch Maxwell of Gary, Ind., and James Adell of Chicago knocked out Dave Griffin of Gary in the third round of the scheduled four round opener.

COURT DECREES MILWAUKEE'S PLAN EFFECTIVE

Crowley Chairman, Shun Rail Delay

Reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad was completed yesterday when Federal District Judge Igoe signed orders amending the company's charter and turning over management of the road to five voting trustees representing various investor groups.

The trustees met immediately and elected as chairman Leo T. Crowley, chairman and president of Standard Gas and Electric company and former chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and foreign economic administrator. They also selected 10 other persons who will be asked to serve with them as directors of the new company. The first meeting of the board will be held in Chicago Monday.

Final action in the 10½ year bankruptcy litigation came unexpectedly. At the request of Rep. Reed [R., Ill.] Judge Igoe last week said he would postpone action on all railroad reorganization cases pending the outcome of a congressional investigation of all such proceedings.

"No Good in Further Delay"

Yesterday, however, he praised the parties to the Milwaukee action and said no good would come from further delays.

The trustees, who take over from the five reorganizational managers at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, and the investor groups they represent:

Crowley, for the 50 year 5 per cent mortgage gold bond holders; Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, for institutional investors; John D. Allen, vice president of Brinks, Inc., for mutual savings banks; Elmer Rich, president of Simoniz company, for both the institutional and savings bank groups, and James M. Barker, a director of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and president of All-State Insurance company, designated by National City Bank of New York, trustee under the adjustment mortgage.

Selections for New Board

Asked to serve as directors were William J. Corbett, president of the C. W. Marks Shoe company; William J. Froelich, attorney; James T. Gillick, vice president of the road; A. B. Keller, vice president and treasurer of the International Harvester company; William L. O'Brien, vice president of Fred J. Ringley company and director of Consumers company; H. A. Scandrett, president of the road; J. Otto Stoll, president of J. O. Stoll company; A. N. Whitlock, general counsel for the road; John Gallagher, Chicago, and Joshua Green, Seattle, Wash.

While the case was before the interstate commerce commission and the court, capitalization of the road was cut to $533,090,068 from $713,517,670, and fixed interest debt was set at $92,176,972, with annual requirements of $3,481,903.

Charges Total 14¼ Million

Capitalization also includes 1,121,740 shares of $100 par $5 preferred stock and 2,123,214 shares of common stock. Altho fixed interest will be less than 3½ million dollars, other fixed and contingent charges, including 5 million dollars for additions and improvements, bring annual charges ahead of stocks to 14¼ million dollars.

The reorganization, effective as of Jan. 1, 1944, provides for distribution of approximately 52 million dollars in cash to bondholders for interest accrued. It also provides for a new lease on the Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern railroad, and authorizes modified Terre Haute bonds.

The Milwaukee is the second major western road reorganized in Chicago courts in the last two years. Reorganization of the Chicago and North Western was completed in the summer of 1944.

CONFER ON RAIL UNIONS' WAGE, HOUR DEMANDS

Representatives of most of the country's railroads and heads of railroad brotherhoods will meet today in the Union station to begin negotiations on the unions' demands for wage increases of 25 per cent and shortened work hours. Five brotherhoods of operating employes are demanding the pay increase and other concessions for their 300,000 members.

The AFL railway department, which represents 400,000 shop workers, will present demands including a work week reduction from 48 to 36 hours with no pay cuts, it was learned.

50 Day Cooling Suggested in Some Disputes

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—Still deeply enmeshed in disagreements, the labor-management conference today received an industry proposal for public fact finding and a 50 day "cooling off" period prior to strikes or lockouts where public interest was involved.

The conference, entering what its leaders hoped would be its final week, is scheduled for a general session by Thursday—the first since it actually got down to work. However, Secretary George W. Taylor said the schedule depended on whether reports could be pried loose from the various subcommittees.

So far, only one subcommittee, on collective agreements, has its report ready. Sharp differences exist in three others.

Clement Amplifies, Labor Inquires

The fact finding proposal was submitted to the executive committee, and M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, offered an "amplification." After what Taylor described as "inquisitive" rather than "hostile" questioning from labor members, the proposal was referred to the steering committee.

Under its terms parties to a labor dispute, if unable to reach an agreement thru collective bargaining, voluntarily could give 10 days' notice prior to any strike or lockout to the governor of the state in which the dispute was pending.

If the governor believed a strike or lockout would constitute a public emergency or endanger the health or safety of the public, he would be empowered to arrange appointment of a fact finding commission.

Taylor told reporters he did not know who would "empower" action.

Intended for Public Utilities

In event of a national emergency or a dispute endangering health or safety, the President would initiate the fact finding commission.

In either case the panel would publish the facts without recommendations within 30 days. The disputants would be required to maintain the status quo at least 10 days more unless a settlement were reached.

Clement indicated the fact finding procedure would apply primarily to public utilities and emphasized its use would be entirely voluntary. He said any attempt to extend the principle of fact finding beyond cases where a work stoppage involved substantial public interest probably would lead to destroying the effectiveness of the principle. Clement added that other industry groups might agree on fact finding plans of their own.

EXPECT PARLEY ON SYNTHETIC RUBBER POLICY

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—The future of government built synthetic rubber plants in the United States is up for a policy discussion in Washington, D. C., Donald D. Kennedy, chief of the international resources division of the state department, said at a press conference today.

Kennedy would not speculate on the future of the plants, but emphasized they had cost about 700 million dollars and contributed heavily to victory when Japan held natural rubber sources.

A report Saturday by a study group of representatives of the United States, Britain, Holland, and France did not suggest any price agreement or means of controling production of either the synthetic or natural rubber.

Kennedy asserted the United States had no plans for stimulating South America's natural rubber production, but at present is obligated to buy all its exportable surplus.

Producer Shipments Dip to 9½ Billions in Month

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—The department of commerce said today that the value of manufacturers' shipments decreased again in September to 9½ billion dollars, 1 billion 100 million below August deliveries, and 3 billion 100 million below a year ago.

People and Events

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association the last 20 years, yesterday announced his retirement as active head of the organization. Smith, owner of a grain and live stock farm in Pike county near Detroit, Ill., was elected an I. A. A. director in 1923 and named president in 1926. He was unanimously reelected in 19 subsequent annual elections. I. A. A. officials indicated his successor would be elected at the close of the group's meeting Thursday.

Earl C. Smith

A forum on public utilities, during which private versus government ownership will be discussed, will be sponsored by the Investors league Thursday in the La Salle hotel. Speakers will include Representatives Boren [D., Okla.] and Dirksen [R., Ill.]; Purcell L. Smith, president of the National Association of Electric Companies; Ben C. McCabe, president of the National Tax Equality association, and Dr. B. C. Forbes, founder and president of the league.

Michael J. Novak has resumed his duties as traffic service agent in the commercial office of the Illinois Central railroad in Chicago. He entered the army in March, 1942.

WALGREEN'S NET PROFITS LOWER IN FISCAL YEAR

Walgreen company yesterday reported net earnings in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 were $3,130,332, or $2.20 a share, against $3,334,694, or $2.25 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. Net income was computed after setting aside $400,000 for contingencies in the 1945 period, and $600,000 in 1944. Further additions to the contingency reserve, which amounts to 1½ million dollars, are not expected, C. R. Walgreen Jr., president, told stockholders.

Portions of a remodeling and expansion program will be charged against the contingency reserve as soon as the supply of materials and labor makes it possible to proceed, he said. Three new stores were opened during the year, three were reopened, and 20 smaller stores were closed. Stores in operation on Sept. 30 numbered 427.

Sales amounted to $119,174,822, 1 per cent below the record set a year earlier.

TRUMAN NAMES EXPORT-IMPORT UNIT, FDIC HEADS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—President Truman today designated new chairmen for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and the Export-Import bank. He nominated Maple T. Harl of Denver, Colorado state banking commissioner, to head the corporation, which guarantees the public's deposits in banks.

As chairman of the bank, which makes loans to other countries, the President designated William McChesney Martin, former president of the New York Stock exchange. Leo T. Crowley formerly held both jobs.

Pork Supplies Top Year Ago 1st Time in '45

Pork production was increased again yesterday as another hog selling wave swept the corn belt and lifted tonnage above the 1944 volume for the first time this year. A month ago volume was running about 45 per cent behind last year.

Arrivals at the Chicago stock yards totaled 28,000 hogs, shipments direct to packers included, the biggest run since Jan. 9, and the largest on Monday since Oct. 30, 1944. The Monday run last week was 15,093 and the total a year ago was 24,829.

Prices Remain at Ceiling

The vast demand, however, held prices at ceiling levels—$14.10 per 100 pounds for packing sows and stags, and $14.85 for other hogs. Some smaller markets reported declines up to 25 cents, the first dip below ceilings since early January.

Heavier weights as well as larger numbers contributed to the tonnage above a year ago. Hogs were the heaviest on record for late November, and will produce about 25 pounds more pork each than last year, on the average.

Twenty major markets received 142,000 head, compared with 98,000 on Monday last week and 75,000 three weeks ago.

Other Receipts Dip Seasonally

Receipts of other live stock continued to taper, a seasonal trend. The 20 markets received 124,000 cattle, second fewest on Monday since Aug. 20, against 142,000 last week and 127,000 a year ago. Receipts of sheep and lambs totaled 77,000, lightest in three months on Monday.

Only 5,000 sheep and lambs arrived in Chicago, the second smallest Monday total since July. Brisk bidding between Chicago and eastern packers sent prices up 10 to 50 cents to peaks since August.

The 17,000 cattle in Chicago sold quickly at steady to 15 cents higher prices. Heifers as well as steers brought the $18 ceiling.

RISE IN ASSETS OF 1,000 FIRMS TOPS 18 BILLION

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—Reports of more than 1,000 companies disclosed an increase in total assets from $40,780,623,000 in 1939 to $59,264,790,000 in 1943, the securities and exchange commission said today.

Net worth increased from $30,135,638,000 in 1939 to $35,229,278,000 in 1943, the SEC said in releasing part 3 of a survey of American listed corporations which covers balance sheet data for the 1939-'43 period.

The study shows an increase in net working capital from $12,989,744,000 in 1939 to $18,374,556,000 in 1943. Dividends paid by the companies on preferred stock totaled $257,819,000 in 1939, $267,525,000 in 1940, $301,533,000 in 1941, $284,915,000 in 1942, and $305,256,000 in 1943.

Common stock dividends were: 1939, $1,514,636,000; 1940, $1,747,544,000; 1941, $1,959,995,000; 1942, $1,679,749,000, and 1943, $1,707,674,000.

BUTTER MAKERS URGE LIFTING OF PRICE CEILINGS

Butter industry men yesterday said their ability to meet expected increased demand depends on what action the government takes in raising or eliminating butter price ceilings.

Spokesmen at the annual meeting of the American Butter institute in the Drake hotel urged elimination of butter ceilings, some immediately and others within six months. They said farmers "can do better" selling their whole milk to ice cream and cheese makers than to butter manufacturers at prices the latter can pay under existing price structure.

D. K. Howe of the Fairmont Creamery company, Omaha, Neb., was elected president, succeeding E. E. Haskell, general procurement manager of the Beatrice Creamery company, Chicago.

Burley Tobacco Crop Again Will Be Allocated

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—The department of agriculture said today this year's crop of burley tobacco, totaling 601 million pounds, will be allocated among manufacturers and dealers under the fourth consecutive yearly program designed to assure equitable distribution. This type tobacco is used principally for cigarets and smoking tobacco mixtures.

WARNS START OF INFLATION IS DECEPTIVE

'Feel No Pain--Yet,' Says Folger

BY THOMAS FURLONG

In its first flush of inflation the country is feeling no pain, John Clifford Folger, president of the Investment Bankers association, said yesterday at the first session of the association's convention in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The inflation surge, said Folger, is manifesting itself in a dozen ways. Speculation is growing and investors are enjoying the sensation of watching their holdings rise in price. Labor is restless and demanding higher wages, ignoring the danger that its recent gains will be lost if the inflation is unchecked. Politicians are showing a disposition to appease all groups.

"Every one is so busy grinding his own ax and explaining his own position that he loses sight of the picture as a whole," said Folger. "Every one goes along with the crowd. The storm signals are out. Inflation feeds on appeasement."

"Appeasing Defrauds Every One"

Harassed as it is with taxes, business must be prepared for continued heavy taxes to reduce the government debt, said Folger. On the other hand, he asserted, labor "should pull in its horns on wages and get some goods on the shelves or the take-home pay won't buy a thimbleful. Appeasing every one defrauds every one, especially those who live on wages or fixed income."

Folger recalled that the federal budget has not been balanced since the second year of the Hoover administration.

"Our present unhealthy trend has been so long with us that we think of it as normal," he warned. "For 15 years we have been passing from one 'emergency' to another. The secretary of the treasury who reverses the trend will occupy a place in history with Alexander Hamilton. But he will need the will of the voters and a congress that will say no to pressure groups and increased expenditures.

Asks Securities Law Revision

"The debt cutters must beat the tax spenders to it. Thrift and solvency in government will cure inflation and salve our financial woes."

Folger also referred to current negotiations for an American loan to Great Britain and advised that the United States be "sympathetic but sensible" in its decisions.

Again asserting that the need for revamping federal securities laws is urgent, he said nearly half of the financing done this year has short circuited the elaborate machinery of the securities and exchange commission. This has been achieved by "private" sale of securities in which the issuer sells directly to a large insurance company or other similar buyer.

Despite this year's heavy volume of financing, only a trickle of new capital is flowing into business, he said. The investment business still is occupied mainly with cutting interest rates on outstanding securities, he emphasized.

Snyder Airs Report Industry Slows Output to Beat Taxes

New York, Nov. 26, (AP)—Reconversion Director Snyder said tonight the government is receiving "increasing reports" that some manufacturers are holding up delivery of consumer goods.

"One explanation given is that by doing this, these firms will escape a portion of the excess profits tax levies on their new production, since the tax goes off the first of January," Snyder said in a speech at a marketing forum of the Sales Executive club.

Increase Inflation Threat

He said it is "natural and to be expected" that "in our competitive system each businessman will, within our legal framework, operate to his own interest."

"But damming up the flow of goods is increasing the pressure against the controls that protect us from the threat of inflation, which is to no one's interest," he continued. "It would keep the goods from you distributors for the Christmas trade when distributors normally reach the year's peak of sales and activity."

Production to Bound

Referring to a reconversion survey by the civilian production administration, Snyder said by next June shipments by firms producing automobiles, refrigerators, stoves, radios, and many other metal products "are expected to be two and one-half times the 1939 rate."

He made no mention of the possible effect of current labor disputes on reconversion, nor did he refer to CPA's statement that its survey was based "on the assumption that there will be a substantial measure of industrial peace and continuous sustained production during the months ahead."

FEDERAL COURT VOIDS ICC RATE HIKE FOR BARGE BORNE GRAIN

That part of an interstate commerce commission order of Feb. 13 prescribing higher rail reshipping charges east from Chicago on grain brought in by barge than on rail or lake shipped grain was invalidated yesterday by a three judge federal panel.

The panel, United States Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Evan A. Evans and District Judges Michael L. Igoe and Walter J. LaBuy, held the order discriminatory. It said the ICC was without authority to adjust rates for equalizing the economic advantage of companies situated to enjoy low cost water transportation. The inland waterways system on which the barges operate was perfected by the state and federal governments at a cost of 60 million dollars so that commerce might enjoy the advantage of low cost shipping, the panel held.

Action was brought against the ICC by the A. L. Mechling Barge Lines and the Inland Waterways corporation. The ICC order provided rail charges on grain brought in by barge at 3 cents a 100 pounds more than charges on grain brought in by other means.

Hall Printing Declares 25 Pct. Dividend in Stock

Directors of W. F. Hall Printing company yesterday declared a 25 per cent dividend payable in common stock. Also ordered were an extra payment of 25 cents and the regular quarterly 25 cent dividend, bringing total 1945 cash disbursements to $1.25, the same as in 1944.

STOCKS BOUND IN WIDE RALLY; VOLUME RISES

G. M. Strike Moves Aid Optimism

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Stocks rallied on a broad front in today's market with favorites retrieving 1 to more than 4 points of recent losses.

Reasons advanced for the comeback varied. Among them were moves in the General Motors strike which aroused hopes that this dispute may soon be adjusted and, consequently, influence other labor controversies threatening reconversion. Sold out accounts were also reinstated when large offerings were lacking at the start and the belief grew that last week's reaction had provided a worthwhile technical correction of the swing to highs since 1931.

Trading Total Increases

Transfers were 1,530,000 shares compared with 1,350,000 Friday. The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 1 point at 74.5, a recovery of half the preceding week's tumble. Of 955 issues traded, 654

FOLLOW-THROUGH
Many men name The First National Bank of Chicago both as EXECUTOR—AND AS TRUSTEE of their estates to follow-through as investment manager. They know the advantages of the trust method of distribution. They realize that, no matter how sound an estate plan may be on paper, unless the property is effectively administered and conserved, the family may suffer.
They also believe a trust organization—that has satisfactorily administered thousands of estates in its long history—is best suited to cope with the management problems of today and tomorrow.
We invite you and your lawyer to discuss the many advantages of trusts, in your own estate program, with an officer of our Trust Department.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

To the Holders of Southern Railway Company's

Development and General Mortgage Bonds, 6% Series, due April 1, 1956; and Development and General Mortgage Bonds, 6½% Series, due April 1, 1956.

In furtherance of its program of retiring debt, Southern Railway Company has, within the past thirty days, purchased substantial blocks of its Six Per Cent and Six and One-Half Per Cent Development and General Mortgage Bonds, aggregating $2,650,000 principal amount, at the respective prices of 118 for the Sixes, and of 122 for the Six and One-Halfs.

The Company desires to give the same opportunity (to the extent its resources available for such purposes permit) to the remaining holders of these Bonds, and at the same time thus to augment its debt retirements before the end of the year 1945.

Southern Railway Company therefore offers to purchase, for retirement, up to $5,000,000 principal amount in the aggregate of the above described issues, at the following prices:

Six Per Cent Series

For each $1,000 Development and General Mortgage Bond, 6% Series.....$1,180.00, together with accrued interest on the principal amount from October 1, 1945, to November 30, 1945, inclusive, (being $10.00 for each $1,000 Bond).

Six and One-Half Per Cent Series

For each $1,000 Development and General Mortgage Bond, 6½% Series.....$1,220.00, together with accrued interest on the principal amount from October 1, 1945, to November 30, 1945, inclusive, (being $10.83 for each $1,000 Bond).

This offer is open between Tuesday, November 13, 1945, and the close of business on Friday, November 30, 1945.

Bonds should be presented at the office of the Company's Agent, The First National Bank of the City of New York, 2 Wall Street, New York 15, New York. Coupon Bonds must be surrendered with April 1, 1946, and all subsequent coupons attached. Registered Bonds must be assigned in blank or be accompanied by appropriate detached assignments, with signatures guaranteed.

Bonds will be paid for in the order in which presented until the above mentioned $5,000,000 principal amount shall have been acquired, provided, however, that the Company reserves the right (a) to accept such additional principal amount of Bonds, if presented within said period, as it may desire, accepting such proportion of each lot (to the nearest $1,000) presented as the aggregate amount of Bonds in excess of said $5,000,000 determined by the Company to be accepted bears to the total additional principal amount presented, without preference between the two Series, or (b) to reject any amount offered in excess of the first $5,000,000 principal amount presented.

The Agent will pay, with reference to any Bonds presented for account of the owners thereof by any Bank, Trust Company, Member of a National Securities Exchange or Member of the National Association of Security Dealers, Inc. (such Bank, Trust Company or Member not being the owner), a commission of $2.50 per $1,000 Bond.

All Bonds purchased are to be cancelled, and United States Stamp Taxes are not payable on the sale.

DO YOU WANT ALL 3?

First, a guaranteed monthly income for life at 55, 60 or 65. Second, a monthly income during any period of disability. Third, a monthly income for your wife and dependents if you die too soon. Yes, in one triple-duty plan . . . for only one premium . . . you can have all three of these important features.

Ask your agent or broker today about this special Continental contract—just one of the many services offered by this Chicago institution, one of America's largest and strongest life insurance companies. No obligation.

One of America's Largest and Strongest Insurance Institutions

CONTINENTAL ASSURANCE COMPANY

Affiliated with Continental Casualty Company—Transportation Insurance Company

—A Chicago Institution writing all forms of Accident & Health, Life Insurance, Casualty, Surety Bonds and Inland Marine Coverages

We have to admit that neither we, nor any other investment banking house, can offer our customers any top grade ten year bond investment to yield as generous a return as the U. S. Series E Victory Savings Bonds.

These are the bonds that if held 10 years pay back $4 for every $3 invested—an increase of 33-1/3%, or 3-1/3% per annum, simple interest. This is equivalent to a rate of 2.90% compounded semi-annually.

The investment is available only to individuals and each buyer is limited to $5,000 maturity value ($3,750 cost price) in one calendar year, but by naming different co-owners, one can buy a number of $5,000 lots.

8 MILLION MORE ASKED TO BUILD UP TROLLEY LINE

Junior Bondholders Submit Proposal

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

A new proposal that the Chicago Surface Lines take steps at once to spend at least 8 million dollars more than previously planned to hasten improvement of the lines' properties was presented in the federal District court of Judge Igoe yesterday.

Making the request were owners of the B bonds of the lines, represented by Attorneys William R. Morgan and John E. Gavin. They held that the cash in the company's treasury should be used for no other purpose than surface lines betterment. This totals about 24 million dollars. Judge Igoe accepted the petition.

Stand of Transit Authority

The Chicago metropolitan transit authority recently opposed any spending that would leave less than 12 millions applicable to "L" improvements.

The cross-examination of Bert H. Peck, an engineer, required nearly all of the court's day. Peck, put on the stand by the B bondholders, who would not get any of the purchase money to be paid by the authority, held to his contention that the lines are worth 138 millions.

Argues Figure Is Justified

The authority offer to the surface lines is only 75 millions, but Peck said the prospective earnings under peace time conditions would justify his higher figure.

Two committees of the city council, those on local transportation and traffic and public safety, appointed subcommittees to investigate operations of the Chicago Motor Coach company with a view to determining whether safety standards are being observed.

ERIE INVITES BIDS

advanced, 172 declined, and 129 were unchanged.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—A strong rally in Milwaukee railroad issues touched off a general advance among rails in today's bond market. Other groups were quiet but fully steady. Announcement in Chicago that Federal Judge Igoe had approved final reorganization papers for the Milwaukee company brought a rush of buying orders.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS

Prices finished higher in turnover of 43,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. More active gainers included Central and South West Utilities, up ⅝; Admiral, up ½; Libby, McNeill, up ¼, and Asbestos Manufacturing and Chicago corporation, each up ⅛. Four 1945 peaks were reached.

3 GROUPS TO VIE FOR AM. POTASH ISSUE OF STOCK

Three investment banking groups are preparing to enter competition for 479,000 shares of American Potash and Chemical corporation capital stock held by James E. Markham, alien property custodian, it was learned yesterday.

One group is headed by Blyth & Co., another by Mellon Securities corporation, and the third by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Glore, Forgan & Co., and Lehman Brothers.

Markham has invited interested parties to a public meeting in New York City Friday to determine the mechanics of sale and the method of distribution.

H. B. Munsell, vice president of United Light and Railways company and its subsidiary, Continental Gas and Electric corporation, told the securities and exchange commission the companies have arranged with a group of banks to borrow 75 million dollars to provide for redemption of their debentures by next Feb. 1.

Nickel Cadmium Battery, Easthampton, Mass., registered with the SEC 35,000 shares of $10 par value capital stock, 10,000 shares of which are held by stockholders. The remainder will be offered to present shareholders and a limited number of others at $10 a share.

GRAIN FUTURES FINISH STRONG WITH RYE AHEAD

Grain futures prices were strong yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Closing trades were about the top with rye leading. Old crop deliveries of rye rose 2½ to 2⅝ cents a bushel. September was up ⅝ cent. July rye, December and May wheat, and all deliveries of corn closed unchanged at ceiling prices. Active deliveries of wheat gained ⅝ to ¾, oats rose ¾ to 1⅛, and barley was unchanged to ¾ higher. December barley at one time sold at $1.22½, the ceiling.

Announcement that the army had purchased 860,000 sacks of hard winter flour late last week and that England was in the market for 660,000 sacks helped the wheat advance.

Steel Operations Rise to 83.5 Pct. of Capacity

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute estimated today that steel mills would operate this week at 83.5 per cent of capacity, compared with operations of 82.4 last week.

MILWAUKEE ROAD

This new preferred stock series A, par $100, under the reorganization plan, is entitled to yearly noncumulative dividends of $5 a share. In addition, in any year after $3.50 a share has been declared on the common, the preferred is entitled to participate equally with the common in any further dividends up to $1 a share.

The stock is callable in whole or part at $100 a share plus any declared unpaid dividend. Under certain conditions the preferred stock is entitled to elect a majority of the directors.

Outstanding will be 1,121,740 preferred and 2,123,214 common shares. On the reorganized basis, the company's yearly fixed and contingent charges ahead of the stocks will total $14,381,664. This includes a 5 million dollar fund for additions and betterments, half of which is mandatory, and against which depreciation allowances for roadway and structures can be applied. Earnings would have exceeded such charges each year after 1939, but would have fallen short of them each year for a number of years prior to 1940.

In only one year, 1932, of the last two decades did earnings fail to cover by a substantial margin the new fixed interest charges of only $3,470,005. In 1944 the amount available for charges, before deducting $3,216,574 depreciation of way and structures, was $38,467,114. After all charges on the new basis this would have left net income equal to $21.46 a preferred share. An amount equal to 50 per cent of any dividends must be used for retirement, first, of the new general mortgage bonds, and thereafter of preferred stock.

Brings Business "Invisibles" Into Sharp Focus

A Service for Executives Whose Lines are Sold thru Retail Stores

● The selling departments of your industry are resuming their pre-war status. Wandering dealers are realigning themselves with either new or ante-bellum suppliers. Just what is the picture now and how will it change from day to day?

Many new products are about to be launched . . . old established firms are entering new fields . . . others will test new sales plans.

These and many other important developments are revealed in detail by ACB's Newspaper Research Reports should they appear anywhere in daily newspaper advertising.

ACB reports have been used by leading merchandisers for many years. They are made up to your own specifications as to information or areas covered. A catalog covering 12 services will be sent executives on request.
